Drys Concede Defeat in Illinois

Today

Wet and Dry Fights.
Col. Donovan Suggests.
Will Mussolini Fall?
Does a Tariff Protect?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRIMARY CONTESTS throughout the country involve, many of them, bitter wet-dry fights.

Some thirsty optimists tell you with confidence: "Prohibition is on the downhill road and will soon come to an end."

They will grow old, gray and die, with prohibition still in the Constitution. To imagine that 36 out of 48 states would vote to take it out is folly.

COL. DONOVAN, better known as "Fighting Bill," is said to have a plan.

Since prohibition cannot be taken out of the Constitution, he would put in another amendment, nullifying the prohibition amendment. It would give the Federal government control of liquor transportation, with state and local governments controlling its sale.

Prohibitionists say that is like suggesting an amendment to nullify the women suffrage amendment by letting only three-legged women vote.

GEORGE SELDES, able newspaperman, returns from Europe, predicting "Mussolini's fall from power with his Fascist government trembling about his ears within a year."

Revolution will do the job, says Mr. Seldes, and Mussolini's enemies at home are preparing it. He thinks Mussolini might plunge Italy into war, to stave off revolution.

Other rulers have done that, and successfully.

FRANCE, EVIDENTLY, is convinced that her first trouble will come from Italy, and seeks alternately to placate and terrify the implacable and forever unterrified Mussolini.

Concerning that powerful leader, the marvel is that he has endured so long the terrific strain of gigantic responsibility.

And a greater marvel is, that with absolute power, and so many attacks on his life, he has ruled so moderately.

IF YOU DOUBT that a tariff can protect labor, ask Henry Ford when he returns from France.

He used to "assemble" cars in France, sending the various parts finished, putting them together. Hereafter he will manufacture the entire car in France INSIDE the French high tariff wall.

Thus, when a Frenchman buys a Ford car, he will buy nothing but FRENCH LABOR, with a small payment for Ford's brains.

Free traders might meditate on that.

UNTIL RECENTLY a public school in Oklahoma City had 1,000 pupils absorbing knowledge.

Now the pupils are gone and in the front yard a "gusher" is spouting 65,000 barrels of oil a day. The well belongs to the city and will pay for schools able to educate many times 1,000 pupils.

This ought to be a happy country, since our only complaint is that we have TOO MUCH of everything.

SOMEBODY HAS bought a picture for $55, and experts say a genuine Rubens is hidden under the cheap outside painting, and is worth $25,000.

It may be a genuine Rubens, and yet not WORTH more than $55, or 55 cents.

Pictures by Rubens in the Louvre, showing fat ladies in a royal procession, are worth less than 55 cents.

On the other hand, Rubens' picture of the crucifixion of St. Peter, head downwards, given by him to the little church opposite the house in Cologne in which his father and mother lived, has a value not to be computed in dollars.

TED GEISKIND, held in Louisville, Ky., suspected of murdering Jake Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, says he didn't kill him, didn't know him, never saw him and added:

"Except helping a jail break at Rising Sun, Ind., they haven't got a thing on me."

This interesting product of modern civilization adds casually:

"I have been in the liquor-running and hi-jacking racket for almost two years, but I didn't hang out with Chicago gangs, didn't know Lingle, nor Zuta, nor any of that outfit."

About Lingle, the gangster very probably tells the truth. Whoever shot the Tribune reporter had probably never seen him, and asked no questions. For a few papers of cocaine and $300, you can buy the murder of anybody, "put on the spot."

AS FOR THE supply of drugs, that will run short, under the present system. Detectives arrested an assistant baggage master on the big liner Europa yesterday, as he came off the ship carrying $20,000 worth of morphine.

SIX RUSSIAN officials were suspected of "counter revolutionary" activities. When fire started in big government buildings, pretending to put the fire out, they encouraged it. A laconic official announcement says three of them have been shot, three sent to prison for long terms.

Russia believes in thoroughness.

GIVE UP HOPE OF VICTORY IN POLL

Election Machinery in Grip Of Foes, Leader Charges; Nye Quiz 'Marking Time'

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—George B. Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, today conceded victory to the anti-drys referendum set for Illinois in November. The League, supporting an independent dry candidate for the United States Senate, already had asked its members to disregard the poll.

The league recently announced that neither of the major party candidates for the Senate could be depended upon and later indorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, running on a dry platform.

A statement from Safford today said:

"The wets are in control of the election machinery and will win by fair means or foul."

CENSURES MRS. McCORMICK

The statement also criticized Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee, for her decision to abide by the verdict of the referendum.

At the same time, Oscar Carlstrom, attorney-general of Illinois, again requested the Senate Campaign Funds Investigation Committee to hear him "in behalf of Mrs. McCormick and the state of Illinois."

Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman, announced that the committee has received a letter from Carlstrom, asking to appear. Nye said a decision would be made later.

Carlstrom attempted to appear Monday when Nye, with a state-

ROUNDUP SEEKS CAPONE, AIDES

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The 6,000 members of Chicago's police force today hunted the 26 "public enemies" listed by the Chicago Crime Commission, with Alphonse (Scarface) Capone, gangland overlord, the first on their list.

Backed by warrants last night by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle charging Capone and the other gang chiefs with violation of the vagrancy law, Chief of Detectives John Norton inaugurated the search. Judge Lyle, who made certain the warrants were returnable before him before delivering them into the hands of assistant state's attorneys, announced he would set the bond for each at $10,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—A former Department of Justice agent was identified by police here today as having aided "Scarface Al" Capone to get machine guns from a New York dealer.

Capone, it was said, planned to establish an armed fleet of rum runners, and bring liquor into Chicago and Detroit from Canada across the Great Lakes.

Beery's Wife Feared Slain

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Sheriff's deputies, acting on unrevealed information obtained from detectives and Noah Beery, film actor, today began an intensive search for his wife, Marguerite, or her body, in the expressed belief she had been murdered.

Mrs. Beery has been missing 10 days.

Lundgren Abandons Proposed World Hop

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Ted Lundgren, Los Angeles, announced today that he would abandon his attempt to fly around the world until next year. He and Roger Q. Williams, who was to have piloted his plane with him on the flight, left shortly after the announcement on a one-stop flight to Los Angeles.

Spanish Royalty On Visit to France

CIBOURE, France, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—King Alfonso of Spain has arrived here aboard the French destroyer Lynx. He will spend three days incognito at Biarritz and St. Jean De Luz. Queen Victoria, who is attending a charity benefit at San Sebastian, will join the King today.

ACTRESS, SIRE RECONCILED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—A sick-bed reunion between Ann Harding, stage and screen star, and her father, Col. George X. Gatley, has just been effected here, it became known today.

Miss Harding's strong determination to go on the stage, a number of years ago, against the just-as-strong determination of the colonel to keep her from the stage, was the cause of the long estrangement.

For some time, Miss Harding played with the George Sharp players, a Pittsburgh stock company, opposite her husband, Harry Bannister.

It was at the sick bed of her father, in Leterrman Military Hospital, here, that the long separation came to an end.

JESTER MINUTE

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

In politics a detective is your future shadow. The biggest laugh of all is that Mrs. McCormick's sleuths lost Senator Nye on a miniature golf course. The Senator claimed it was a bird sanctuary.

Justice is a simple thing in New York City. First you violate it. Then you dispense it. Our advice to poor, honest boys is to save their bribes and to remember that Luther Burbank was a fish for confining his grafting to trees and cactus bushes.

We will believe that peace conference in Geneva is on the level when Mussolini walks in with a bouquet of pansies in his hand.

M'GOVERN SEES TOWN HALL AS COSTLY FAD

Renews Opposition but Will Support Downtown Site If Project Goes Through

Branding public auditoriums a fad and a financial failure in other cities, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today reiterated his opposition to the long-discussed Town Hall for this city, for which $6,000,000 bond was authorized by popular vote.

Because the project was a mandate of the people, McGovern declared he would, if compelled to support one location as against another, favor a downtown site.

This was the first intimation any of the commissioners had given of their preference as to a site.

OPPOSES HALL

McGovern, speaking at a continued hearing of the commissioners on the subject of a site, said:

"I have been from the beginning and am now opposed to the ownership of any public building by the county for use in competitive business and especially a building such as the type of the proposed Town Hall.

"I voted against the bond resolution and the Town Hall item at the special bond issue election.

"I am against the principle of the county going into any kind of business, and above all the show business."

McGovern cited the Old Exposition hall as an instance of a building which "became a wreck" after taken over by the city.

CITES LOSSES

The Cleveland auditorium and the gigantic hall provided by the public in Atlantic City are both operating at a loss, McGovern declared. He continued:

"A number of municipalities have built town halls in the past few years. We should not accept this as a reason for our doing so above the interest of the taxpayers of the county. The question first and last is the

CarnivalsRun Wild in City

The "carnival spirit," said to be more ruthless in separating customers from their money than the gunman holdup game, and in which some city employes are reported as chief beneficiaries, is running wild in Pittsburgh.

An employe of the Public Safety Department, presided over by Director James M. Clark; an elevator operator at Central Police Station and a man holding the towel concession in the City-County Building, are said to be operating a carnival at South Twenty-third and Jane streets.

'SUCKERS' TRIMMED

Another "carnival," said to be even more ambitious in the gathering of "sucker" money, is running wide open in Penn avenue, near Sixteenth street. Four other of the carnivals are said to be operating in the city, two in the Frankstown avenue district, one in

His money from his many four-figured purses squandered, Charles (Porky) Flynn, of Elizabeth, N. He was charged with drunkenness.

At a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today he was discharged.

TAKEN FOR RIDE, PITCHER RHEM EXPLAINS

Kidnaped by Gunmen, Forced To Drink, Cardinals' Star Hurler Declares

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Flint Rhem, whose sturdy right arm has played an important part in the St. Louis Cardinals' drive pennantward, and who was to have pitched today against Brooklyn in a game with the National League leadership at stake, has fallen from the water wagon, but he told Manager Gabby Street that the fall was forced upon him by "two armed men."

GONE 24 HOURS

Rhem, today's Globe-Democrat says in a story from a staff correspondent, returned to the Cardinals' hotel in New York, late last night, after being gone for 24 hours, and reported to Street that two armed men had forced him to accompany them to a roadhouse, Monday night, then poured liquor into him all that night and yesterday. Releasing him near the Cardinals' hotel last night, he said, the men had warned him not to pitch against Brooklyn.

CHANGES PITCHERS

Rhem, who has won his last six starts on the mound, was to have pitched against Brooklyn there today, but Street announced he had switched to the big Swede, Sylvester Johnson, and that he would follow Thursday with Burleigh Grimes.

After ordering Rhem to get some sleep, the story adds, Street told the Globe-Democrat correspondent he would take no action against the pitcher. He said:

"I'm trying to win a pennant and Rhem is a first-class pitcher. He has been hewing to the line all summer and I believe he can win more games."

CARDS-ROBINS LEAD AT STAKE

Associated Press.

By their 1-to-0 triumph over Brooklyn in yesterday's great pitching battle, the St. Louis Cardinals regained a game they had lost, and again took first place by the slender margin of one point over the Robins. The teams are practically on even terms, Brooklyn having won one more game than St. Louis and lost one more.

The Robins likewise have fewer games to play than any of the four contenders, with only nine left, while St. Louis has the greatest number left, 11.

The third-place Chicago Cubs, although shut out, 7 to 0, by the New York Giants, remained only one and a half games behind first place and well within striking distance of the top.

The Giants, picking up a full game, still are four and a half games back of first place. They have been defeated five more times than St. Louis, however, and have a hard struggle ahead of them to remain in the race. The standing of the leaders:

Club	Won	Lost	Pct.	Games To Behind	Play
St. Louis	82	60	.536	...	11
Brooklyn	84	61	.579	...	9
Chicago	82	62	.569	1½	10
New York	79	63	.549	4½	10

Here's what will happen if they win or lose today:

Club	Win	Lose
St. Louis	.583	.576
Brooklyn	.582	.575
Chicago	.573	.568
New York	.552	.545

City to Tax Bowling Alleys

Council today, during discussion of a proposed change in the city amusement tax as it pertains to miniature golf courses, learned that bowling alleys are operating without tax while billiard rooms are subject to a levy of $10 a month.

No explanation was forthcoming as to how the alleys had escaped the tax all these years, but steps were taken to remedy the oversight. The city solicitor was instructed to draw up an ordinance providing for payment of miniature golf course taxes yearly, instead of monthly, but no specified levy was agreed upon.

The solicitor also was told to include bowling alleys in the ordinance, placing them in the same category as billiard rooms.

VANDERBILT MAY PLEAD TO CANCEL VICTORY

Falling Sail Snatches First Chance for Lipton Boat In Bow-to-Bow Contest

BULLETIN.

International News Service.

ON BOARD THE PARTHENIA, Outside Brenton Light, Sept. 17.—Nautical experts believed Enterprise was winging its way alone to victory in the third race of the America's cup series this afternoon, with the probable intention of spurning its laurels at the end of the contest.

The accident which robbed Shamrock V of its mainsail, it was said, left Harold Vanderbilt, skipper of Enterprise, no alternative but to finish the 30-mile course, the penalty for failure to do this being possible disqualification as captain of the defender.

After crossing the line he can appeal to the race committee to declare the race no contest.

International News Service.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. KANE, off Newport, R. I., Sept. 17.—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, was eliminated this afternoon from the third race for the America's Cup series when she became disabled after traversing only five miles of the 30-mile course.

She was racing neck and neck with Enterprise, the defender, when an accident to her rigging suddenly put her out of commission.

Shamrock's big main sail came tumbling down—part of it on deck, the rest in the water.

The race had been in progress only three-quarters of an hour when the accident occurred.

Enterprise proceeded. She had only to sail the full course to claim her third straight victory, virtually putting an end to Sir Thomas' hopes of returning to England with the trophy. A fourth victory for Enterprise would end the series.

SHAMROCK'S FIRST CHANCE

At first Shamrock turned back, apparently heading for home. Then her officers held a conference with Sir Thomas, who came alongside on his private yacht, Erin. The challenger, with only head sails set, then turned and pitched along slowly. However, after only a few minutes of this she was taken in tow by a power boat.

Shamrock had been in the running in this race for the first time since the series started, getting away to a lead and holding it for virtually all of the first five miles.

Enterprise, skippered by Harold S. Vanderbilt, had just closed the

Kellogg Elected To League Court

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Frank B. Kellogg today was elected to the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations, to replace Charles Evans Hughes.

The Kellogg election was made jointly by the league's assembly and council in secret balloting. Later, Kellogg is expected to be chosen for the full nine-year term, beginning January 1.

Wife Tree Sitter Follows Mate, Casualty, to Earth

The man-and-wife contestants for tree-sitting honors were parted early today after lounging for 44 hours on the bare limb of a tree in the rear of 1016 Gibbon street.

Joseph Reed was forced down when his nose began to bleed profusely.

The cause was not known, but when ordinary measures failed to stop the hemorrhage, his managers deemed it best to bring him down. His wife, Marie, continued her stay in the cold, hard branches until she had reached 51 hours. Then she descended.

The couple, to settle an argument and establish a new style of tree-sitting record, ascended Monday morning and had parked there since without platform, back rest, cushion or shelter.

Elliott's hand-shakers, Joseph Cue and Charles Mathews, after more than 324 hours, today were still sticking to their task. Friends say they are in good shape, considering the long-continued grind and lack of sleep, and seem likely to establish the 500-hour record they seek.

High Officers Shed Tears As Naval Chief Retires

—(AP.)—Officers from admirals down the line to lieutenants passed before Admiral Charles F. Hughes as he retired today from the office of chief of naval operations—hardly one of them dry-eyed.

The admiral said:

"Gentlemen, I just want to say good bye. Thank you for your loyal and cordial assistance and I trust it will continue."

The 63-year-old officer stepped back, beside Secretary Adams. His successor, Admiral William V. Pratt, said only that he was "sorry to see Freddy go."

Applause came from the Navy men who had gathered. Admiral Pratt was then sworn into office.

In a brief interview after the ceremony, Admiral Pratt said he wanted a "treaty navy." He will get to work at once on the naval building program.

DRY ISSUE HITS BOTH WAYS IN LAST GROUP OF PRIMARIES

BUTLER WINS BAY STATE CONTEST

La Follette Swamps Kohler; Liberals See New Gains Despite Confusing Vote

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—An overwhelming progressive victory in Wisconsin and a confusing series of wet and dry victories in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware, Ohio and New York early today featured the returns from the last state primaries and conventions prior to November's elections.

The La Follette family demonstrated its control over the Republican party in Wisconsin when Philip F. La Follette aided by his brother, Senator Robert F. La Follette, Jr., won the Republican nomination for governor. La Follette defeated the incumbent governor, Walter J. Kohler, with the nomination equivalent to election.

BUTLER WINS

The Massachusetts result was surprising with drys capturing the Republican nominations and anti-drys winning the Democratic contests.

William M. Butler, friend of former President Coolidge and former Republican national chairman, appeared to have won the Republican senatorial nomination, won the Republican senatorial nomination as a dry, running against Eben S. Draper, young manufacturer. Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, "bay boy" mayor of Newburyport ran a poor third.

Gov. Frank G. Allen, a dry Republican, likewise seemed to have won a renomination. The Bay State Democrats, however, voted wet, with Marcus A. Coolidge running ahead for the senatorial nomination and Joseph B. Ely for the gubernatorial nomination.

Both Coolidge and Ely were wet in campaign.

In Connecticut the Republicans in convention nominated Ernest E. Rogers, a dry, for the governorship, but turned right around and adopted an anti-dry plank on prohibition.

BAYARD NOMINATED

In Delaware, the Democratic state convention went dripping wet. It first nominated former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, and then adopted a platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. This will make the Delaware senatorial contest in November a direct battle over prohibition, since Senator Daniel O. Hastings, Republican, is dry and is running on a dry plank.

In Ohio, the Democrats adopted a state platform free of prohibition utterances. This was regarded as a victory for the drys, since Robert J. Bulkley, anti-dry of Cleveland, won the senatorial nomination in the primaries last month.

N. Y. SEEMS IMPARTIAL

In New York, Congressional drys and anti-drys both were victorious. It appeared that the Republican and Democratic organizations nominated their favorites, regardless of views on prohibition.

Among those defeated was Representative S. Wallace Dempsey, avowed dry, who lost to Walter G. Gresham, of Buffalo, an anti-dry.

In Chicago, Representative Fred A. Britten, anti-dry Republican, was assured of re-election when his Democratic opponent, Thomas Rohan, withdrew from the race. Rohan said he wanted to see Britten win.

The anti-drys seemed to have gained ground in the primary contests. They held their own in Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin, and scored victories in Connecticut and Delaware. They also added Massachusetts and Delaware to the states in which prohibition will be a paramount issue in the Senatorial elections next November.

Reds' Terrorism Spreads in China

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Dispatches from foreign naval patrols today said Communist depredations above Wusueh, Hupeh province, were continuing on an increasing scale. The Reds destroyed many villages on either side of the Yangtse River, advices said. Villagers fled in terror, many seeking refuge on a sand bank above Wusueh.

Japan Expected to Ratify London Pact

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Opposition to the London naval treaty had dwindled to such an extent today that it was authoritatively stated the plenary session of the privy council October 1 would be expected to recommend the Emperor's ratification without any qualification.

TUTTLE QUITS, URGES REPEAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—In the wake of his resignation and statements advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment and that he was not a candidate for office, Republican leaders predicted today United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle would seek the Republican nomination for governor.

Tuttle announced last night he had forwarded to President Hoover his resignation to take effect not later than November 16.

In a statement Tuttle said he had reluctantly and slowly formed his opinion on prohibition. His program for the solution of the problem was stated as follows:

Repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Constitutional guarantee, forbidding everywhere traffic in intoxicating liquor for private profit, thus preventing the return of the old-time saloon.

A guarantee in the federal constitution, empowering Congress to vest in the national government power to co-operate with the states adhering in whole or in part to prohibition and aiding them against invasion of intoxicating liquors from anti-dry territory.

Rum Runner Slain On Visit to Friend

MONROE, Mich., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Gaspar Valenti, known to police as a rum runner, was shot to death early today on the premises of Nick Vitale, an acquaintance whom he had come to visit, accompanied by his wife.

Vitale and Valenti's wife, Mary, were taken into custody by Monroe police. Both professed to know nothing about the killing. Police said Vitale also is known as a liquor runner.

necessity for such a hall and the cost to maintain it after it becomes a county obligation."

Soldiers Memorial Hall, with accommodations for 2,000 persons, costs between $40,000 and $50,000 a year to maintain, McGovern asserted.

Syria Mosque and other large buildings in the Oakland district have never paid, the commissioner declared.

At the conclusion of McGovern's remarks, F. F. Nicola, advocate of an Oakland site, declared:

"This is the first time a challenge has ever been put to the civic center of Pittsburgh. It is the first time I had heard the Mosque and other structures out there were not a success."

NO ACTION TAKEN

Commissioners J. G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, with McGovern concluded the hearing without action.

Throughout yesterday afternoon, in their conference room, the commissioners listened to advocates of various sites. Ex-Mayor William A. Magee, representing the Allegheny County Downtown Town Hall Association, spoke in favor of two sites—one at "the Point" bounded by Liberty and Penn avenues, Barbeau and Water streets, and the other bounded by Grant street, Boulevard of the Allies and Water street.

MAGEE SPEAKS

Magee spoke at great length, explaining in detail the advantages of the downtown locations.

Other sites presented were one at Morewood, Center and Amberson avenues and Bayard street, the Duquesne Garden-Jennings property in Craig street at Fifth avenue, which was presented by Attorney H. K. Irons, and the Duquesne University site, presented by Father Martin A. Hehir, president of the university.

Saxton Backs Old Exposition Site for Town Hall

The Old Exposition property at the Point is an ideal site for the proposed Town Hall, in the opinion of C. L. Saxton, real estate dealer, who advocates a downtown location in a statement issued today.

Accessibility to railroads and hotels are merits of the Exposition site, he asserts, and declares there is no need of spending $1,000,000 or more on a site when the city owns the most suitable location, comprising more than seven acres.

Mr. Saxton said:

"I firmly believe 75 per cent of the taxpayers would vote for this site, not only from the economical standpoint but from accessibility and convenience as well."

PINCHOT RAPS HEMPHILL

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Departing from the mountains outside of Franklin where he was the over-night guest at the home of John L. Hanna, Venango County Republican leader, Gifford Pinchot, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, today carried his aggressive campaign for election to Tionesta, Clarion, Brookville, Punxsutawney and DuBois.

Last night in addresses at Oil City and Franklin, the former governor renewed his plea for a heavy vote that will send him to Harrisburg without having his hands tied and attacked John M. Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal party opponent, for alleged silence on regulation of utilities.

Pinchot charged that Hemphill was the "candidate of the utilities companies" and the Philadelphia "gang."

Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, who made an unsuccessful run for the Republican nomination for governor on an anti-dry ticket in the primary May 20, has pledged his "fullest" support to John Hemphill, anti-dry candidate for governor of the Democrat and Liberal parties, according to Charles Dorrance, state chairman of the Liberal party.

Dorrance has been in Pittsburgh since Monday, surveying the local political situation and interviewing business and professional men with the objective of forming an organization to conduct Hemphill's campaign in Allegheny County.

Coolidge Suggests U. S. Should Aid Argentina

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 17.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

While news from the Argentine is somewhat meager, what is received is favorable. The country seems free from disorder and we hear very little of any political persecution of former government officials.

Calvin Coolidge.

Gen. Uriburu is seeking recognition by our government. It is well known that we have little sympathy with revolution. At the instigation and urgent solicitation of the Central American republics we joined them in a treaty agreeing not to recognize revolutionary governments in those countries. That agreement we shall keep, but in the case of the Argentine we are bound only by the usages of international law. According to custom any country has a right to determine its own form of government provided it does not violate the rights of foreign citizens or governments.

We are bound by ties of sympathy and friendship to the people of the Argentine. We have large commercial interests with them. As soon as they have a stable government capable of discharging the obligations due to the citizens of other countries under international law, the people of this country would wish to grant recognition. Friendship for a people is best demonstrated by helping them in time of need.

ESCAPE FOILED, LEADER URGES SUICIDE

Wanted Cornered Convicts To Kill Selves, Inquiry In Prison Break Reveals

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Cornered with three others by guards and police after an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the Maryland State Penitentiary, Rawlings V. Whittemore, serving 20 years for robbery, tried to get the others to kill themselves.

Failing, he turned the pistol on himself but the cartridge failed to explode.

The drama of the desperate attempt late yesterday of nine convicts to flee over the high walls of the prison in downtown Baltimore was revealed today with the excitement stilled and an investigation under way.

GUARD IN HOSPITAL

The one casualty, a guard, Arthur Owen, 31, was in a hospital with a wound in his side, but the opinion was expressed that he would recover. An investigation by prison and state agencies was under way and officials said they planned to get the prisoners to re-enact the attempt.

Warden Patrick Brady said today he learned that Whittemore, brother of a man hanged in the prison several years for a murder in a similar escape attempt, said to the three others:

"Let us bump ourselves off. They'll give us the rope anyhow."

The others refused to consider suicide and Whittemore announced he would shoot anyone who tried to enter or leave the laundry, where they were barricaded. His fellow convicts pointed out that Owen, disarmed and shot at the start of the escape attempt, might not be dead, and after an hour, Whittemore and his three allies surrendered. Five others had given up earlier.

RIOT AVERTED

The fact that only nine of the more than 1,000 prisoners were implicated in the attempt and that the rope ladder failed to function, prevented, officials said today, the likelihood of a riot of the caliber of those in recent months at Columbus, O., Canon City, Col., and Auburn, N. Y.

The Maryland prison, last December in a report of the National Society of Penal Information, was called "the worst in the East from a physical standpoint," and the morale was characterized as "plainly low," due to overcrowding.

That the escape plot was well organized was indicated by a police search for six men not prisoners believed to have aided in engineering the flight attempt. The six, in three automobiles, circled the walls several times just before the outbreak.

All the prison shops were running today, Warren Brady said, and no disturbances were reported last night.

gap that separated the two sloops when the accident occurred.

There was no chance to effect repairs on Shamrock as she furled up her ill-fated main sheet. Meanwhile most of the big fleet following the race headed back for port, while Enterprise sailed majestically, almost alone, into the distance.

MAY ASK POSTPONEMENT

The possibility existed that the Shamrock would ask a postponement of the race scheduled for tomorrow to make repairs. One more victory for Enterprise will settle the series.

An official announcement was made from the Susan A. Moran committee boat, that Shamrock had parted her main halyard. The committee did not know whether the challenger would be able to compete tomorrow.

SHAMROCK'S BEST START

It was a beautiful start today, and by far the best Shamrock had yet made in the series. In both previous races Sir Thomas' boat got off poorly, but this time Shamrock had better luck.

A few minutes after the two sloops sailed away from the line, Skipper Vanderbilt swerved the defender over on the port tack in an apparent effort to shake off the challenger.

But Shamrock followed. She was considerably to the weather of Enterprise, and in the most commanding position she had yet held.

Then Shamrock surprised many in the marine audience by sailing into the lead. It was the first time during the series that the challenger was out in front.

VANDERBILT OUTSMARTED

Both boats had come down the starting line more than a minute before the signal was sounded.

Both skippers—Vanderbilt, of the Enterprise, and Capt. Ernest Heard, of the Shamrock—had timed the start precisely.

Although they had to round down the line a considerable distance they threw their helms over just as the committee's tug whistle sounded and they went over bow-to-bow.

Shamrock's navigators had outsmarted Vanderbilt, the wizard of racing starts—and for the first time since the series opened Enterprise found herself in the weather berth. However, Enterprise was footing much faster and went through her lee.

ENTERPRISE GAINS

Both boats were carrying baby jib topsails, jibs and staysails as they went over the line for the 15-mile beat to windward.

At 10:52 Shamrock, for a reason that was not evident, went over on her port tack and was quickly followed by Enterprise.

The maneuver seemed to be just to Vanderbilt's liking, and the Enterprise started footing along faster than the challenger.

At 11 o'clock the initial advantage of Shamrock was largely overcome, as Vanderbilt worked the white boat up to weather of the Shamrock, and about two boat lengths back, too close for Shamrock to cross his bow.

Shortly afterward occurred the accident that put Shamrock out of the running.

ACQUITTAL GRATIFIES THOMPSON

Former Coal Baron Sees Verdict Having Bearing On Contempt Hearing

Acquitted on an embezzlement charge brought at Uniontown by Gerald Fitzgerald, blind son of the Princess Thurn and Taxis, J. V. Thompson today expressed the belief that the verdict will have an important bearing on contempt of court case next week.

Mr. Thompson was here today on private business. Speaking of the not-guilty verdict rendered yesterday on charges of defrauding the princess and her sons of $126,000, the coal baron said:

IS GRATIFIED

"My acquittal was very gratifying to me. It shows I still have a few friends in Uniontown. No, I do not hold any hatred toward the princess. I believe the verdict will have an important bearing on my contempt case next Monday."

The jury was out less than a half hour. The decision of the jury occasioned no surprise. Thompson apparently had convinced the jury that he through business deals had made more than a million dollars for the princess and her sons, the amounts involved in the prosecution being included in the profits to the Niccolls estate as they accrued through Thompson's dealings as trustee, as uncle and as friend of the princess.

CHARACTER PRAISED

A parade of character witnesses testified for Thompson, including bankers, ex-judges and many attorneys. Former Judge E. H. Reppert, one of the witnesses, said that Thompson's integrity had never been questioned.

In pleading for the aged man, his counsel declared that on the face of the evidence as introduced by the commonwealth there had been no proof of fraud or intent to commit a fraud. For 13 years, it was brought out, Thompson had paid the interest regularly on the loan of about $100,000 he had taken from the fund left to the princess and her sons by her father.

PRINCESS ABSENT

The Princess of Thurn and Taxis, who has attended all of the hearings in which Thompson has been involved, was absent on both days of the trial. A wire was received by the district attorney from a New York physician that the princess was in a hotel there suffering from neuritis and would be unable to attend the hearing.

Thompson was over-joyed when the verdict was returned and seemed optimistic as to the outcome on next Monday of the contempt of court hearing before Judge J. W. Dawson. Attorneys for the princess will insist that the former multi-millionaire be jailed for failing to meet obligations to the estates of Emma Mesamore and John Niccolls.

Council Votes $1,000 Aid For Verona Nine

Amateur baseball received its first "break" in Council when that body contributed $1,000 to send the Verona Community Club team to Cincinnati for the amateur championship.

The money, requested by W. J. Pennell, treasurer, was given on motion of Councilman Harry A. Little, who remarked:

"Pittsburgh was not so good in the National League. I think we ought to give a little money to an amateur team that may do better."

Councilman John Herron commented:

"We never have done anything for baseball although we do contribute to band concerts. If the weather is wet the band gets paid whether it rains or not."

Witnesses testified that when a team like the Homestead Grays plays at Homewood all expenses must be covered by contributions, but when the same teams play at Forbes Field, 75 cents is collected from each customer. Barney Dreyfuss, head of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, getting 40 per cent of the total.

Cutten Frees Last of Gang He Hounded for Robbery

WHEATON, Ill., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Casper Rosenberg, last of the nine men involved in the spectacular robbery of Arthur Cutten's mansion, near here, in 1922, was at liberty today, thanks to the millionaire trader's decision not to prosecute him.

Cutten, through his attorney, had the charges against Rosenberg not pressed yesterday because the latter had gone to a Michigan town since the crime and, for the last five years, had lived the life of a respected family man.

Rosenberg's release ended Cutten's relentless eight-year search for and prosecution of the nine who plotted and executed the robbery. Five members of the gang left Cutten, his wife, his brother, Harry, and several servants locked in a vault to die, after looting the house of $20,000 worth of liquor and jewelry. A servant released the Cuttens from the vault.

Rosenberg surrendered July 25 and admitted planning the robbery. Cutten told Circuit Judge Frank Shepherd, through State's Attorney Chauncey Reed:

"It is not necessary to send Rosenberg to prison to satisfy the ends of justice, in view of the change in his mode of life."

MYSTERY SHROUDS SUDDEN DEATH OF LEWIS, RICH RECLUSE

Woman Arrested as Buckley Murder Plot Lure

$5,000 AUTO HELD HER REWARD

Detectives Declare Detroit Suspect Summoned Radio Announcer to His Doom

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The woman who telephoned Jerry Buckley, calling him to his death in the lobby of the LaSalle Hotel July 23, was to have received a $5,000 automobile for her part in the slaying, according to detectives working on the case.

Mrs. Helen Sinnig, alias Dorothy Duvall, alias Helen Chazel, also known as "Little Paula," is under arrest, suspected of being the woman. Police also suspect her of having driven the car in which Buckley's three slayers escaped.

Mrs. Sinnig was arrested after her husband, H. C. Sinnig, was taken into custody at the LaSalle Hotel yesterday. She was questioned last night, but investigators today refused to reveal what they learned from her. Detective Lieut. John Hoffman arrested Sinnig and located his wife through telephone numbers found in Sinnig's room.

Detective Sergt. Andrew O'Day, who went to Pittsburgh following a tip that she had been there, said he had learned Mrs. Sinnig was a narcotic addict and was associated with a gang of Detroit drug peddlers. He said she was friendly with three men whom police accuse of being connected with the slaying of Buckley—"Black Leo" Cellura, Angelo Livecchi, held here under murder charges, and Ted Pizzino, fighting extradition in New York.

FIREWORKS, TAG BILLS DELAYED

Action on ordinances prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks, making fixing of tags for traffic violations more difficult and codifying traffic regulations, was postponed today by City Council pending public hearings.

The ordinance prohibiting the use and sale of fireworks is being pushed by Councilman Robert Garland.

The traffic tag ordinance was prepared by the Better Traffic Committee, and provides for a custodian of tags, who will issue tags to policemen only upon requisition and will require a receipt. It also provides that the traffic law violation fine collection machinery be placed on a "sales slip" basis.

The traffic code ordinances is also fathered by the Better Traffic Commission, and provides for the codification of all Pittsburgh traffic laws as outlined under the code proposed by President Hoover to unify the laws in all cities.

ment that the Committee was through with all evidence of espionage, postponed the day's session. Tuesday he again asked to be heard, but was refused on the ground Senator Robert Wagner, of New York, had not arrived. Wagner came at noon but Carlstrom and Mrs. McCormick had left the court room and did not appear. Neither was present this morning.

TESTIFIES ABOUT CHECK

James W. Rodgers, financial secretary to Mrs. McCormick, was called to identify Col. R. R. McCormick's check of September 27, 1929, for $2,500. He said he had cashed it after Mrs. McCormick indorsed it and gave the money to Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, who testified yesterday that amount was credited by error to her husband.

Mrs. George Dean, president of the Illinois Republican Women's Club, said she returned a check for $5,000, sent to the club by Col. McCormick, since it did not and never has sponsored an individual candidate. She said the club had, on occasion, received donations from Mrs. McCormick, but that she believed these were all made long before the primary campaign.

On a previous occasion, Col. McCormick had given the club $2,000 for its general work, but the $5,000 check was "to further Mrs. McCormick's campaign," which made it impossible for the club to accept it, Mrs. Dean added.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Roger Q. Williams announced today receipt of a cablegram from Charles A. Levine, owner of the transatlantic plane Columbia, saying that he had cancelled the proposed flight to England of Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry Connor. The cablegram said the flier would return to Montreal.

Boyd and Connor hopped from Montreal in the Columbia for Harbor Grace, N. F., Saturday, but were forced down at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. They were waiting for good weather to continue to Harbor Grace and then take off on the ocean hop to England.

Start of the flight had been delayed in Montreal by Williams' seizure of the Columbia on a judgment for a debt allegedly due him from Levine. A Canadian court, however, dissolved the writ holding the Columbia on the ground that the debt had been contracted in a foreign country.

BOSTON GREETS HEARST, FETE'S HONOR GUEST

Publisher Reviews Parade At Culmination of City's Tercentenary Celebration

Universal Service.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—As a guest of honor of the City of Boston for its tercentenary exercises today, William Randolph Hearst arrived here last night on a special car attached to the Bostonian, crack flier of the New Haven Railroad.

The distinguished visitor was officially welcomed to the Hub by Traffic Commissioner Joseph A. Conry, representing Mayor Curley, who was unavoidably detained at the town meeting exercises in the Boston Garden.

A detail of uniformed patrolmen from the Back Bay Station formed a guard of honor for Mr. Hearst on the platform, and escorted him to the municipal automobile while two mounted officers, under Sergt. John J. McArdle, of the Traffic Division, headed the procession of machines to the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Mr. Hearst came directly to Boston from New York, where he had received a hearty reception after debarking from the North German Lloyd Liner Europa, Monday, on his return from Europe.

BIDDEN TO CAMBRIDGE

In addition to the invitation sent by Mayor Curley for Mr. Hearst to be a guest of honor of Boston today, the city of Cambridge, through Mayor Richard M. Russell, also has invited him to be its guest before his return to New York. "To revive memories of his days as a student at Harvard."

Mr. Hearst was accompanied to Boston by Col. Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst newspapers. Both made their headquarters at the Copley Plaza.

When the clock struck noon today, historic Boston, key city of American independence, began the celebration of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

The city was tense with patriotic fervor. Every incoming train, during the day and night, brought celebrants from far and near.

PARADE STARTS

Gen. Edward L. Logan issued the order at noon which set in motion the 50,000 persons who marched in the parade, depicting epochal highlights in the city's history.

On the sidelines, reviewing the spectacle with Mayor Curley, Gov. Allen and Mr. Hearst, were Mayor Reuben Saltin, of Boston, England; Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, operatic star, and 3,000,000 other persons.

Gov. Allen, Mayor Curley and Mr. Hearst watched the parade from the grandstand on the Tremont street side of the Common.

The parade, one of the most pretentious ever attempted, required six hours to pass a given point and covered three and one-half miles.

BELL DENIES HE MADE THREAT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17.—General denial of most of the damaging evidence introduced against him by the commonwealth was made by Tony Bell, charged with the murder of John F. Donohoe.

The defense testimony was closed today and the commonwealth opened the rebuttal.

Bell's lips were opened for the first time since the killing of Donohoe. He admitted that he took his name from the petition Donohoe had filed against Bell, stating that he did so because he didn't care to antagonize the court. He had a case pending against him—that of removing his furniture from the property of Mrs. E. Carroll and wanted to get off as easy as he could.

Bell said that he never called Donohoe a "double crosser" or threatened to kill him, as alleged by Edward Whitby at the Earl and Bell night club. He denied that he exhibited a gun while in Whitby's automobile.

The defendant was emphatic in his denial that he was in one of the "death" cars seen at the scene of the murder of Donohoe, as testified by Mrs. Hannah Cooley Reid.

LEAGUE IN BID FOR U. S. HELP

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The assembly of the League of Nations today left open a path for the United States to confer and collaborate with the Geneva body on a plan for a federation of European states such as originally suggested by Aristide Briand, French foreign minister.

The assembly, as was previously agreed, sent M. Briand's memorandum of May 17, in which he broached the idea of a European federation, to a special committee of representatives of the European states and members of the League for further study and report to the assembly next year. The resolution was changed overnight so as to suggest to the committee, which may be formed eventually, that it may avail itself of collaboration of any nation, including non-members of the League and non-European members.

This, of course, was considered as opening the possibility later of an invitation to the United States to have a representative on the committee which finally takes M. Briand's memorandum under advisement.

It has been alleged that $10,000 was paid on Ewald's behalf to Martin Healy, Tammany district leader, at the time Ewald was named to the city bench.

Court to Decide Who Pays Family Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—An ancient Spanish custom has brought a vexing tax case before the Supreme Court.

Eight states have community property laws under which, generally speaking, husband and wife have a half-interest each in property acquired during the marraige. Law historians trace such statutes to Spanish codes and this is borne out by the fact the laws are in force in Texas, California, Arizona, Idaho, New Mexico, Nevada and Louisiana.

The direct question at issue is simple—whether a husband should pay income tax on all the community property, or whether husband and wife may each pay taxes on half.

The money the government collects will be increased heavily if the court holds the husband alone should make the return and pay the tax. An instance of the difference can be seen in one of the four similar cases pending.

C. W. Bacon, of Abilene, Tex., and his wife in 1927 each made out tax returns on $21,900 in community property. Each paid $336.25.

The commissioner of internal revenue decided Bacon should have paid on all the income and assessed him $1,951.11 more. The Texan paid it under protest, then took the matter to the courts.

Every case has gone against the government in the lowers courts and in two the government has lost on appeals.

Pastors Score Prayers Of American Legion

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Two hundred pastors of the Wisconsin and Missouri Synods of the Evangelical Lutheran churches today were on record as condemning the prayers of the American Legion as "addressed to idols" and "abominable to the sight of a Christian."

Meeting in conference here, the pastors failed to take action regarding the Rev. John Henning, pastor of the Iron Ridge, Wis., church, whose ouster was asked by his board of directors, because he refused to admit several legionnaires to communion. The Rev. Henning said he considered the American Legion "anti-Christ since it did not officially recognize Christ in the prayers of the organization."

The pastors approved a statement that "prayers of the American Legion ritual are Christless, are addressed to idols and are abominable to the sight of a Christian." While the meeting was called, delegates said previously, to determine if legionnaires should be denied church membership, the convention failed to take action for or against the proposal.

ALONE WHEN STRICKEN IN HOME

Relatives to Seek Fortune, Said to Be Millions; 'Will' Fails to Apportion Estate

Mystery surrounding the life, death and reputed fortune of a 76-year-old recluse, William W. Lewis, of 3643 Perrysville avenue, was in the way of being cleared up today as relatives and legal representatives conferred after Lewis' death of apoplexy in the Allegheny General Hospital early this morning.

Lewis was found stricken in his 17-room mansion after a newsboy had told Patrolman William Walker that papers had not been removed from the porch for two days. Walker said a rear door was open. Lewis was lying on the kitchen floor, partly clothed, but unconscious.

It became known today that Mrs. Rachel Elliott, a sister of Lewis, lives with her son, George Elliott, at Webster Hall.

Lewis was trustee for the estate of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Lewis, widow of George Lewis, one of the founders of the Lewis & Dalzell ironworks, in Sharpsburg. She died in 1904, leaving a fortune of $145,000, of which Mrs. Elliott was to receive one-half the income.

Mrs. Elliott alleges her brother made no payments in 12 years, and she secured a court ruling removing Lewis as trustee. Lewis was ordered to file an accounting and was surcharged $28,000 by the court. His appeal to the Supreme Court still is pending.

The law firm of Watson and Freeman represents the estate. F. R. Harbison is attorney for the Elliotts.

Lewis, who also was trustee for Mrs. Elliott, resigned that position after litigation in the county courts. The Fidelity Title and Trust Company was named to succeed Lewis as trustee of his mother's estate, and the Union Trust Company as trustee of the sister's funds.

REPORT WILL MADE

Lewis is reputed to have made a will some time ago, naming the Union Trust Company as executor, but making no disposition of his wealth.

Lewis' body was removed to the morgue. There it was claimed by his sister and nephew, the Elliotts.

Neighbors told police that Lewis built the large home about 15 years ago, but had occupied only one room for a number of years.

Mrs. Sarah Beck, 80, the housekeeper in the Lewis family for 65 years, died in the attic of the home two years ago, neighbors said.

Police found several bankbooks showing recent deposits for thousands of dollars. Other papers show that he received thousands of dollars in interest for stocks and bonds every month.

VERONA OFFERS NEW LIST

Another list of nominees for Third Ward election officer posts was submitted today to the Redistricting Commission by friends of Alderman John J. Verona. The commission declined to make the names public.

The original lists of nominees of the Verona and Engelsberg factions were the subject of charges and counter charges by the Hill bosses, each claiming his rival's list included operators of gambling and bootlegging establishments.

No new list of names to be presented to the Court of Quarter Sessions for appointment of election officials of the district was submitted by Engelsberg, but immediately following the charges made by his rival, Verona submitted another list of 10 names.

No explanation was offered with the list submitted today, but it apparently was meant as a substitute for the second list filed. The commission is expected to pass on all names submitted by Friday.

Phila. Man Elected To Federal Board

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board named Howard A. Loeb of the Tradesmen's National Bank and Trust Company, Philadelphia, to succeed Levi L. Rue, also of Philadelphia, who resigned.

Other changes necessitated as a result of the recent death of Frank O. Wetmore, Chicago, and Rue's resignation, included the election of Melvin A. Traylor, of the First National Bank, Chicago, to succeed Wetmore; B. A. McKinney, of Dallas, from vice president to president of the council, and the election of Walter W. Smith, of St. Louis, as vice president.

3 Killed in Mexican Independence Fetes

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Three deaths and approximately 50 injured marked the celebration of Mexico's Independence Day yesterday.

The fatalities and injuries, consisting mostly of knife wounds, occurred largely in disputes of private character. Festivities in general were carried out with comparative orderliness.

ANDREE REPORT AWAITED

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 17—(INS)—A preliminary report on latest relics to arrived at by experts of the Swedish commission studying the remains of Salomon August Andree and his two companions in the ill-fated balloon dash to the Far North 33 years ago may be issued today.

Arrival of the Isbjoern here with the final relics picked up at the White Island camp of the explorers further complicated present information indicating that the skeletons of the three men may have been confused.

Following close examination of all remains it was believed that Dr. Horn brought back in the Bratvaag the body of Nils Strindberg and the upper part of Knut Fraenkel's skeleton. The Isbjoern, according to latest conclusions, brought back the upper part of Andree including his skull as well as the skull of Knut Fraenkel.

All relics rested today in the bare little chapel of the Norwegian fishing village which a few days ago held a memorial in honor of what was believed to be the remains of Andree and Strindberg.

Ohio Democrats Ignore Prohibition

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—(INS)—Prohibition may not figure largely in Ohio's November election following adoption today of a platform by Ohio Democrats free of prohibition utterances. The platform advocated reduction in taxes and opposed the income tax.

Defunct Bank Will Pay Third Dividend

WAYNESBURG, Sept. 17—A third dividend of 10 per cent is now ready for distribution among creditors of the defunct Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Mt. Morris, Otis B. Coppedge receiver, announced. The bank closed in 1926.

POISON HITS 3 MORE CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17—(AP)—The three eldest children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Lowe were rushed to a hospital today suffering from symptoms similar to those which preceded the death of the three younger children in the family last Sunday.

Those stricken are Robert, 14, Frances, 11, and Geneva, 9.

Last Sunday Betty, 5, Virginia, 3, and John, 18 months, died after becoming ill early in the day. Louis, 7, also was taken ill last Sunday, and still is in a critical condition.

The strange ailment at first was diagnosed as leucomaine poisoning, caused by eating fruit unfit for consumption. Later, however, physicians decided leucomaine poisoning was not the cause of death and a chemical analysis of vital organs was ordered. The analysis has not yet been completed.

KDKA WANTS WGY TESTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17—The Westinghouse Company today applied to the Federal Radio Commission for an experimental license whereby KDKA might be operated simultaneously in synchronization experiments with WEAF and WGY between 1 and 6 a. m. The synchronized Pittsburgh station would operate under the call letters W8XT, but it is understood that the experiments would be conducted with the new super-power broadcasting transmitter of KDKA.

The commission today also received an application from William S. Walker, of Pittsburgh, who asked for a permit to build a new 100-watt station to operate on 1500 kilocycles. Walker proposes to use the equipment of WMBJ.

Truck Used to Strip Melon Patch

HINTON, W. Va., Sept. 17—The record watermelon theft is reported from Lowell, this county, and officers have been baffled trying to run down the robbers. In this case they were exceedingly ambitious, for they stole every single melon on the farm of O. T. Kesler, stripping his large patch clean.

It is apparent the thieves used automobile trucks in carrying out the robbery, as there were enough melons in the patch to fill a number of large trucks.

OFFICES OPENED BY DEMOCRATS

David Lawrence, chairman of the Allegheny County Democrat Committee, has announced opening of party headquarters in the Magee Building, 334 Fourth avenue, for the campaign preceding the election November 4.

The Democrats have selected the same rooms occupied in the primary campaign by the Phillips-Bohlen Republican ticket. The Democrats have adopted an anti-dry platform.

Australian Flier Killed in Plunge

Squirrel Stores Golf Balls as Nuts

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17—(AP)—A squirrel at the Crestmont Country Club is a nut. Seventy-five golf balls were found cached in his lair for food in the winter.

DIXIE AIR MAIL CONTRACT LET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—(INS)—The Aviation Corporation of New York and the Southwest Air Fast Express Company have been awarded the contract for carrying mail by air on a route from Atlanta, Ga., via Birmingham, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and such points in New Mexico and Arizona as may be designated to Los Angeles and return, the Postoffice Department announced today.

The service will start within 30 days. For a while the schedule will be maintained by daylight flying only. When the route is completely lighted for night flying a new schedule will be followed.

By long-distance telephone from Washington, E. B. Wadsworth, superintendent of air mail, told the Sun-Telegraph today that the date of the award of the contract for the new trans-continental air mail line through Pittsburgh was problematical. No decision has been reached, Wadsworth said.

RECOUNT BOARD SALARIES O. K.'D

Six hundred dollars in salaries was authorized by the county commissioners today to wind up activities of the county vote recount board, for which $20,000 previously had been appropriated.

Commissioner Charles G. McGovern voted with the two other commissioners for the additional money, but with reservations.

He said:

"I guess we're obligated, but I want to go on record as saying that this is the most vicious organization ever operated in Allegheny County. It cost the people $1.25 for each vote cast to count them."

the outer Butler street zone, and one in the Garfield sector.

The promoters of the carnivals are said to be using worthy charities in making their rackets look respectable. The plan is to call on some institution in a section where the carnival is to be held, offer 50 per cent of the gross proceeds for acting as a sort of silent sponsor for the carnival, open up the booths, paddle wheels and other money-getting devices and go to work on the "lambs."

ENORMOUS BUSINESS

It is said the South Side and Penn avenue places did enormous business and gave the customers slightly more than nothing in return. Even winners of cheap "Indian" blankets and "Spanish" shawls report they failed to get these shoddy winnings. In the money games there simply was no payoff.

Then came the real gyp classic. The charities which "sponsor" the carnivals fail to put "checkers" on the carnival conductors, and at the end of the week of intensive gambling, they are paid about 5 per cent of the actual gross, and are told that the crowds were big, but that money simply didn't shower down on the charitable carnival men, who "worked hard for nothing."

The money stakes in the Penn avenue racket are alluring, according to several victims. A wheel, with blocks in three colors, is spun and, for a thin dime, the spinner offers a dollar for each time a player's color hits. It doesn't hit, and then the stakes are raised to pay the "winner" fabulous returns if he will put in just a little more than he has been playing.

The "come-on" is worked until the suckers are playing $5 or more at a time. A player goes "broke" and the genial gypper offers to lend him money and take a check in return. Even if the checks are "rubber" the carnival boys are the only winners.

GIRL HURT, JAIL CELEBRATOR

Convicted of aggravated assault and battery for throwing a firecracker at Miss Mae Hensell, 18, of 111 Braddock avenue, Turtle Creek, July 3, Steve Samuel, 23, of 126 Brown avenue, Turtle Creek, was sentenced by Judge Samuel H. Gardner to serve six months in the workhouse. Miss Hensell, according to testimony, was burned and cut by the explosion.

In charging the jury, Judge Gardner declared the incident was no Fourth of July accident. The judge after pronouncing sentence, declared Samuels would have to serve at least two months before being paroled, because of a previous conviction—for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He said:

"I will parole you at the end of two months, provided your behavior deserves it and you will promise to pay the plaintiff $50 for her doctor's bill."

Yoder Will Provides Selling of Hotel

The Keystone Hotel, Forbes street, formerly the Yoder, is ordered sold in the will of Mrs. Elsie W. Yoder, 6611 Kinsman road, widow of the one-time owner, filed for probate today, disposing of an estate estimated at $102,000. From the proceeds of sale, Mrs. Yoder directs that $10,000 be set aside in trust for her step-daughter, Bessie Y. Opie, of Chicago. The remainder of the estate goes to the testator's three daughters, Mrs. Elsie Donovan, Mrs. Elizabeth Stockslager and Hillis S. Yoder.

Fear World Cruiser Lost in Hurricane

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Sept. 17—(AP)—Fears were expressed here today concerning the safety of William Albert Robinson, on a world voyage in the small yacht Svaap. He sailed from Tulagi, Solomon Islands, June 11 for Shanghai.

The schooner France left Tulagi June 23 and encountered a hurricane. The France reached Samarai three weeks later, while the Svaap has not yet arrived at its destination.

Police Hunt Sniper Hunt Proves Futile

Squirrel Hill police today were searching for a sniper who yesterday fired a shot through the rear window of the auto of John G. Benz, 521 South Murtland avenue, as Benz ascended Brown's Hill. The bullet shattered the glass and came close to Benz's head, he told police at Squirrel Hill station. He could not account for the shooting.

Mother of Four, Janitress Slain

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Jakubiak, 44-year-old janitress and mother of four children, was attacked and slain early today as she returned to her home from the downtown building where she was employed. Her body was found in a path near her home. Her purse lay open near her body, her pay check untouched.

Man Electrocuted As Shovel Hits Wire

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Rosario Bolozza, 29, of this city, employed by a construction gang engaged in changing tracks for the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Humboldt, near here, was electrocuted when the steam shovel on which he was standing came in contact with an 11,000-volt power line. The shovel was being moved under the high tension line and the boom struck the wire.

TAILOR'S Account Builds Home and Starts Business

HE MADE his first deposit in a Farmers Savings Account in May, 1916. Recently married, his wage wasn't any too large but nevertheless he always saved a little from each week's pay.... The Savings Account had grown to more than $7,000.00 in 1923 and he was able to pay cash for a little home for his family. The Savings deposits continued and the balance once more mounted.... Then he made a new move. "There should be a tailor shop in such and such a neighborhood," he told us, "and I think I can make one pay." His Savings Account provided the necessary capital and he started out for himself. For a while business was slow but he was able to see it through.... Today his Farmers Savings Account has a balance of more than $1300.00 and is growing faster than ever before.... Many things are possible for the person with a little capital. Regular deposits of small amounts soon put the saver in a position where he can take advantage of worthwhile opportunities.

ROBINSON SEES LEAGUE DEFEAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (Universal).—The League Court would be overwhelmingly rejected by the American people if put to a popular vote, Senator Arthur Robinson, Rep., of Indiana, said last night in commenting on the victory of George H. Shaw, court foe, in Colorado.

Shaw's victory in winning the Republican nomination for United States senator was previously hailed as a strong indication of anti-court sentiment by Senator Johnson, (Rep.) of California, and Glenn, (Rep.) of Illinois, and by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, senatorial candidate in the latter state.

Senator Robinson wired Universal Service:

"I have your telegram mentioning victory of George H. Shaw in his opposition to the League Court. I believe if this question were voted on by the people, every state in the Union would vote overwhelmingly against American adherence to the protocol of the so-called World Court."

Grub Plague Hits Canadian Crops

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—(AP).—A serious white grub outbreak in Eastern Canada has been reported by the entomological branch of the Canadian Department of Agriculture. Heavy losses to susceptible crops such as corn, potatoes, timothy and the finer grasses are reported, and unless effective control measures are taken at once the loss next year and the year following may be even more severe, an official statement said.

Woman Chooses Jail to Paying Dog Fines

WAYNESBURG, Sept. 17.—Rather than pay two five-dollar fines for violation of the Pennsylvania dog laws, Mrs. Anna Kepic, of Dry Tavern, has announced she will serve 10 days in jail. Arrested for allowing her dogs to go unleashed and not obtaining a license for them, Mrs. Kepic defied police to jail her in default of payment of fines.

Although allowed two weeks to make the payments, she failed to do so and was jailed yesterday. She is the mother of four children.

RE-INDICT FIVE FOR JAIL PROXY

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP).—Sam Rossiter, Erie attorney, Joseph A. Donovan, local automobile dealer, Stanley Wells, alias Joe Jarvis, alleged Canadian bootlegger, James Patrone and Lester Beals were re-indicted by a federal grand jury here in the prisoner substitution case which originated when Patrone was alleged to have gone to jail in place of Wells.

The true bill was identical with the indictment handed down here against the quintet last February.

FILM SUIT LOST BY JAMES KIN

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(AP).—A suit brought by heirs of Jesse James, notorious frontier days highwayman, against the Famous Players-Paramount-Lasky Film Corporation, was dismissed in Superior Court.

The robber's granddaughter, Miss Jessie James, had sought $55,000 damages for alleged breach of contract.

Dismissal was granted on motion of the defense, which contended the former Kansas City stenographer had failed to establish the existence of any contract upon which the alleged breach could have occurred.

Miss James had complained she gave up her Kansas City job to come here on promises of being given a role in a film based on the life of her grandfather.

TARIFF CRITICS HIT BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(Universal).—President Hoover has joined the current controversy over business conditions by asserting the buying power of the United States had held up better than that of foreign countries.

Based on estimates prepared by the Commerce Department, the Chief Executive said the quantity volume of exports had declined 20 per cent and the quantity volume of imports only 5 per cent during the first seven months of this year.

The statement was looked upon as an indirect reply to Senator Barkley (Dem.) of Kentucky and other Democratic leaders who have charged the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill with menacing American foreign trade.

Fist Fight for $9.50 Ends in Death Blow

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(AP).—Salvatore Paolilie, 60, is dead today of injuries alleged to have been suffered in a fist fight with Ivan H. Rosequist, 24, over $9.50. It was said a manslaughter charge might be preferred against Rosequist after an investigation by authorities.

ANTIETAM VETS HOLD REUNION

SHARPSBURG Md. Sept 17.—(AP)—Remnants of the Blue and the Gray forces which grappled to a draw at the famous Battle of Antietam 68 years ago, gathered today for a reunion and celebration of the anniversary of that struggle of the Civil War.

War historians hold that famous battle a draw, though some point to the fact that the Confederate forces of Gen Lee retreated to Virginia the following day, after having been ready to meet McClelland's army had the Federal general sought to renew the conflict.

The battle is credited with having given President Lincoln the immediate opportunity to issue the Proclamation of Emancipation.

An elaborate program has been planned for the anniversary celebration, including a visit of the Navy dirigible Los Angeles. President Hoover, invited to speak at the affair, declined due to the press of other affairs.

$135,000 CHECK SUSPECT HELD

JERSEY CITY, N. J. Sept. 17.—(AP)—John E. Foster, 46, of Jersey City, was arrested last night charged with a $135,000 forgery. According to police, Foster had a fake check deposited in his account and then withdrew the money with his personal check before the bogus paper went through the Clearing House.

Foster will be arraigned today in Second Criminal Court and held for extradition to Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Foster claims to own a coal mine on the outskirts of Wilkes-Barre valued at $500,000. Police records show he has served time in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for a mail fraud. He has been arrested on four other occasions on minor charges. Foster was packing his luggage to leave Jersey City when arrested. Later, he told police, he had learned he was wanted.

2 Track Workers Killed by Express

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Two workmen were killed here when struck by a passenger train while laboring on the tracks. Noise of an approaching freight train on another track was believed to have drowned out the approach of the passenger train on the tracks where they were occupied.

U. S. Dry Men Raid Erie 'Cutting' Plant

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Seven vats, each of 1,000 gallons capacity, were destroyed by federal agents here last night after they had raided a large "cutting" plant. John Defranko, who was arrested, was released on bond pending hearing.

Farm Worker Dies In Fall Down Chute

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

REALTY FRAUDS WARN BUSINESS CURBED BY LAW MEN OF FAKES

Real estate dealers of questionable reputation have been virtually forced out of business by the brokers' license law in Pennsylvania, Robert W. Semenow, director of the license law, told the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board yesterday.

He said state officials kept a "blacklist" of firms and individuals from whom trouble might be expected, and that very few of these applied for licenses. On investigation it was found that many have gone out of business.

License authorities have been active in condemning the "free lot" scheme of selling real estate. In a recent case in Philadelphia they were upheld by the court in revoking a license of a firm dealing in "free lots." Actions pending against another eastern selling organization.

Thomas C. Foley, acting general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, today warned business men against fraudulent commercial enterprises, advising them that the Chamber refuses to indorse miscellaneous solicitations of all kinds. Attached to the warning was a statement by P. S. Spangler, chairman of the charities committee, in which he said:

"The Chamber never indorses a charitable organization, which in its operations raises money through entertainments, advertisements, tag days or other schemes where a large part of the receipts goes elsewhere than to the benefit of the organization. Nor does the Chamber indorse bodies that do not fill an existing need, or do a work at least commensurate with its cost."

FLIERS QUALIFY FOR TRANSPORT

Four local air students today possessed transport pilot licenses, the highest rating for fliers. They took the federal test yesterday at the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport.

The successful pilots were Clyde Paddock, of Steubenville; Melvin Garlow, Maysville, W. Va., and Norman Uttenweiler, of 2145 Harbor street, and Don C. MacDougal, of 5343 Waterford street, Pittsburgh. The tests were given by Federal Inspector O. D. Murphy, of the United States Department of Commerce.

Licenses as private pilots were awarded to C. P. Northrop, of Washington, Pa.; Arthur W. Barlett, of Ebensburg, and Raymond Humphrey, of Brookline.

Live Stock Perish As Barn Burns

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Fire yesterday destroyed the barn, chicken coop, hog pen and other buildings on the farm of Austin Whipsky, along the Springfield pike, east of here. Three calves and 30 chickens perished and total loss was estimated at $3,000.

BOAT BEGINS MAIDEN TOUR

While scores of neighboring river craft screeched their welcome, the lower Ohio and Mississippi River's newest towboat, the Ohio, today started on her maiden run from the docks of the Dravo Construction Company, her builders.

The new twin-screw towboat, powered by two three-cylinder vertical uniflow engines, compares favorably in her appointments with some of the finer ocean-going vessels.

Under the command of Capt. Billy Mills, veteran river master, the boat undertook her maiden run to a down-river point.

The ship is owned by the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Company and will go into immediate service on the lower Ohio River. According to officials of the company, the boat will be followed by three others of the same type.

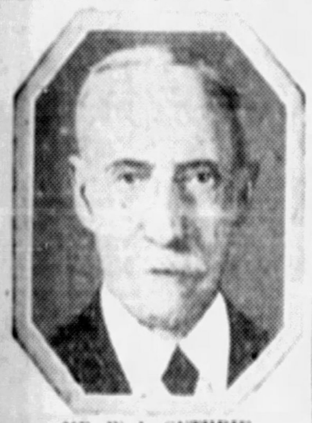
KONJOLA RIDS SUFFERER, 73, OF RHEUMATISM

In Seven Years of Misery No Other Medicine Gave Relief—No Wonder He Praises New Medicine.

What encouragement there is in the endorsement from those who found in Konjola, the new and different medicine, relief that no other remedy tried gave.



MR. W. L. GUTHRIE.

Be guided in your search for health by experiences like that of Mr. W. L. Guthrie, of Washington, near Pittsburgh, and then get all the facts about this remarkable medicine from the Konjola Man at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh. He will tell you why Konjola is a household word in thousands of homes in Pittsburgh and vicinity. But read now the words of Mr. Guthrie, and then decide what you will do about Konjola. To the Konjola Man he said:

"Konjola worked wonders in my case. About seven years ago I became afflicted with rheumatism and stomach trouble, with the rheumatic pains settling in my left hip, arm, leg and shoulder. They were almost unbearable. After each meal I bloated with gas and endured miseries. Constipation made matters worse. But in just three weeks Konjola made me feel years younger. It cleansed my system and completely restored digestion. It drove the rheumatic pains away; ended constipation, and I feel like a different person."

Konjola works swiftly. Its seeming wonders to perform, but a treatment of from six to eight bottles is highly recommended.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting those who come to ask all about Konjola. Konjola is sold also in all Dow stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

LINCOLN GOLF LINKS FOUGHT

That the proposed public golf course in the Lincoln avenue district would not serve the present need of the residents of that district, and that such a course would be inconsistent with public interest in that section was charged in a letter to Council by Brook N. Edmondston, secretary of the Lincoln District Board of Trade. The letter was written after a petition for a public course had been received by Council.

In the letter Mr. Edmondston avers that street grading, playground equipment, additional police protection, a new school and other improvements in the Lincoln avenue district are more suited to the people's needs than a golf course. Mr. Edmondston writes that the proposed new golf project was discussed and rejected by the Lincoln trade body last May.

Master Mysteries

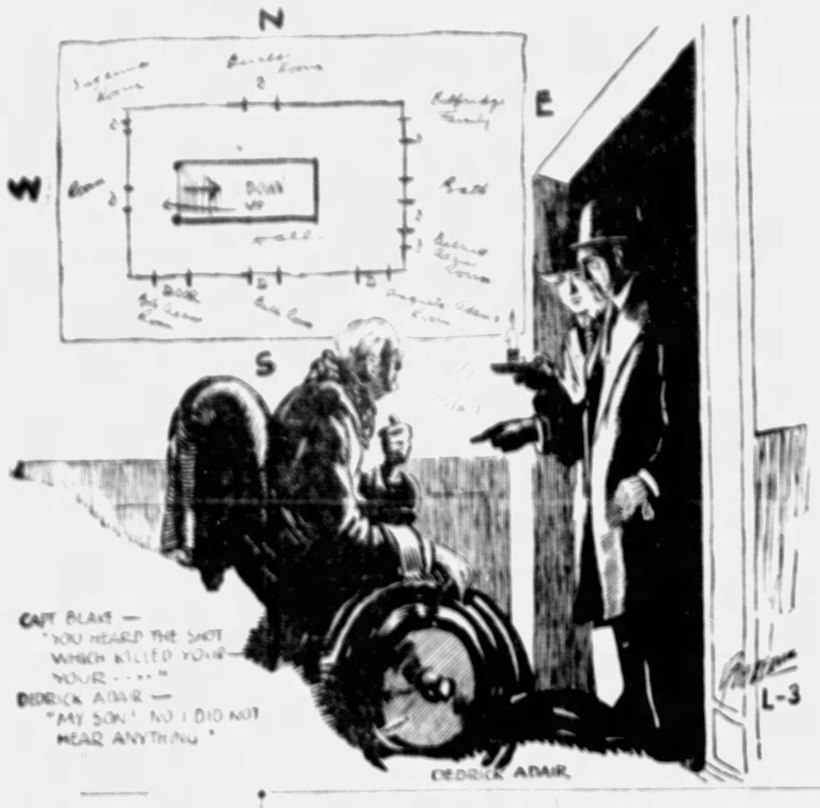
Who Killed Bob Adair?



WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The police receive word that a murder has been committed on the Adair estate. Investigating, the message is denied by the members of the eccentric household. A maniacal laugh is heard upstairs. It is Gerald Adair, a half-demented member of the family. He admits having sent the message. He leads the police to a room where young Bob Adair is found dead. He has been shot through the heart. Robin Dale discovers a strange message Bob had been writing in the family Bible and never finished.

Now Go on With the Story.

CHAPTER III.

The sounds came nearer until they were outside the door. All those in the room turned and a white-haired old man, his face emaciated, his whole body shrunken, wheeled himself in an old, creaky wheel-chair into a position to look into the room.

This, Robin Dale was soon to learn, was Dedrick Adair, father of the murdered man. The only thing about him which seemed to be alive were his eyes and they glistened menacingly at the group in the room. Captain Blake crossed slowly to the door.

"And you are, sir?" he said to the old man in the chair.

"I am Dedrick Adair, master of this house!"

"You were on this floor all night?"

"Tonight and for five years."

"You heard that shot which killed your—your——"

"My son! No, I did not hear anything."

Someone was mounting the stairs. It was Augusta Adair. Without even glancing at those about Bob Adair's door, she went into her room, the entrance door of which faced the stair landing. Her room, with Bob Adair's, comprised the south side of the house, with the bathroom between the two rooms.

Capt. Blake then questioned the old man as to the relationship of the people in the house. Dedrick and Augusta Adair were sister and brother, she was unmarried. Dedrick had four children, Belfridge, Buzanna, Bob and Gerald. Of these only one was married, Belfridge, whose wife was Nancy. All these Robin Dale had now met. There was one other in the household, young Roderick, son of Belfridge and Nancy Adair, a lad of 10 who was asleep in his room.

Through all of this the old man was extremely antagonistic. He refused in any manner to budge from his original statement about the revolver shot. It was later to develop that every person in the household denied having heard the shot. As Capt. Blake, with difficulty, obtained the answers to his perfunctory questions from old Dedrick Adair, Robin Dale made a careful study of the layout of the upper hallway. He sensed that in some manner the situation of the rooms would have a bearing on the ultimate solution of the strange murder.

On the south side of the hallway, facing the stair landing, were three doors. The center one led into the bathroom, the one to the left into Bob Adair's room and the one to the right into the chamber of Augusta Adair.

On the east side there were also three doors. Almost at right angles from the stair landing was the door into Dedrick Adair's room. Then there was another bathroom which was between the old man's chamber and that of the Belfridge family, who occupied the room in the northeast corner of the mansion.

A single door on the north side of the hall led into the room of Gerald. The stairs abutted on the west side. At the rear of the hall was the entrance to Buzanna's room (her room being the northwest corner of the house) and, directly at the stair landing was another door leading into a room which apparently was occupied by none of the family.

Almost an hour had passed since the arrival of Captain Blake and his party and during this interval two or three assistants had arrived from headquarters, among them Phelps, who went to work on fingerprints. Jardin had been very careful with the revolver, but there was no trace of anything to be found on it. Jardin took the revolver and put it into his pocket again. Gerald Adair, with an idiotic grin, had watched Phelps working and had on a number of occasions tried to interfere, being reprimanded by both Phelps and Jardin.

It became quite obvious as the investigation progressed that not only did the entire household of Adairs fail to give any material assistance, but wherever possible, they tried to make the work more difficult.

The climax to this antagonism came when old Dedrick Adair refused to permit any member of the household to be interviewed.

"This is the Sabbath. It is our day of worship. . . . we insist upon that right!"

Capt. Blake did not desire to make an issue of this, as he felt he might have use for the testimony of the members of the family who, if antagonized, might refuse to tell him anything. A member of his squad was left in charge and he with Sergt. Jardin, drove back to town with Robin Dale. Dale had them stop at his apartment for breakfast.

"I'm afraid this is going to be a pretty nasty mess," Blake said as they started to eat.

"It was one of that gang, that's sure," suggested Jardin.

"Yes, sarge, but which one? There's something sinister behind it all that you're going to have a deuce of a time uncovering. The old man denied hearing the shot, yet his room is directly adjoining that of young Bob. I looked at the windows, they were all latched on the inside. And did you see the bolt on the main door? Who ever killed Bob Adair was in the house all evening . . . . and I don't think there is any question that someone beside the murderer knows who did it. Let's have another look at that revolver, sergeant."

Sergeant Jardin reached to his pocket. A blank expression came over his features and then one of amazement. He searched frantically in his other pockets. The more he searched the more amazed he became.

"It's gone! One of that crowd lifted the revolver out of my pocket!"

FREE MAN, GIVE HIM PURSE

Ernest Newcomb, 32, was preparing to resume his journey to his wife and family in Boston, Mass., today, thanks to a kind-hearted jury that not only freed him in Criminal Court yesterday but gave him a purse.

In a few minutes the jury returned a verdict of not guilty for Newcomb, who was charged with attacking and robbing Bertha Wonar, 18, of Wall, in the Pitcairn yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, July 1. His testimony that he was at a barbecue near Wilkinsburg at the time was corroborated. He had been in jail since his arrest soon after the attack.

Newcomb told the jury he was penniless and at the time of his arrest was hitch-hiking home to Boston. A collection amounting to $6.50 was taken up in the jury room. This was increased by contributions by Judge S. J. Snee, who presided, Assistant District Attorney J. A. Gelfo and Attorney H. V. Bair, who defended Newcomb.

Tells Men Over 50 What They Should Weigh

A famous British Physician—a Specialist in Obesity—gives these as the normal weights for men over 50.

The modern way to take off fat is known as the Kruschen Method—and is well worth a four weeks' trial.

Cut out pies, cakes, pastry and ice cream for 4 weeks, go light on potatoes, butter, cheese, cream and sugar—eat moderately of lean meat, chicken, fish, salads, green vegetables and fruit—take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning.

An 85 cent bottle of Kruschen lasts 4 weeks—Get it at any drug store in the world.

The upsets of Children

All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Easy to look at

THERE'S a harmony between the natural loveliness of this modern age and the natural, mild goodness of Camels. And if you find them keeping company, don't be surprised.

Camel has given the world the luxury of a naturally mild cigarette—a cigarette that preserves all the refreshing fragrance of the choice, mild tobaccos from which it is made—a cigarette that is delightfully smooth, but never flat, never parched, never tasteless.

Modern smokers are awake to the fact that mere flatness doesn't mean mildness. That's one reason there's such a swing to Camels. Watch it right in your own crowd. Join them in Camels—a smoke that's enjoyable all the way—all the time.

Rings School Bell Again After 75 Years

ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Three quarters of a century ago Frank B. Perkins, Elgin Civil War veteran, tolled the bell atop the Elgin Academy to summon students to their classes for the first term of the school. On the seventy-fifth anniversary of that opening day in 1855, Perkins again rang the old bell to summon a new generation to classrooms. Walter H. Kimball, classmate of Perkins and also a Civil War soldier, was also present at the ceremony.

I. O. O. F. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Amelia Bank, of San Antonio, Tex., was elevated from the vice presidency to president of the Association Rebekah Assemblies.

Other officers elected by the sovereign grand lodge were: Joseph Powley, Toronto, Canada, deputy grand sire; J. Edward Kroh, Baltimore, grand secretary, and William H. Cox, Maysville, Ky., grand treasurer.

BOLT HITS CAR, 1 DEAD, 12 HURT

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—One man was killed, another was near death, and 11 passengers in a street car were injured by a bolt of lightning which struck the trolley pole and entered the car. Several of the passengers were burned while others were trampled in the rush for the exits.

The only occupant to escape injury was Frank Deubel, motorman, who "saw the bolt sizzling down the tracks." He put on air brakes, opened the emergency door and jumped to the street. The car coasted a half block before stopping. Its occupants then rushed out.

JUDGE CLEARED OF UNFAIRNESS

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Charges made in petitions by Q. D. Hastings and Charles H. Sheasley, Franklin attorneys, that Judge W. M. Parker, of Venago County, was biased and unfair in proceedings in cases in which the lawyers were interested were declared unfounded and unjustified by Judge Frank E. Reader, of Beaver County in opinions just handed down.

Judge Reader, before whom the petitions were argued, said in summarizing his conclusions he was convinced nothing which had developed in the course of the proceedings justified any question as to the thorough integrity and impartiality of the judicial administration of Judge Parker. It added:

"We are not so sure that counsel who deliberately placed upon the public records charges apparently unfounded has not seriously compromised his own position at the bar."

Corns All Gone Big and Small Radox Took Them Roots and All

In England they have a sensible, easy way to get rid of corns in just a few days—a joyous invigorating foot bath every night for 3 or 4 nights—then lift out the corn—out to stay.

Ask Mayflower Drug Stores or any druggists for a package of Radox, first time on sale in America. Hard corns—soft corns—callouses—hard skin on heels and toes—it's all the same to Radox—you'll have new, strong, flawless feet a week from now—ask for Radox and enjoy walking—dancing.

3—The Title Hunt consists in finding the descriptions in the Classified Ads, clipping them out, and placing each under the picture to which it refers. The words making up each description will appear as a single unit in one place.

4—Hold all of the pictures until you have thirty complete sets of 10 each—300 pictures in all. Then send them in to Ripley's Title Hunt Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pa.

8—It is not necessary to purchase the Sun-Telegraph to compete. This newspaper may be examined at any of its offices or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures as well as the descriptions from the Sun-Telegraph and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Many Film Stars to Stay At Beach Resort All Winter

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.

FALL IS HERE, but the Malibu Beach film colony is as populous as ever. Many of the stars plan to say at the beach through the winter.

There they have privacy and only their own kind for neighbors. Telephones finally have been put in, but scarcely affect the isolation.

A few stars are returning to Beverly Hills. Gloria Swanson has opened her home because her children have to enter school. Ralph Forbes and Ruth Chatterton also plan to give up their beach house around October 1. The B. P. Schulbergs are another deserting couple.

Ruth Chatterton

But many remain. Corinne Griffith and Walter Morosco have closed their Beverly Hills home and will join the winter beach colony. Dick and Adela Rogers Hyland plan to stay. Likewise George O'Brien, Winifred Westover, Herbert Brenon, Tod Browning, the Robert Leonards and the Alan Dwans.

Several stars are building. Vivienne Segal has a new home at Malibu and Lilyan Tashman and Edmund Lowe expect to move into their new places by Christmas.

The film stars occupy this land under odd terms. They rent it for $1 a front foot a year. It is impossible for them to buy, because the owner of the property will not sell. The original lease was for 10 years. Only seven remain. At the end of this time the stars may be ordered off the land, and, theoretically, they may lose their expensive beach homes. Some of the houses are quite elaborate, too. Rents are high. An ordinary house at Malibu brings $1,000 a month.

NO HARM TO TRY

A gold rush instituted here by a Warner Brothers theater led to several unexpected results. The idea, designed to exploit a picture, was to hide several canvas bags along a prescribed course on Hollywood boulevard. The bales contained slips of paper good for various amounts, the high prize being $100. On the morning after the newspapers carried the story, the theater executives arrived to find ardent treasure hunters jimmying apart their lobby picture frames. Within an hour, four men had turned up with notes which read: "Please give $100 to bearer. Signed, H. M. Warner." Unfortunately, Harry Warner is in New York, and the genuine slips had been okehed by studio officials. In the end, an actor found the $100 slip hidden in a fire hydrant. This department won't give his name, lest there be lurking creditors.

MOVIE LOYALTY

The film colony is loyal to its own. An example of this was given last night when a brilliant turnout of stars greeted Julanne Johnson's debut as a ballroom dancer at the Roosevelt Hotel. Julanne was Douglas Fairbanks' leading woman in "The Thief of Bagdad," and has worked in many pictures.

Doug Fairbanks

SIGNED FOR STAGE

Jean Wood, 20-year-old daughter of Sam Wood, the director, has been signed by Jed Harris to appear in a play on Broadway. The young actress has been seen here in several productions of a Little Theater.

A woman post-mistress, the first in the film colony, has been chosen to handle the mail received by 2,500 R-K-O workers. Her name is Geneve Cormack. This studio postoffice is separate from the fan mail department.

Dr. Kerr Asks Drys To Attend Rally

A plea for large attendance at the interdenominational mass meeting of supporters of the Volstead act in Memorial Hall, October 3, was made by Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, at the September meeting of the Pittsburgh Presbytery in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday.

The Rev. Edward A. Cully, pastor of the West View Presbyterian Church, was elected moderator of the assembly for the next six months.

Music Heroine

Nancy Carroll has the heroine role in "Follow Thru," film version of the stage musical comedy, which opens Friday in the Penn.

MYSTERY AND SHAW IN THEATERS MONDAY

Philip Moeller, director of the Theater Guild production of Shaw's "The Apple Cart," coming to the Nixon on Monday night for a week's engagement, has had much experience in producing the plays of the great Irish dramatist. Besides "The Apple Cart," Mr. Moeller has directed "The Devil's Disciple," "Saint Joan," "Caesar and Cleopatra," "Arms and the Man," "Androcles and the Lion," "The Man of Destiny," "Major Barbara" and one section of the five-part "Back to Methuselah."

The Alvin next week opens its doors for the new season with an engagement of Horace Liveright's presentation of "Dracula," the sensational mystery play. Seats are now on sale in the box office. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday. The engagement is limited to one week.

The George Sharp Players will present "Those We Love" in the Pitt next week. The play was written by George Abbott and was produced in the John Golden Theater, New York, last season.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Night Club

You're here—I'm here—and here's some potent rye
(Hey, waiter! How about some ginger ale?)
Well, kid, I've found this stuff will get you by;
I've tried forgetting, but you're bound to fail.
It's funny that we two should meet like this,
Two waifs that Broadway left out in the cold;
Well, down the hatch! We're pretty young to miss
The fun in life—and heartbreak makes you old.

You say I look a little bit like him.
That's funny—'cause there's just a bit of her
In you. You're cute and sort of blonde and slim;
But, hell, you know—there's only one can stir
Your heart's blood up—and when that's done you're thru,
Well, bottoms up—and here's my best to you!

—Kid Kazanova.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Mr. Winchell," affectionately writes Frank Mason, the president of International News Service, "in the language of your column, I may be a sap for trying to crowd in on the thousands of letters you receive as fan mail, but I do want to thank you personally for the nice way in which you told the story of Montee's telephone call with Forster at Buenos Aires.

"It may interest you to know that your recommendation for a bonus for our South American correspondent was accepted seriously at our office, and within ten minutes after reading your column we sent him a cable informing him that we are mailing him a bonus check.

"Forster will surely admit that your column is a powerful influence in the world of journalism."

You see, Mr. Vallee, the pen is mightier than the song, after all.

Haw!

The lustiest laugh of the day was registered upon receipt of the following advertisement in Friday's Long Island Sun:

"Come and see 'Rudy Vallee,' the sensational dahlia of the season, in full bloom. Originated and grown exclusively by Welcome Dahlia Gardens, Bayshore."

Who Said They Were Slow!

Mr. B. Edelman of Philadelphia (I think it's in Pennsylvania) explains the difference between a newspaper and a radio.

You can't wrap up a herring with a radio.

Similes

Recommended to Frank Wilstach's Simile Dictionary: From a recent Kessinger Mid-Western Review:

Charity covers a multitude of sins. Evidently it is something like ginger ale. What this country needs is a good 5-cent tip!

Debtor

Thank you for coming
Down my way—
A gay lass humming
A roundelay.

Thank you for staying
A little while;
Love was worth playing—
Life—a smile.

Thank you for showing
Me ecstasy;
And thank you for going

—Don Wahn.

Oop!

The editors of the Tatler and American Sketch defend their Mr. D. Brinkley, who charged Life with swiping his "Imaginary Interviews" idea. We had countered with the note that Claude Binyon, of Variety, had been writing them for years. The Tatler lads point out that Binyon's stuff is titled "Imaginary Biographies."

But what we started out to reprint was Arthur Silverblatt's letter from Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Considering that Brinkley says he has been writing them for five months and that Life only recently took them up, Silverblatt's rebuttal is that Life published them on January 8, which is more than five months ago.

"Although it may seem a trifle damaging to mention it," adds Arthur, "Robert Cutie Benchley used to do the same thing for Life many years ago. I should not be at all surprised if the Bible had a couple of them, too."

As If We Didn't Know

It is David Murray's observation that most cops would rather wet their whistles than blow them.

Wisey

Harold Stern, the Ambassador Hotel maestro, was gabbing with a city official about the traffic laws in New York. The official said:

"If caught by the traffic, the best thing to do is to stand still."

To which Harold niftied: "Yeah, and if you have time, scribble a farewell message on the back of a visiting card."

Gag

Russ Brown, a "Flying High" feature, met an actor friend who hadn't had a booking in months.

"How's the wife and kids?", asked Brown.

"Great!" was the reply. "Why, we had one of the children over to dinner last Sunday!"

Add Mean Cracks

"Dear Mr. W.," writes Jack McQuade of 2 Broadway, "coming down in the subway this morning I read the advertisement in which they boast that they have never paid for their testimonials. It gave me great satisfaction to know that somebody else was behind in paying their bills."

Ma-Ma!

"One of these days," telegraphs Willard Robison, "a certain pesky columnist who always asks for gags is going to get one with chloroform on it!"

A Fast One

The locals still titter over this one, which concerns a well-known Broadway con man. He had a counterfeit $100 bill a few years ago, they say, and wondered how he would cash it. One day, while motoring, he was arrested for violating a traffic rule. The fine was $10.

Which he paid in court with the spurious money and received 90 good dollars in change.

Add Austin Gags

Izzy Elinson's: Then there's the one about the collegiate who bought a baby Austin. He had to get the guy who writes the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin to put the wisecracks on!

Edward Pola's: A fellow in his baby Austin car got stuck on Broadway. After many futile attemps to start it, some gent in the tittering crowd yelled: "Hey, mister, maybe you need a new flint!"

And a cop rushed into a speakeasy and cried: "The feller who owns that Austin outside better hurry up out there. The mice are pulling it down a sewer!"

Emsworth Auxiliary Holds Card Party

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Emsworth, will hold a card party tonight in the parish school hall. Mrs. A. V. Rohyans is chairman of the committee in charge.

2 MILLION SEEK JOBS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—More than 2,100,000 men and women are now unemployed in Great Britain and even the most optimistic can see little signs of any brightening in this dark cloud that hangs over the economic, social and political life of the country.

For the past nine months, indeed, the position has been growing steadily worse, the unemployment total since January last being in round figures as follows: January, 1,478,800; February, 1,520,000; March, 1,547,200; April, 1,616,400; May, 1,712,000; June, 1,775,100; July, 2,011,400; August, 2,017,900, and September, 2,139,500.

The industries chiefly affected during the present year have been iron and steel manufacturing, engineering, shipbuilding, the metal trades, textiles, building and dock and harbor services. Coal mining has stayed in much the same plight as for many months past. The industries showing improvement have been the jute industry and candy manufacturing.

Cab Company Sued For $20,000 Damages

Jacob Klein, of Squirrel Hill, filed a suit in Common Pleas Court against the Yellow Cab Company, asking $20,000 damages for injuries to his wife, Fannie Klein, and their minor son, Elliott.

A taxicab collided with the Klein car, parked in Murray avenue near Phillips avenue, November 23, 1929, while Mrs. Klein and the boy were sitting in the rear seat, causing them serious injuries, the suit averred.

tell you why Palmolive Beads won unanimous approval of Committee of 17

How miracles of instant-dissolving, speed-rinsing, cool-water cleansing, now bring safety to washing of fine fabrics.

Ethel Barrymore . . . noted actress. A member of the Committee of 17 who heads the aristocracy of the stage.

Mrs. James J. Davis and Mary Roberts Rinehart, two enthusiastic members of the Committee of 17, discussing the effect of soap on silk lingerie, in Mrs. Rinehart's boudoir.

"BECAUSE Palmolive Beads dissolve instantly and protect silks against half-dissolved soap . . . because they work in water cool enough to be safe for silks . . . because they rinse away completely . . . like a flash, these are the reasons the Committee of 17 approved Palmolive Beads," say Mary Roberts Rinehart, Mrs. James J. Davis and Ethel Barrymore, members of the distinguished Committee of 17 who watched Palmolive Beads, the new soap for silks, tested in comparison with chips and flakes.

What new soap is like

In session at the Ritz Hotel, the committee heard silk manufacturers tell how modern hasty washbowl laundering of silk stockings and lingerie necessitated a soap that dissolves instantly — cleanses and rinses away 100% — in water 20 degrees cooler than chips and flakes require. How they finally solved this problem by making a soap of olive and palm oils . . . in the form of tiny, hollow, instant-dissolving "beads."

Tests reveal what new soap does

Then the new soap was tested. Mammoth test tubes revealed that the new "beads" of olive and palm oils dissolve 30 times faster than the thinnest flake or granule!

Used in water barely lukewarm, the new soap cleansed perfectly at low temperatures never usable before—temperatures advised by textile experts as "safest for silks."

Rinsing tests proved the new soap left others far behind, rinsing out 100% with not a trace of soap residue left to spot and damage delicate fabrics.

So perfectly did the new soap fulfill every requirement laid down by experts . . . that it was unanimously approved by the Committee of 17 as "the ideal soap for silks."

Famous Silk Manufacturers unite with Committee of 17 in endorsing Palmolive Beads

CHENEY — KAYSER — STEHLI
CORTICELLI — LUXITE — VANITY FAIR
HOLEPROOF — PHOENIX — VAN RAALTE

The above manufacturers analyzed Palmolive Beads in their own laboratories. They tested them again and again in washing tests on the silks they manufacture. And now all recommend Palmolive Beads for safe washing of silks.

WHAT ARTICLE IN THIS PICTURE STILL REMAINS IN YOUR HOME?

+ + Undoubtedly Uncle Claude's picture has been relegated to storage—as has that of Aunt Mehitabel. The stereopticon brought forty-three cents at the Ladies' Aid Rummage. The spaniel is in the dog cemetery, happily chasing angel cats.

Aunt Clara and Fred Zooks, the disappointed suitor (gent with stereopticon), have gone their separate ways. The old curio cabinet has been junked—but—zounds, the 1890 horsehair sofa is still in active duty. Hidden, it is true, in the second floor sitting room, and partially disguised with pillows, but still it remains the old offender. Why not modernize?

YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'RE MISSING

It's one thing to say we'll do a thing—it's quite another thing to do it. Changing tooth pastes, for example. Many of us see the PEBECO advertisements, believe their simple explanation of Pebeco's extra value. Many of us hear our friends tell of the real mouth exhilaration and comfort Pebeco gives . . . and then we put off buying it. Remember this: You'll never know what you're missing until you try Pebeco—and the trial costs mighty little. Delay no longer.

Milt Morris, who lives in Webster Hall, answered a rap on his door recently and found there a man with a big basket. When the visitor saw Morris he exclaimed in disgust, "Well, I'll be a soandso!" He was an undertaker, come to claim the body. A practical joker had telephoned him that Morris had passed on.

Speaking of such practical jokes, Roger McKelvey and little John Dean (not the Bloomfielder) had been invited persistently by a Johnstown physician to visit him. One night they took a train to Johnstown, hired an ambulance and drove up to the doctor's home with hospital sheets drawn over them on stretchers. As the doctor hurried from his home to give treatment, McKelvey piped up, "Pay the driver; we've come to visit you."

Pittsburgh numbers racketeers seem to lack the imagination owned by their colleagues in Boston. In that educated city the numbers operator offer not only the conventional prizes, but they pay 50 to 1 for what they call a "bleeder." A "bleeder" is guessing the last two numbers of the clearing-house pool, rather than all three.

Judge Thomas J. Ford won't mind if we tell of an incident which happened in his courtroom shortly before he retired. A prisoner who had been found guilty of violating the liquor laws had applied for a parole. During the parole hearing Judge Ford addressed a character witness whom he thought was the defendant. "Are you still bootlegging?" Judge Ford asked and when the character witness answered no, the jurist demanded the truth and nothing but. The day was saved when the defendant's attorney explained all.

School teachers, when they go to the shop of Mr. Schecter to be measured for clothes, are amazed when Mr. Schecter says to them, "Ah! you're a school teacher." Because most school teachers carry one shoulder higher than the other, he has no trouble identifying their occupation. Explanation: teachers, standing most of the time, fall into such a posture consciously or not.

MOJAVE, Cal., Sept. 17.—

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Did you ever see a real 100 per cent dry town? Well, I did, but I had to go to the heart of the desert to do it. It was Bodie, the old mining town that's been lately monkey glanded with a new gold scare. Mrs. Rogers and I blew in there Monday night. I wanted to show her what a real live western mining town was like at night. Well, of all the sad looking messes, it was it. The night before, 20 prohibition officers had raided the place and closed her tight. Did you ever see a miner on soda pop? You can't even console him. Every throat was dry and every eye was wet. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

Gloria Swanson Contest's Details Soon; 5 Added Prizes; Bermuda Tours

There are millions of people in America who have never seen Paris—though they all want to. Paris, where you wake up with a thrill of imagination! Paris of the shops, the races, the Ritz and the Montmartre!

This is the Paris that is going to be the delight of some one girl in the reading area of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—the de luxe tour that Gloria Swanson so generously offers. Let's find this lucky girl!

SIX TRIPS IN ALL

But Paris is not all! Five other girls will be given de luxe trips to glorious Bermuda by the Sun-Telegraph. The charms of Bermuda are long remembered by everyone who has enjoyed its splendid sunshiny weather, picturesque drives, glorious masses of flaming colors of flowers, blue waters and fine beaches inviting bathing, testing golf courses with entrancing vistas, tennis, fishing, boating, bicycling and riding—all in the British Colonial atmosphere of hospitality.

In both instances all expenses will be paid, everything will be first class and the girls will be given extra money to spend.

The girl who gets the Paris award will sail on the French liner Paris early in December and five girls who get the Bermuda trips will leave Pittsburgh at about the same time, sailing for Bermuda on one of the palatial Munson line steamships.

MUST FILE BLANKS

Girls who would like to be considered for these magnificent free tours must file the nomination blank printed on this page after reading very carefully the preliminary rules published below the blank.

Incidentally, Gloria Swanson is giving her Paris tour on account of her new picture, "What a Widow!" which comes to Loew's Penn Theater next week. The atmosphere of this picture is Parisian, much of it was filmed in the French capital and many of the scenes were taken on the French liner Paris.

If you want to go to Paris or Bermuda clip the nomination blank today and send it in right away.

NUMBER FAR BELOW LAST YEAR

Commissioners Foresee Rush Of Votes to Qualify at Final Chance on Oct. 4

Estimates based on meager reports early today from local boards to the Registration of voters in Pittsburgh's 405 election districts would total about 35,000.

The registration on the first day this year, September 4, was approximately 21,000.

Registration commissioners declared extra efforts will have to be made to induce voters to register on the last day, October 4, in order to at ; equal last year's total of 188,000.

20 DISTRICTS REPORT

The 20 districts that reported yesterday's registration are distributed as follows: one district each in the Fifth, Ninth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth Wards; two districts in the Eleventh Ward; three districts in the Fourteenth Ward, and five districts in the Nineteenth Ward.

In the last campaign for United States Senator and governor in 1926, the total registration on the second day was 24,144 while the total for the three days was 90,722.

SHOULD BE HIGHER

Since then, however, considerable territory, including Carrick, Knoxville and West Homestead Boroughs, has been annexed to Pittsburgh and the registration this year should be substantially greater.

Maid Sobs Wildly When Scolded by Cathie

CHAPTER XXI.

"So you're going to leave us, You won't stay and have Christmas dinner with us!" Cathie was making the most of her last afternoon with Gordon Moore, Mr. Farnsworth had been delayed at the office, and Cheong had sent in an elaborate tea for two.

"Can't," he smiled.

"You don't have to work on Christmas!"

"No, but I couldn't disappoint my Aunt Maude. She's blind, you know, and it means a lot to her, having us all around on days like that."

Cathie passed the sandwiches again. Certainly the thought of leaving didn't hurt HIS appetite. "But Alfred said you were returning to the mountains," she murmured, selecting another sandwich for herself, and then putting it down untasted.

"I am. She's there."

"Oh!"

"Didn't Farnsworth ever tell you about my aunt, and all of us?"

Cathie shook her head.

Cheong
Cathie Says She Is Afraid Of Him

She felt a little ashamed at having to admit it. Everyone took it for granted that she knew so much more than she did. About Mr. Farnsworth. About his family. His money. His friends. "You know he doesn't talk very much," she said evasively.

The boy, Charlie, came in with some little frosted cakes. Gordon said he'd have one in a minute, after he had another sandwich.

Then Cheong, fat, expressionless and impressive in his black silk coat, waddled in with a bowl of roses for the library table. Cathie wished he'd be quick about going, but Moore detained him, asked him questions about Chinese politics, even attempted a few sentences in Cantonese which sent the old Chinaman into a fit of silent, shaking laughter. Then Moore rose and they exchanged elaborate, extremely dignified farewells.

"Great character, Cheong."

"I suppose so. He's important enough around here. I'm scared to death of him myself!"

Temper
Chester Growls Because Of Darkness

They both laughed, and Moore said, starting in on the sandwiches all over again:

"Well, you needn't be. He'd die for Alfred Farnsworth or anyone belonging to him. He's really a big man in China, Catherine."

"Then he ought to go back, and stop scaring me to death!"

"He may have his reasons for staying here. But I wouldn't go into that if I were you. What were we talking about when he came in?"

"Your family," Cathie returned promptly.

"Oh, my aunt Maude. She's wonderful, Catherine. I'd like to have you meet her some time. She and my uncle Andrew raised my brother and myself, and we're all together in business. We call it Moore Brothers, but it's really Aunt Mauce and Uncle Andrew—and the Moore brothers thrown in for good measure!" He was laughing again, and Cathie was laughing back. She felt young, and happy and safe, sitting there in the big, dim library, where she had often been so lonely. The firelight danced, the shadows deepened, the silver kettle purred over the tiny blue flame of the spirit lamp.

"I ought to light the lamps, it is getting awfully dark," she said finally.

"I'll do it," said Moore.

But he didn't move. Neither did Cathie. They just sat there, enjoying the firelight . . . happy . . . happy . . .

"What's all this? What the hell's going on?"

It was Chester Farnsworth, switching on the lights, after he had stumbled over a hassock, and cursed because he hurt his toe.

Cathie jumped as if she had been shot. "Oh, I'm so sorry,

SEEK 2 IN ROAD HOLDUP

Police today were searching for two highwaymen who held up and robbed J. B. Corcoran, 35, an insurance collector, of 1205 Bell avenue, North Braddock, in the Pitcairn-Wilmerding road late last night. The bandits escaped in an automobile after taking $75.

Eight automobiles passed Corcoran while he was being searched by the bandits, he told Chief W. C. McDowell, of Pitcairn police, who investigated the holdup. A watch taken from Corcoran was thrown away and recovered later by its owner, McDowell said. Wires in the engine of Corcoran's car were disconnected so that he could not follow the thugs' car, police said.

JEWS TO MARK NEW YEAR

Jewish people throughout the world will greet the new year, 5691 of the Hebrew calendar, in temples and synagogues Monday night, with the sounding of the ram's horn of ancient Hebrew tradition.

The feast is known as Rosh Hashanah, "the day of blowing the trumpets." Since the dawn of Jewish history it has marked, not only the beginning of the new year, but the harvest time as well.

Traditional services will herald the joyous feast, the first event in the Jewish season of holidays.

TWO SHIPMENTS OF BEER SEIZED

Acting Deputy Administerator Robert S. Krause today reported seizing two 100-barrel shipments of high-test beer in Pittsburgh district freight yards.

After agents had guarded a shipment in the Homestead yards of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad until midnight, Krause led a squad to the yards and smashed the barrels.

The beer was in a Lehigh Valley boxcar, Krause said, and had been shipped from Newark, N. J. Both the names of the shipper and the consignee were fictitious, according to Krause.

Krause and his men seized another 100-barrel shipment in the Scully yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad several hours earlier. It was emptied into a nearby creek, according to the report.

GARDEN'S FATE WITH JURY

The fate of James Garden, Clairton grocer, accused of killing a Fourth of July reveler, was given to the jury this morning. The state asked for first degree murder, while the defense claimed the shooting was accidental.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob E. Kalson made his closing address to the jurors immediately after court convened this morning. Visiting Judge James M. Barnett, of Perry County, charged the jury.

Garden, on the stand in his own defense, said he accidentally shot Samuel Lali, 35, of 702 Miller street, Clairton, when he had gone to a window with an automatic pistol in his hand, intending to fire in the air to frighten Lali and eight or 10 others away from the front of his house where they were firing a toy cannon at 4 o'clock in the morning. He said the window stuck when he tried to open it and the gun in his hand was discharged when he used that hand in raising the sash. His wife corroborated his testimony, and said their two small children were frightened almost into hysterics by the cannon fire.

WHEELBARROW CONTEST ON

The two Pittsburgh song writers who wanted to establish a record for rolling peanuts with their noses, but who were refused a permit, today were pushing a wheelbarrow at Fifth avenue and Tunnel street for a new record.

The youths, Joe De Rocco, of 1526 Edna street, and Jack Gilbert, of 322 Penn avenue, began their new contest at 5 o'clock last night. They alternate each hour, one of them pushing the other as he rests in the wheelbarrow.

They said they intend to keep the wheelbarrow going continuously for at least 100 hours. They intend to stay at Fifth avenue and Tunnel street for the first 75 hours.

Wife Spurns '50-50' Plan, Seeks to Divorce Doctor

She refused to be a "50-50" wife, Mrs. Jean McL. S. Walker, 47, of 366 Stratford avenue, testified before Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court at the hearing of her divorce suit against Dr. William K. Walker, 62, of Phoenixville, Pa., formerly on the staff of local hospitals. They were married at Philadelphia, November 9, 1926, and parted December 9, 1927.

They had an understanding, Mrs. Walker testified that she would continue to make her home with her invalid father, who had homes in Pittsburgh, Florida and Chautauqua. Dr. Walker spent much of his time with his sisters in Phoenixville, declaring they needed him, according to Mrs. Walker, while he visited her for about two weeks at a time.

She grew tired of his prolonged absences and when she remonstrated he informed her the proposition should be a "50-50" one between her and his sisters, according to Mrs. Walker. She sued on the grounds of desertion.

NOTICES SENT TO ACCEPTED GARAGES

Stations Without Official Certificate Yet Banned Until Motor Patrol Visit

Allegheny County garages not officially notified of their appointment as stations for automobile inspections will not be permitted to inspect cars, Benjamin G. Eynon, motor vehicle commissioner at Harrisburg, notified the Pittsburgh Motor Club last night.

Certificates and stickers were mailed Friday, Eynon said. There are 268 stations in Allegheny County.

STATIONS INSPECTED

The inspection period started Monday and continues until October 31. Unless automobiles and trucks have passed the inspection during this period they cannot be driven on the highways for a period of 30 days.

The Department of Revenue has charge of issuing credentials to authorized garages and service stations. All garages that were authorized for the inspection last fall were permitted to issue permits this time. In the event complaints had been received by the department against certain garages and service stations the certificates were withheld.

Records of the department show a large number of permitees from last year have had their papers withheld because of complaints. It is these service stations that the members of the motor patrol in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County will visit during the next few days. If the patrolmen find them properly equipped they will be permitted to inspect machines.

NO EXTENSIONS

There is no intention on the part of the department to grant any extensions in the inspection period. With six weeks in which to have machines inspected it is felt there is ample time for automobile owners to comply with the Governor's proclamation and still avoid a last minute rush at inspection stations.

CHIEF CHARLES SENN

POLICE CHIEF ARTIST

When Police Chief Charles Senn, of Mt. Lebanon, is not actively engaged in protecting the citizenry of his bailiwick, he spends his time making oil paintings and sketches. Four of his canvases now adorn the walls of the new Mt. Lebanon Municipal Building, which was officially opened Monday night.

Senn has been interested in art all his life, he says. For five years he was an attache of the Carnegie Museum, where his flair for art broadened and he took the opportunity to improve his technique. Senn has painted several pieces which hang in his home.

One of his greatest ambitions is to place a painting in one of the art exhibits in the Carnegie Library.

PAYROLLS GROW IN STATE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Wage payments in manufacturing plants in Pennsylvania rose 1.5 per cent from July to August, breaking the downward trend for the first time since last March, the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported. The report said:

"This increase was attributable, in part at least, to the resumption of operations after the usual July vacations and inventory periods. The number of workers on the rolls of reporting 841 firms in August was 1.2 per cent lower than in July.

"The largest declines in both employment and wage payments occurred in the transportation equipment group. The food group also showed declines in both employment and wage payments, while the metal industries, and stone, clay and glass industries decreased in employment, but had a larger volume of wage disbursements. Textiles, as a group, showed a small gain in employment and a substantial increase in wage payments, some of the industries chiefly responsible being silk goods and hosiery. Other groups experiencing gains in both employment and wage payments were lumber products, chemical products, leather and rubber products and paper and printing."

The Sun-Telegraph's "Question Box" each day will ask a question of Public Interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question—Does the average person value very highly a place in the social register?

Jack Kronenberg

JACK KRONENBERG, Squirrel Hill, student, Tech—No, I don't believe that the average person does value a position in the social register very highly. Most people realize that such a position is mostly a money - making security.

Reva Wetzel

REVA WETZEL, North Side—Yes, I believe that the average person does value his social position. It is through social influence that most things are accomplished. This means a lot to anyone in any line of work.

Charles Schatvet

CHARLES SCHATVET, Squirrel Hill, student, Tech—My answer to this question is "yes." The reason for my answer is that I believe such a position satisfies one's vanity and puts one in a position to better one's self.

Clark Chandler

CLARK CHANDLER, Squirrel Hill, student, Tech—Yes, the average person does value his social position. He realizes that though it isn't always necessary to him, still, it is an asset that is very satisfying to the individual.

Edward Sharp

EDWARD SHARP, automobile dealer, Herron Hill—Yes, I believe that every person values his position in the social register. As we are all social beings, the estimation of our associates means a great deal to us. It is through this medium that we may help each other.

Miss Hogan

ELIZABETH HOGAN, nurse, North Side—No, the average person does not value very highly his position in the social register. He can accomplish just as much without any aid that he might receive through his social standing. I believe that his own individuality can do as much for him.

LUCKY GIRL

Chester, did you hurt yourself?"

"Darn right I did. Kicked hell out of my toe. Why the devil don't you have some lights around here so a man won't break his neck?" And before she could answer he went out again, and the heavy front door slammed behind him.

Gordon Leaves

Cathie Makes Tour of Inspection

"My dear, I'm so sorry, I wouldn't have had it happen for anything!"

"Oh, it wasn't your fault, Gordon!" Cathie cried quickly. "Besides he just took that as an excuse to show his temper. If that had not happened it would have been something else. We—we don't get along very well."

Moore held up a warning finger. Someone else was coming. It was Farnsworth senior.

Cathie's last tete-a-tete with Gordon Moore was over.

After he was gone Cathie went into the room that had been his, to look around. He might have left a tooth brush, or something that she could return to him, people were always forgetting things, especially men.

No, there was no toothbrush in the bathroom. Nothing in the big cedar closet. Nothing in the drawers of the mahogany dresser. Who'd have thought that Gordon Moore would be so careful? He certainly didn't look it—always so casual and carefree.

There was quite a nice view from the window. Really better than from her room. Cathie pulled aside the flowered chintz curtains and stared out at the gray December sky. Cold. Maybe it was snowing in the mountains. She pictured soft whiteness underfoot, and the green branches of pines weighed down with snow. After all, the country was the place, at Christmas time!

She went over and twitched at the scarf on the dresser table, rearranged the few silver toilet articles. She didn't know why she was lingering . . . still, it was nice to be here . . . where he had been. Minutes passed. She stood there, lost in vague, half troubled dreams.

Angered

Marguerite Hysterical After Being Scolded

"I said, was there anything you wanted me to do?" And there was the maid, Marguerite, putting the question indifferently, staring avidly, a knowing look in her glittering red-brown eyes.

Quick anger flared in Cathie's heavy heart. This was too much, the girl was always following her around, staring, spying, telling her disturbing, frightening things. "No! there's nothing!" she flared, "and I won't have you—interfering!"

The girl's mouth twitched, stretched into a crooked smile that showed her broken, blackened teeth. "All right. You said it. See if I care what happens to you!"

Cathie gulped, to keep back a senseless, angry retort. No use in having words. Trouble enough without that.

As she turned to leave the room with what dignity she could summon the girl sidled closer and said with averted downcast eyes, "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Farnsworth. I didn't go to make you mad. It's just that you're the only one in the world I can care for now . . . I—I'd cut off my right arm for you!" She made an awkward rush at Cathie, and half fell, half threw herself at Cathie's feet, sobbing hysterically, clutching at her knees in a paroxysm of hopeless weeping.

For a moment Cathie stood like an iron woman, paralyzed with shame and astonishment. Never in her life had she seen anything like it. The abandonment, the groveling.

"Don't! Please don't!" she begged, her own cheeks flaming, her own eyes beginning to fill.

Marguerite's sobs grew louder, her tears soaked Cathie's thin skirt.

"Shh! Please, oh, please stop!" Cathie begged, and because the girl wouldn't get up and she couldn't bear to have her kneeling, groveling that way, she, too, knelt and began to shake the hysterical creature. "Stop it! Do you hear me! Stop it!"

"Oh, Mrs. Farnsworth, I love you so, I love you so!" But after a while the sobs ceased. Marguerite wiped her red eyes on her apron and went back to work.

Cathie went to her room and washed her arms and hands. She was sorry for the girl—frightfully sorry for her. But she wished she wouldn't talk so much, and cry all over her that way. She scrubbed at her hands. Marguerite's tears and kisses made her feel unclean. She scrubbed again, and hated herself for it. But she couldn't help it, she couldn't wash the memory of that bestial groveling away.

FOLLOW DIAGONAL LINE FOR SMART SILHOUETTE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—That the diagonal line is a short cut to smartness is still obvious from even a cursory survey of the new offerings. Ever so many frocks exhibit diagonal encrustations and bands, as do many coats, both with most pleasing results. For the diagonal line adds immeasurably to the silhouette and is often the most effective trimming when distinction is demanded for a simple evening frock. The principal feature of many frocks is the back interest and couturiers seem to strive bravely to offer variations on the back decollete theme. Straps of strass that cross the back and end at the waist are shown on many frocks. Other frocks are content to dispense with any back at all.

HEAVY IVORY SATIN is just now one of the most popular fabrics for evening gowns of grace and distinction. Such models are simply but expertly made with an utter absence of trimming. They rely on clever handling of the material and a perfect silhouette to attain the goal of expensive simplicity that Paris considers so important and wise women, so desirable.

THE VERY LOVELY dress sketched is from the new house of Alex, which is having considerable success for a newcomer. The dress depicted is a typical model. It is of heavy ivory satin, with diagonal encrustations of the material used in the contrasting direction of the material. This gives a shaded effect to the alternating surfaces which is most interesting as a detail and most effective, to boot. An encrusted flat bow is placed on the right hip, and a loose, looped one trims the opposite shoulder. The draping of the irregular-edged circular flounce is well done and affords the dress considerable animation.

THE COAT is from the attractive and most successful collection chez Lucille Paray. It is a rough surface woolen in dark blue with a crush collar and puffed cuffs of beaver. The side fastening is very new and smart with its row of large buttons extending down to the hem. The bolero starts at one side of the front and journeys across the back, stopping just behind the left arm. This one-sided effect is repeated in a loose panel on the skirt of this most practical but good-looking coat.

New Couturier Type COATS

To begin with, they are very unusual coats. You have just to wrap their soft luxuriousness about you to know that.

And they are very inexpensive—soft fabrics lavished with the fine furs that do not often occur on coats "just above a hundred."

The coat sketched, in black Oriola and Jap Cross Fox, uses Patou's oversleeve and high fitted line with distinction.

Others show just as intimate knowledge of the tailor-couturiers—of Chanel's fur borders, Lanvin's full sleeve and Russian lines, the sweep of Vionnet, and the long fitted lines of Worth, Martial et Armand and Lelong.

Of course, one model will seem just "made" for you.

True Folk Music
"Blue Danube" Best
Boston Symphony
Damrosch and Radio

—By LOUIS REID—

Louis Reid

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Jazz is now called the true folk music of America. Most everything has been termed the true folk music of America from the old time chants of the plantations, the everexisting melodies of Stephen Foster, the airs of early minstrel troupes, the lowdowns of the backwoods to the amorous ballads of Tin Pan Alley.

I would not be surprised if the jazz classification stuck, especially since the music masters of Vienna have taken up the cry. The Viennese appear to have effected a musical entente with America. They send us waltzes which even now set us dancing with a smile on our lips. In return we send them jazz which sets them dancing with tears in their eyes.

The Danube is said to have inspired more melody than any other river known to man and H. G. Wells, though I have a notion not enough credit has been given to the cafes which line its banks. In the old days before the war any Viennese with a fair imagination and music in his soul had only to gaze at the Danube and lo an operetta with languorous waltzes sprang to life.

Relegated to the shelves of the dance maestros when jazz reared its flaming head, the waltzes are now being dusted off for the microphones. Fifty million listeners can't be wrong. They cup their ears lingeringly to Johann Strauss. Oscar Straus—spell it with one "s," printer!—Lehar and Fall all cry for more.

"Blue Danube" Still Best of All Waltzes

"The Beautiful Blue Danube" of course takes precedence, as of course it should. In the charm of its melody and the lilt of its rhythm no waltz has ever approached it. I never hear it that I don't anticipate a gay senility, just as I never hear the "Merry Widow Waltz" that I don't sigh over a vanished youth.

One of the most memorable waltz nights to American armchairs was the occasion last winter when Oscar Straus waved a baton in person over an orchestra weaving its way through his melodies. Though his mind may have been on the Hollywood gold fields, to which he was trekking, his heart was upon his work at hand and the result was an evening of haunting fiddles.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is at last to be heard on the networks of the nation. Jenkins, hand me my megaphone! Long has this particular listening post set up a clamor for the Boston band. It remained the only notable musical group in the republic that was consistently silent at the crossroads of the country. We hoped our cry, last uttered early in the summer, would be heard by the mahatmas of the microphone. It was. Mahatma Aylesworth, of the NBC, whispered to us in confidence soon after that he had taken our hint and was negotiating with the Boston organization.

Boston Symphony Now Radio-Minded

Comes now a bulletin that the famous band is preparing a special radio concert that will reach from the Back Bay to the Presidio, a concert, moreover, that, like those of the Philadelphia Orchestra last year, will not play down to what might be considered the musical tastes of the cretonned cogswell.

Those who persist in hailing Floyd Gibbons as the fastest talker ever heard on the air have not cupped an ear to Billy Sunday. . . . Walter Winchell, the Baedeker of Broadway, beginning a new series of broadcasts, refers to his activity as floydgabbing. . . . It remained strangely for the Australian-born Percy Grainger to write a composition based on the familiarly American background of "Spoon River." . . . Whatever became of Edgar Lee Masters?

The respective merits of slow and fast jazz rhythms continue to agitate radio circles. Vallee is the leading exponent of the slow style, while Dr. Rolfe holds that flying feet are best for the dance . . . James J. Corbett is now on the air talking over old times—those times before the boxing turnstiles attracted some of "our very best people."

Just as no theatrical season in the old days could be said to have begun until John Drew opened at the Empire so no radio season can be said to be inaugurated until Walter Damrosch brings his soothing accents to the microphone. It won't, as the professors say, be long now.

The soothsayers of the air continue to predict in the papers that television is five years away. Nearly two decades have passed since we last heard the grandpaternal dogma: "You mustn't believe all you read in the papers." Those maestros who desire above all to excite their hearers are still setting up huzzahs for Ravel's "Bolero."

Pennsy Boy Amazes Mother

"Frank's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. M. Zuschlag, 7248 So. 66th St., Philadelphia. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated.

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give Frank some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

AMOCO-GAS ... the One Complete Motor Fuel

IF you can remember far enough back--and you don't have to remember very far, at that--there was a time when you were being told by other oil companies that special motor fuels were unnecessary.

Those were the days when Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel, was still the only special motor fuel.

Now they are all trying to jump aboard the Amoco bandwagon--or doing their best to "hitch on behind". But Amoco-Gas is still as superior to other premium motor fuels as other premium motor fuels are to regular gasolines.

For while some motor fuels may give you a few of the advantages of Amoco-Gas, no other motor fuel can give you ALL the advantages of Amoco-Gas--the one complete motor fuel.

AMOCO-GAS is the original special motor fuel.

AMOCO-GAS gives more miles per gallon.

AMOCO-GAS does away with motor knocking.

AMOCO-GAS gives tremendous and uniform power.

AMOCO-GAS starts easily and instantly.

AMOCO-GAS gives greater driving flexibility.

AMOCO-GAS eliminates deposit nuisance and saves the motor.

Naturally, Amoco-Gas costs more to make and must be sold at a higher price than less efficient motor fuels. But that higher price at the start is returned to you many times over--not only in more miles per gallon, but in lessened repair bills and in increased re-sale value of your car!

It is low cost per mile that counts.

FLORIDA EDITOR SHOOTS MAN

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 17—(INS.)—Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee editor and one of three men recently charged with a plot to assassinate Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, yesterday shot and slightly wounded Oscar L. Bankston in a street brawl in front of the county court house.

Bankston was shot in the right thumb, the bullet from the editor's pistol breaking the bone at the knuckle.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

"Hack" Wilson of the Chicago Cubs is the only national celebrity on Pittsburgh's ether lane tonight.

Hack Wilson

"Hack" — Louis Robert is his real name—is to be interviewed for WCAE listeners at 10:30. We have a hazy memory of meeting "Hack" at WJAS about four years ago. We believe the person who coined the expression "Big Boy" got his inspiration from this hefty fellow. That night he carried Lloyd Waner and Brian McDonald to the microphone. A very playful boy when he gets started . . . only we're glad he didn't feel Apache-minded on that occasion.

There's power plus in Hack's bulky shoulders—and that accounts for the home run record he has set in the National League this season. Perhaps he'll tell us about it.

A special duo arrangement of "Humoresque" is billed for the Twenty Fingers of Sweetness, KDKA at 7:15.

"BY THE WAY . . ."

Don Bestor sends his regards and invites us to be with him when he opens in Pirate Hall at the William Penn on Saturday night, October 4. . . . "Did You Mean It?" and "If You Could Care for Me" are Irene Bordoni's selections for KDKA fans at 9:30. . . . Harrison Wells wants to know if Graham McNamee will sing "On the Road to Mandalay" at the Radio Show . . . we won't guarantee that . . . it all depends on how he feels after coming over the road to Pittsburgh by airplane from the world series at Philadelphia . . . Phil Cook cannot take a vacation because of a year's contract which stipulates appearances twice daily without interruption . . . Larry Jacobs implores us to hear Fuzzy Knight's bedtime story on KQV at 8:30 . . . Wilfred Glenn, NBC bass, always carries a couple of juicy lemons into the studio for his voice.

QUESTION A DAY:

Dot Harding, Squirrel Hill—How fast does Floyd Gibbons actually speak?

A.—About 200 words a minute or 3.3 words per second. Last Sunday he hurled 5,193 words at the microphone in 26 minutes.

Dick Powell, Ed Lowry, Milton Slosser, David Broudy and other stars are booked for a series of Warner Radio Revues to be given over KDKA each Monday night at 11:15, starting next week.

"Announcers Beware."

"Chicago Red" holds a sign in front of us with the names of four favorite programs listed, while the other hand grasps a revolver and says:

"What, in your opinion, will be the four leaders in the Radio Poll this month?"

Nothing intimidating, just a suggestion that we might be taken for a ride.

But it's all in fun.

If WNBO comes to Pittsburgh, the studios will be in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Did you like Henry and George last night? We did.

Next time they're on the air, pause to reflect that Teddy Bergman—"George"—once was an intercollegiate wrestling champion while Herbert Polesie—"Henry"—made his debut on KDKA as "Daddy Winkum," the bedtime story teller.

TODAY'S TID-BIT:

Studio doors at the networks are locked 10 minutes before the program goes on the air. But an extra man must stand by to open the exits in case of fire or other emergency.

Simple Idea Saves Dollars in Silk Hose

Did you ever realize that it is the oily secretion of the sebaceous glands and rubbing that keeps you buying silk hose and undergarments every week or so. This invisible oil film that neat-to-the-skin garments absorb is destructive to silks because it softens and rots the fibre. Soap and water alone will not cleanse it out. Only a solvent like Energine cuts it.

Add a tablespoonful of Energine to a quart of lukewarm soapy water. Wash through—rinse well. Note the new cleanliness, the pleasing freshness—see how well the original color is restored. And all this with far less rubbing. You'll be amazed at difference in results from washing in just soap and water and your silken hose and undergarments will last much longer.

And don't forget that gasoline and Energine daily for quick removal of dirt and grease spots from suits, hats, dresses, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35c. Get Energine today.

A clear skin is irresistible . . .

in fact, popularity depends upon it

YOU KNOW your skin is constantly undergoing a change!

Invisibly you shed the old skin and take on the new. The quality of the new depends very largely upon the quality and the vitality of your red-blood-cells—those vital "cells" that build, nourish and repair tissue.

Whatever treatment you may use for your complexion, remember the important fact that natural beauty—a clear skin and a rose-petal complexion—comes from within.

More red-blood-cells and of the right quality! That's the answer to a sallow complexion and to pimples and boils.

The way to regain the red-blood-cells is to take S.S.S.—the Tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Your skin will clear up! Your whole body will be strengthened!

If popularity and a clear skin are slipping away from you try S.S.S. Its successful record of over 100 years is a guarantee of satisfaction.

Complexion cleared up beautifully

Miss Mary Rank, Clearwater, N. Y., writes: "My face was blemished with many pimples. No treatment I used did them any good. I also had boils. My appetite was poor. My weight was off and I felt nervous. After taking S.S.S. my complexion cleared up beautifully. My appetite improved. I now rest well at night and am greatly benefited in every way. Because S.S.S. helped me I think it is the best blood medicine!"

Pimples and blackheads disappeared

Mrs. Mary E. Parker, Bahama, N. C., writes: "Because of a rundown condition my appetite was poor. I felt tired in the mornings and was troubled with pimples and blackheads. Red bumps came on my face once or twice monthly. After taking S.S.S. the pimples and blackheads disappeared and my skin became clear. I do not feel tired upon rising in the mornings. I had tried a number of medicines but S.S.S. is the one that helped me."

Blood is Life!

You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

Pimples and boils, body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness and sallow complexion are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

Raquel Goes Away Hoping Eric Will Hate Her

CHAPTER LV.

When Alphonse Courbet, studying his collection of jades—conceded to be finest in current annals of art—heard the tinkle of a telephone on his night desk, he sensed impending change.

It must be. He had scarcely slept since his return from New York weeks ago. Raquel Rojos—"le his noir"—now about to be transplanted from his own exotic garden into an English countryside—Raquel was lost to him.

Always he had been able to get that which he desired. If it eluded him for a while, he waited. In the end, he won. He was, for example, disdainful of marriage. He had never married. Yet he had known many beautiful women.

The treasures of art he coveted had come eventually into his hand. These were the passion of his soul. Women were but a passing fancy. He loved beauty in all its forms. Women were but one expression of beauty. A beautiful not that died down quickly into a hollow echo of itself. When beauty died, the medium through which it had been expressed held no more interest for him.

There was Pauline in New York. Once she was a wild rose, fresh and tender and flushed. How quickly she had faded. She had become a nuisance—a whining, whimpering, fawning creature that sickened him.

Realizes Truth

"Raquel," he said, and hurried to answer the tinkling bell. "In her I have found eternity of beauty. I hunger for her always, even though she came to be the living image of the one she calls her specter, the incredible Bosart."

Raquel was grateful that Alphonse showed neither surprise nor resistance to her request that she be allowed to go on to Deauville immediately.

"The car will come for you before eight," he said. "Have only the things for your immediate needs packed. I will send an entirely new selection to your hotel in Deauville. And for Miss Greta, too. The chauffeur will receive full instructions."

"But you—" wistfully—"I thought you were going too, for a holiday."

The veins on his long, tapering hands stood out like blue welts. His brow was damp. The cords of his throat worked.

She wanted him. She needed him. He had not schemed, agonized, for naught. He had given her her head with this fellow Stafford. It was a gamble. Was the appetite for the fleshpots he had created in this woman strong enough to survive a single knawing ambition? Would she immolate the senses on the altar of a tradition?

He believed she would not. Her appetite for beauty, for the velvet of life, was insatiable. But he could not be sure—until now. He realized that she was running away from Stafford.

"I'll be down, later," he said, casually.

Speak About Eric

She sounded a bit hurt by his lack of enthusiasm.

"Gosh!" Greta complained as she hurried across the garden to the waiting car. "What an hour to get an honest girl out of bed."

Raquel had already settled into the thick gray cushions.

"It will be a glorious ride," she said, lightly.

"Blimey!" Greta, settling into the other corner. "Throwing away a title doesn't give you a single thrill. You just toss it overboard and wait for the splash."

"There's no use weeping about it," said Raquel, coolly.

"No, but it does seem pretty rough on 'is lordship, giving him the gate this way and slamming it in his face."

"It is better so. He will hate me. He is that sort. Anything so lacking in delicacy, in decency, especially on the part of a woman, he will find detestable."

"You want him to hate you?"

"Yes. It will be easier, for him. His suffering will be acute, but short-lived. He will go back to his Cynthia. He really loves her. Down deep. His feeling for me is different. It is like the unreal emotion born of a drug."

"You mean you drug 'em?" teased Greta, seeing Raquel was likely to fall into the doldrums again.

Raquel smiled mirthlessly.

"Not exactly," she said. "At least I don't mean to. I could have built Eric's passion into something deeper, more permanent. But to do it would have meant walking through dust, breathing eating, thinking dust. I think that no position, however high, is worth that price."

Thinks of Brother

As they glided along the open road that unwound like a white ribbon through green fields, a small boy ran toward them waving a bunch of wild flowers in his grimy hands.

Raquel signaled the chauffeur to stop the car. She took a handful of francs from her bag—without regard to the denomination—and held them toward the boy as she gathered in the flowers. He stood, stupefied for a moment, at the fortune that had befallen him. Then, with a shrill cry of joy, he started pell-mell toward a thatched cottage down a lane.

"Jose," murmured Raquel. "Now he will not ride on a fat sleek pony with a groom at its head."

"What's that about grooms?" asked Greta.

"Nothing. I was just thinking about a little boy I once knew."

They lunched in the ancient Inn of William the Conqueror, with its old-fashioned garden of sweet herbs and its great kitchen of shining brasses.

At the last moment Greta came out of the kitchen with a large copper kettle, which she exhibited proudly to Raquel, already waiting in the car.

"It's stunning," said Raquel, "but what are you going to do with it?"

Arrive at Deauville

"Who cares?" purled Greta, swinging the kettle so that its sides caught the light of the sun. "The main thing is that I got it. I practically had to blast, though. My! these frogs are tough eggs to open."

"Do you mean it's a gift?" Raquel asked incredulously.

"Ba-ay, dearie, you don't think I'm cutting paper dolls yet, or moping around buying brass kettles. This bimbo had tears in his eyes when he ceased to struggle. He's the big noise in this joint. Maj. Doughmore."

Raquel knew she should remonstrate with this naughty, greedy Greta. She could not. The laughter would come, despite her effort to suppress it.

In Deauville they found a suite had been engaged for them at the Hotel Normandie.

Raquel liked the place at once. It was gay. Bright globes of scarlet geraniums and patches of purple petunias rioted along window-ledges of the quaint timbered building. One lunched and dined on a broad open veranda level with the garden.

"Gosh!" said Greta, "get a load of that ocean. We gotta get some sea-going bathing-suits, dearie. I'll simply froth at the mouth if I have to sit under an umbrella and look pretty for the papas."

"We'll go for a dip early tomorrow before the beach is crowded."

"Wait a minute, dearie. Hold everything. I think I see a bimbo I know. Back in the old home town. Whoopsie. I find 'em, no matter where they hide."

Fay King Prefers Business Failure, Human Success to Tainted Riches

OH WELL, BUSINESS IS BUSINESS SOMEDAY WHEN I'VE MADE MY MILLION I'LL TURN PHILANTHROPIC IN A BIG WAY!
FAY KING
YOU ARE SURE THAT THIS IS A GOOD INVESTMENT.

By FAY KING

Many a failure in business is a success as a human being. They have failed because they could not do some things which are excused by the slogan, "business is business." Fortunes founded in taking an unfair advantage of a fellow man in times of need and distress, or mishandling another's life savings are not successes to be proud of.

Far better to fail at making a fortune than to fail one's fellow man.

Philanthropy later in life does not change the unsound foundation of wealth accumulated in discredit.

Madge Plans to Outwit the "Trailing Detective"

Mary's earnestness was so convincing, besides dove-tailing with my knowledge of the private detective's presence in the Hasbrouck home, that I no longer doubted the accuracy of her vision, as I had done when she first told me of the man she had seen watching our window.

"Suppose you tell me everything about it," I said, "what made you look out of the window? Did you hear anything which frightened you?"

"N-o—but didn't you ever get the uncanny impression that someone was behind you watching you?"

"Yes—go on."

"Well! I was sitting here trying to read, after you left—but I couldn't get what you said about Jack Leslie out of my mind. I had locked the door, and I knew there was no way for anyone to get in this second-story window, no vines, nor anything like that, so I didn't think anything about locking it or pulling down the curtain. And then, as I sat here, reading one sentence over and over, and not knowing in the least what I was reading, something seemed to speak to me. It was like a real human voice, and it said, 'Look behind you! look behind you!'"

Her voice was suddenly shrill, and I started as if she had given me the command. But she had no eyes for my reaction. All her being was focused on the memory of that summons from her inner consciousness.

"I had sense enough to put my book down, get out of the chair and stretch my arms as if I were tired. Then I switched off my light and stole over to the window. But I walked right up to the middle of it, and it didn't take me a second to spot the field glasses and the man holding them. I thought for a second he had a gun trained on me, and I ducked. But I didn't scream and the next second I poked my head just above the sill and looked again. But he had ducked, too, behind the bushes. If I hadn't been watching I wouldn't have seen him steal away down the other side of the little hill."

"The other side of the little hill," I repeatedly slowly. "Then he didn't come toward the house."

"Not then. Of course he might have gone that way first and then come a long way around. Why?" her voice was suddenly sharp. "Do you think he is in the house?"

I tossed Harry Underwood's subterfuge into the discard and substituted one of by own, possessing. I told myself, at least a bit of truth.

"Yes, I am sure he is," I said, "but I'm also sure he has no connection with Jack Leslie."

She had slumped against the back of her chair at the first part of my answer, but she sat erect at the second and stared at me.

"Do you remember the man in the black roadster who was just behind us when Mr. Underwood made that burst of speed on the parkway?" I asked.

"I thought there was something in the wind," she said sagely, "when you changed seats. But I was so busy talking to Mrs. Underwood as you asked, that I didn't keep my eyes open much. I did see him, though—a stocky man, not so big as Mr. Underwood, but taller than most. Auntie Madge!"—she broke off with widened eyes—"I couldn't see clearly, of course, now that I think it over, the man outside looked like that man in the black roadster."

"I'm quite sure that he is," I told her, "and that he trailed us up here. But he is not connected with Jack Leslie—rather with someone interested in keeping track of Mrs. Underwood's movements."

Apparently my fallacious little theory was convincing, for she settled back in her chair with an air of relief.

"I suppose I'm a selfish pig to be glad," she said, "but—Mrs. Underwood and you know so well what to do—you're a match for anybody, while I—against Jack Leslie—I feel like——"

"I know der," I interrupted, "and I think you'll be glad of the plan I concocted a few minutes ago, when Mrs. Hasbrouck told me that a man in a black roadster had asked for lodging. Would you be willing to start our drive home about 4 o'clock this morning?"

She sprang from her chair, astonished delight and zest for the adventure written in her face.

"Oh! you darling clever Auntie Madge," she caroled, but I stopped her with a hasty finger on my lips.

"You don't want to let him know what we're planning," I whispered, "and I don't want to waken Mrs. Underwood until the last minute possible."

"I'll be careful," she whispered back, "but"—with eyes suddenly dubious—"suppose he hears us and follows!"

"That's just what I mean to prevent—if I can," I answered. "Lock your door again. I'm going down stairs to see Mrs. Hasbrouck."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, September 18

Fairly interesting planetary conditions are noted in operation on this day. New plans and ventures should succeed and fresh agreements or contracts are in order, with promise of advancement or safe negotiations with employers or those in places of authority.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a fairly active and successful year, with new plans and projects advancing and with assistance of employers or of large corporations or secret societies. Direct methods as well as measures of diplomacy or strategy should flourish.

A child born on this day should be lively, gifted, enterprising and aggressive and should reach good station in business, employment, literary pursuits or diplomacy.

My husband and I have been married only a few months, and we have adopted a 4-year-old boy. As we have many out-of-town friends and acquaintances whom we wish to know of this fact, we wondered if it would be proper to send announcements, and, if so, what form would be used.

MUMSIE AND DADDIE.

Although sometimes announcements are sent to make known this generous-hearted occasion, still I think that a better form suggests that you write short notes to your out-of-town friends and acquaintances (at least to your friends), telling them of this adoption. It seems a more dignified way of making this known—don't you think so? And blessings from me, too, on your fine and beautiful decision to make a child happy and to give it the love and care that you suggest in your sweet signature!

The Appreciative Prize Winner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please give me some points regarding this question? What would a letter of thanks to a person, who has donated a prize which I have received, contain? E. M.

Something like this:

My Dear Mrs. Graham:

I am so especially happy and proud at having won the prize which you donated for ——— that I want very much to tell you of my gratitude to you and of my deep appreciation of your generosity and great kindness. I have set as my goal the accomplishment of the ideal for which the prize stands, and I feel very keenly that only by the accomplishment of this can I adequately show you my real appreciation of your goodness in planning this prize.

My thanks to you always, Mrs. Graham, and my best wishes.

Very truly yours,

Bread and Butter Plates at the Simple Luncheon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly inform me if bread and butter plates with individual butter knives may be used for a luncheon when only a salad, rolls and a dessert and a drink are served?

ANXIOUS.

Yes—and most conveniently, too. They are distinctly needed for the rolls and butter that are served with the salad.

Household Hints

The man or woman who always puts his or her suit on a hanger as soon as it is removed will rarely have to worry about the tailor. It is the careless handling after removing that usually causes the mussiness and creases.

Each week brush off the soot that gathers on the coils of the gas hot water heater. Less gas will be required to heat the water if the coils are kept clean.

If you do not care to bother about labels on your jars of preserves, scratch the name of the jelly or preserves into the paraffin that covers it. Use a pointed skewer for this work.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Does Sartorial Perfection Mean a Dash of Lavender and Plumed Hats?

Would you rather wear satin breeches and lace ruffles than tweed plus fours, Eddie?

And how about that old felt hat of yours, Bill—like to swap it for a floppy brim with a flowing plume, and maybe wear a nifty cape to further enhance your manly beauty?

No, don't strike! I'm not kidding you. Nor is some other sentimental sister trying to hand you the laugh. Us girls have no hand in this questionnaire. It's entirely engineered by a guy who signs himself "Pete"—and who feels that his life is being ruined by wearing regular he clothes. And—though I hate to concede anything to a male who wants his hair waved, I'll have to admit that some of his arguments sound reasonable.

So switch off Amos 'n' Andy, and take a chance on this.

Dear Miss Martin:

"I've been reading your articles for a long time, and I think they're very sensible, so I want to ask you to write one on a subject that interests me deeply. And I know it will interest a lot of other fellows, too.

"What is that subject? Dress reform for men. I think that the way we men dress nowadays is the ugliest in history of the world, and I don't see why we should stand for it.

"Women dress beautifully and artistically. Why shouldn't we men do the same? I can't see a bit of sense in the clothes we wear now. Get a few hundred of us together, for instance, and what have you? What looks like an army of colorless robots!

"Why shouldn't men dress to please the eye? Is there anything wrong with it? No, there isn't. And I know darned well that there are a lot of other men, who, just like myself, envy women for their graceful dress and vivid, lively colors. If they don't why are they so anxious to stick on these gaudy lodge costumes you see now and then, and go parading around the streets?

"And talk about the discomfort of the modern male's suit! Miss Martin, if you ever tried to wear one, you'd be just as hot under the collar as I am. And I don't mean that to be funny, either. If there is anything worse than having to go around on a hot Summer day, got up for what's supposed to be polite society, you've got to show me what it is.

"A woman can take off her coat, and sit around with no sleeves, and to tell the truth not much else, on . . . and nobody looks horrified, or thinks she's exposed. She can even dine sans hose, and only a few old fogies look shocked. But just let a man take his coat off, and see the war start.

"But in spite of all that, I'm not strong for these pictures that have been coming out in the newspapers, lately, showing so-called 'reform' costumes. Pajamas that look like you were ready to crawl in for a snooze—or those ridiculous shorts that expose all the knobs on the masculine knee . . . All of them just as colorous and uninteresting as what we already have. No sir. I think they outrage all our artistic sensibilities even more than the queer stuff the 'well-dressed man' hangs on himself now, even if they are comfortable and healthy.

"Why should men make themselves as ugly as possible? Are they afraid somebody'll accuse them of being vain if they don't? Ha! I have a suspicion that it is vanity, and nothing else but, that makes 'em so self-conscious. "I think the old boys back in Colonial days . . . or maybe the days of the old Cavaliers . . . had the right idea. They looked like something!

"What's wrong with men dressing like that now? Oh, I know, some big 'He Man' will rise up and yowl at this. And accuse me of wanting to make a 'sissy' out of him. But those old boys were not sissies. Not by a yard!

"They dressed in lively colors and plumed hats. They looked like something beside a mole . . . but they packed a punch like Jack Dempsey. Look at George Washington! He wore ruffles and buckled knee breeches! Does anyone want to insinuate that he was a sissy?

"Look at men like Thomas Jefferson and John Paul Jones. THEY wore silk hose and lace at their cuffs. They waved their hair and wore wigs. Sissies? Not them!

"I'll bet you my new two-pants suit that if the truth were known, a lot of my brothers under the skin would like to put on the kind of glad rags they wore.

"Anyway, I'm strong for more artistic and comfortable clothes for men, and I'd like to hear what the world thinks of the idea. I have a hunch that it'll be pretty popular before many more years have passed over this old planet. What do you think? "PETER HERRICK."

Being a wise girl, I'm not doing any thinking, Big Boy. I'm going to pass the buck to the gang instead.

How about it, partner? What's it to be—Tweed Trousers or Plush Pants?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Are Competitive Sports Harmful to Young Girls?

Some day I am going to write what I think about athletics for boys. Today I wish to say something about athletics for girls.

DR. COPELAND

Every once in a while we hear of a girl who is an outstanding success in the athletic world. I am not speaking of freaks or persons of accidental skill. I mean a girl who is an all-round athlete, one who is so well trained and developed in physical prowess that she just naturally forges ahead of her sisters.

Those young women who have been going from America to the Olympic games are the type of girl athlete who from the earliest days of childhood perhaps had physical training in some special form of athletics. They may excel in swimming, or tennis, or golf. They have trained their bodies to vigorous exercise day in and day out for years and come to a mastery of their particular bent in athletics.

The average girl needs some physical activity to keep her well and happy. No girl in school can compete for athletic honors unless she is meeting the academic standards of her school. In any well-balanced educational institution competition in athletics must be coupled with satisfactory progress in the matter of learning. Once in a while we hear of a girl who carries off the academic honors plus the athletic prizes.

The girl who has learned how to swim, how to play tennis, basketball, hockey, and perhaps baseball or golf, is probably the healthiest and the happiest girl alive. That is, she is if she takes them in moderation. Her mind is alert and she is interesting to talk to.

Occasionally we meet a school principal who says she doesn't really believe in competitive sports for girls. It must be admitted, of course, that there is some danger in a girl's overdoing in the field of sports.

But most of the schools now take precautions in seeing that physical examinations are given to the students under their care before any strenuous physical exercises are permitted. Most students in our private schools and high schools where competitive sports are allowed are required to bring a doctor's certificate of physical fitness on undertaking such sports. That should be the universal rule in the case of every school boy or girl.

Girls of today have every reason to be thankful that they live in an age so untrammeled. They benefit by the sensible rules of living, by the fashions in sports, fashions in dress and the customs of the day. Indoors, they enjoy healthful, well-ventilated school buildings. All these add to the girls' store of physical well-being.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the hair feels gummy after a shampoo give another shampoo with eggs. Not all soaps rinse out as they should. Care must be taken in the choice of the shampoo medium, which must be bland and contain no alkali.

It is a mistake to permit the skin surface to sunburn to the flaying stage. The scorched epidermis comes off in patches and creates blotches that may hang on until Santa Claus comes next winter. After exposure to strong sunlight the skin should be well oiled. Cold water compresses placed atop the cold-creamed surface will take the fever out of the tissues and help along the process of reconstruction.

Gooseflesh is caused by the formation of tiny dry pustules—or at least one kind of gooseflesh is that way. Proper treatment consists of the warm soapy bath with a firm brush. The friction of the brush arouses the capillaries that are close to the skin surface; they set the cutaneous house in order. Applications of warm oil of sweet almonds should follow the sudsing and the friction.

A marcel wave properly given can be as rigidless as a water wave. The wave should be wide and smooth and should not bush away from the scalp. The hurried water wave, when there is not sufficient time for a thorough drying, can be strengthened by the use of iron that is barely warm.

A sallow skin is seldom present when the digestive machinery is working properly. Local treatment consists of applications of lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen, equal parts, but the real cure is in a change of diet, more fruit juices, more green salads, more vegetables and less meats and fewer eggs, which contain protein.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Hallahan Big Card Aid.
Wright Brooklyn Hope.
Slate Favors Robins.

Grove Keeps Going.
P. Waner's Rare Mark.

REDBIRDS OWE MUCH TO LEFT-HANDER

WHILE THE CARDINALS were playing at Forbes Field early in the season Manager Gabby Street asserted that Bill Hallahan had every bit as much stuff as Lefty Grove. There's a wide difference between the records of the two pitchers for the year, as Grove has won 27 games and lost only 5, while Hallahan, though leading the St. Louis flingers in wins, can show just 15 victories against 9 defeats. But the Robins are willing to testify that for a single afternoon, at least, while Hallahan was pitching the Cards to a 1-to-0 victory in a 10-inning duel with Dazzy Vance in the opening game of the present vitally important series in Brooklyn, the St. Louis southpaw was even mightier than Grove or any other moundsman in the land.

Bill Hallahan

In rising to the heights in a crisis and stopping the Robins after 11 straight wins with a 10-inning shutout in a game that was bound to have a tremendous bearing upon the outcome of the pennant fight, Hallahan placed to his credit just about the greatest pitching feat of the year. At least it meant more than any other slab achievement of the season and if the Cards win the flag in the end they will owe it largely to what Hallahan accomplished in the first contest of their final Flatbush engagement. It would have been a hard matter to head off the Dodgers if they had got away with that particular game.

IT WAS A tough defeat for Vance after pitching a regulation nine-inning shutout and fanning 11 men, but it would have been even tougher for Hallahan had the latter lost the decision. For the breaks had been all against Bill in previous competition with the Robins, as he had lost a 1-to-0 game himself to Hollis Thurston and had been beaten by Ray Phelps on another occasion by a score of 2 to 1. Even as matters stand, the Cardinal southpaw has managed to get only a fifty-fifty split with the Brooklyn club in four games this year in spite of some remarkably effective pitching.

Bill has shut out the Robins twice in succession and in an earlier game blanked them during the last four innings he worked, so that he has pitched 23 consecutive innings against them without giving them a solitary run. Things surely were about due to break in his favor. Add the fact that he has beaten his club's other rivals, the Cubs, three times in a row—striking out a total of 32 men in the three games, incidentally—and it will be seen that Hallahan, has had quite a bit to do with creating whatever pennant chance may now exist for the Redbirds.

GLENN WRIGHT, former Pirate shortstop, continues to stand out as Brooklyn's main pennant hope. With all due respect to the pitchers, to Babe Herman, to Alfonso Lopez and the rest, it was Wright's return to brilliant form after a bad slump that put the Robins back in the flag fight, and it is Wright who is keeping them here.

Glenn Wright

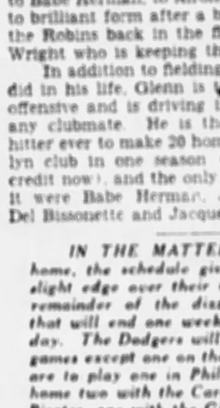
In addition to fielding as well as he ever did in his life, Glenn is the big gun on the offensive and is driving in more runs than any clubmate. He is the first right-hand hitter ever to make 20 homers for the Brooklyn club in one season (he has 21 to his credit now), and the only left-handers to do it were Babe Herman, Johnny Frederick, Del Bissonette and Jacques Fournier.

IN THE MATTER of playing at home, the schedule gives the Robins a slight edge over their rivals during the remainder of the dizzy pennant race that will end one week from next Sunday. The Dodgers will play all of their games except one on their own lot. They are to play one in Philadelphia, and at home two with the Cards, two with the Pirates, one with the Giants and three with the Braves, a total of nine. The Cards have two to play in Brooklyn, five in Philadelphia and two at home with the Pirates, a total of 11, and the Cubs have two to play in New York, four in Boston, and four at home with the Reds, a total of 10.

IN HANGING UP his twenty-seventh victory of the year, Lefty Grove equaled the best mark made in the American League in recent seasons. George Uhle won 27 games for Cleveland in 1926, but was charged with 12 defeats, whereas Vance has lost only five decisions. Twenty-seven is the highest total reached by any American League pitcher since 1920, when Jim Bagby, of the Indians, won 31 games and lost 12. In the National League Vance won 28 and lost 6 in 1924.

The Yankees have been Groves' toughest foemen. He has beaten them only once, while winning seven games from the Red Sox, six from the Tigers, four from the Indians, four from the Browns, three from the White Sox, and two from the Senators. No club has beaten him twice. The five games he has lost were dropped to Washington, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis. Twenty-two of his 27 victories were complete games. The only pitcher in either big league ever to finish with a higher percentage for 25 or more games than Grove's present mark of .844 was Joe Wood, who won 34 and lost 5, percentage .872, for the Red Sox in 1912.

When he made the first two of the three hits he garnered in yesterday's game against the Phillies, Paul Waner, Pirate right fielder, became the owner of a batting mark that has not been paralleled in more than a quarter of a century and that has been surpassed by only one player in major league history.



Paul Waner

Those two hits put Waner at the 200 line for the season, and this is the fourth year in succession in which he has made 200 or more safeties. He piled up 237 in 1927, 223 in 1928 and exactly 200 in 1929.

IT IS FAR from being an all-time record, as the late Willie Keeler established the lofty mark of eight consecutive years, making more than 200 hits each season from 1894 to 1901, inclusive, but it surpasses anything of the kind ever accomplished by any other player except Keeler in the big show. Ty Cobb was stopped at three straight seasons of 200 or more hits, and so were George Sisler, Sam Rice and Rogers Hornsby. Two years in succession was the best that Babe Ruth or Lou Gehrig ever was able to do, this is only the second consecutive season for Bill Terry, Al Simmons, Chuck Klein, Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul, while Honus Wagner, Napoleon Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Harry Heilman, Kiki Cuyler, Freddie Lindstrom and other noted flailsmen never carried such a drive beyond one campaign without interruption.

MIKE GIBBONS has been out of the boxing game since 1923, and his brother, Tommy, followed him into retirement in 1925, but the family name may be breaking into the sports pages from a new angle within the next few years.

Two sons of Mike matriculated at the University of Detroit this week and are coming out for the freshman football team. They are said to be good prospects and are counted upon to be varsity material for Coach Gus Dorais in 1931. One of Dorais' old stars, by the way, has bobbed up in a new role at Detroit, Lloyd Brazil, one of the greatest halfbacks that ever played anywhere, has been made graduate manager of athletics at the university.

THOUGH IT WAS Johnny Doeg who beat him in the semi-finals and later won the national singles title in the annual tournament at

FIRST ROUND OF MUNICIPAL PLAY BEGINS
BULLETIN.

Mrs. Margaret Curry, defending champion; Mrs. Al McBride, Mrs. C. E. Briggs, Mrs. Masury and Mrs. Arthur Josephson won their first-round matches in the women's city golf championship at Schenley today.

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Will the same jinx that trailed the steps of Emilie Roseburgh, of Oakmont, in the recent West Penn women's championships, dog the heels of Mrs. Margaret Curry, the defending champion, who yesterday won the medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the municipal championship at the Schenley Park links?

Mrs. Curry set a hot pace in the medal round with her 44-40—84, four strokes better than her nearest competitor, Mrs. C. E. Briggs, who returned a pair of 44s for her round.

The two flights competing in the championship opened their first round of match play today, and eliminations will continue until Friday, when the final in each division is reached. Here's how they're paired up today:

WOMEN, SENIORS PLAY

Two other tournaments are in progress over district links today. The team matches of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania have been resumed, Section 1 playing at the Chartiers Heights Country Club. Oakmont is setting the pace with 37 points, with Allegheny trailing with 36. Oakmont, Allegheny, Chartiers Heights, Edgewood, Fox Chapel, Shannopin, Pittsburgh Field Club and Stanton Heights are competing.

At the Pittsburgh Field Club, a one-day tournament for seniors is slated. Only those gentlemen 50 years or older are permitted to compete.

MANNING, BRAND COP

Charley Manning, professional, and Fred Brand, Jr., club champion of Shannopin, won the play-off in the pro-amateur tourney at the South Hills Country Club yesterday, nosing out Perry Del Vecchio, pro-greenkeeper, and Larry Heller, club champion of Greensburg, by a single stroke in their 18-hole four ball, best ball contest. Manning and Brand had a best ball of 69, and Del Vecchio and Heller 70. The teams tied at 136 in the 36-hole play Monday.

CADDIE-MASTERS' PAIRINGS

Tomorrow the annual championship of the caddie-masters and assistant professionals will start at the Stanton Heights Golf Club. It will be a 72-hole test, winding up Friday. A small, select field is entered. Secretary Phillip Murray, of Longue Vue, has announced the following pairings, eight to qualify for the title fight:

9:00—C. A. Witham, P. A. Cadell; 9:05—James Bruno, Paul Erath; 9:10—M. J. Hazelbeck, Bill Conner; 9:15—Bert Gallagher, Frank Brunet; 9:20—Sam Melion, Joseph Varga; 9:25—Michael Lipchick, Wayne Tobias; 9:30—Harry Kelly, Phillip Murray.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: UNCLE JIM WEBSTER—Uncle Jim Webster, of Forsythe, N. C., who now is 84 years old, has been carrying a silver dollar in his mouth since he was 17—67 years without a break. The old Negro's superstitution borders closely upon the heroic, as he believes this practice has brought him his good luck and health. This is one of the most remarkable records of its kind that has come to my attention in all my years of searching for the curious. THE WORLD IS COMPARATIVELY SMOOTHER THAN A BILLIARD BALL—The inequalities of the surface of our globe, its elevations and depressions, dwindle to insignificance when compared to the size of our earth. The reduction of our planet on a corresponding scale would cause the earth to appear superior in smoothness to even a billiard ball.

SCOTT CARDS NIGHT GAMES

Something new in the way for local scholastic football teams will be inaugurated Friday evening at North Braddock when the Scott High team meets Oakmont High in a night gridiron contest at the Scott stadium. An expensively installed lighting system is ready to give service and with the adding of seats to accommodate 4,200 fans, the innaugural is expected to attract football fans in large numbers.

Holding a record of only one defeat last season, the Scott gridders have prepared for a hard season ahead with nine home games decorating the schedule. Six of these, including the opener with Oakmont High, will be played under the lights. The game Friday will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Chilly Doyle to Report Crucial Pennant Battles

Follow the "little world series" for the National League pennant with Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, veteran baseball writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who has been assigned to cover the remainder of the crucial battles between St. Louis and Brooklyn in Brooklyn and to stay in the thick of the jousting until the flag race is settled.

Charles J. Doyle

The Pirates, out of the race for the bunting, will be covered by another able correspondent.

Follow Doyle's accounts of the Cards-Robins games, together with interesting comment and gossip on the finish of one of the greatest races in major league history if you want to keep posted on the situation.

Gallant Fox, Sande In Gold Cup Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—With the 3-year-old title and the money-winning championship safely tucked away, William Woodward's Gallant Fox appears to be on his way to leading handicap honors of the year.

The Fox steps out of his class for the second time this year today when he starts in the longest race of his career—the $10,000 Jockey Gold Cup at two miles—but unlike his other appearances, he will have only one horse to beat. That horse is A. C. Bostwick's Yarn, also a 3-year-old, but considered to have very little chance of turning back the Fox and his great riding partner, Earl Sande.

BOUT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Rain forced postponement until tomorrow night of the Queensboro Stadium's boxing show, scheduled for last night, Jack (Kid) Berg, English lightweight, was to have met Joe Glick, of Brooklyn, in the main bout.

N. Y. Denies Primo Reinstatement

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Primo Carnera, giant Italian boxer, was refused reinstatement yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Humbert Fugazy, New York promoter, asked the commission to lift the ban to allow Carnera to meet any opponent the commission chose at Ebbets Field, October 12, but the governing body refused and stated that reinstatement would not even be considered until Carnera is reinstated by the California commission.

Carnera was blacklisted in California as a result of participation in an alleged "fixed" bout.

BRAME PHILS' FOE TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—After what took place in the Baker sauce dish yesterday, the Pirates may be said to be all washed up for the season. On the other hand, disappointed Pittsburghers are likely to be engaged in some very serious warfare next week in St. Louis. The Buccos will wind up their season playing four games with the rampaging Redbirds, and it is altogether likely that this late series will have a flag bearing.

REAL NIGHTMARE

Meantime, the Pirates are trying to throw off the nightmare of yesterday, when the Quakers won a 10-inning joust with the invaders after a few thousand fans had watched the two clubs offer some of the worst and best baseball one can visualize. The Buccos were five runs ahead in the ninth and four in front in the tenth, but both times they sagged and staggered, the second weakness being a total collapse. The Phillies copped the game by the timid count of 15 to 14.

Manager Ens reached new heights in disgust today as he announced that he would instruct Ervin Brame to go to the mound with or without his pleurisy. When yesterday's hippodrome came to a close, the boy on the slab for the Pirates was none other than Outfielder Jim Mosolf.

Ens' fragile slab staff had dropped to a point yesterday where the pilot had to call upon an outfielder for slab duty. Larry French made the very bad mistake of getting himself chucked out of the battle at a time when he was leading the Quakers by five runs. This was in the sixth inning. Glenn Spencer was a fine relief pitcher until Grantham booted one in the ninth and then it wasn't long until the home team rode to a tie.

ROBINS TRAIL BY ONLY ONE POINT
BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Overcast skies this morning threatened to bring rain to interfere with the important baseball series between the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins, but later the sun appeared and prospects grew brighter for uninterrupted continuation of the series. Fair weather was promised for the closing game tomorrow.

Associated Press.

St. Louis was a shade ahead in the National League race today. With the great Dazzy Vance and brilliant Bill Hallahan on the mound, St. Louis and Brooklyn battled 10 innings yesterday, and the Cards won 1 to 0 to take first place by the margin of a point.

The league's four contenders today stand this way:

	Won	Lost	Percentage	Games Behind	To Play
St. Louis	83	60	.580	..	11
Brooklyn	84	61	.579	..	9
Chicago	82	62	.569	1½	10
New York	79	65	.549	4½	10

THE "IF" OF IT

Win or lose today, and here's how the standings will read tonight:

	Win	Lose
St. Louis	.583	.576
Brooklyn	.582	.575
Chicago	.572	.566
New York	.552	.545

Brooklyn's winning streak of 11 games ended in a perhaps the most thrilling game of the season. Dazzy fanned 11 Cards and gave them only seven hits, but a double by Punch-Hitter Andy High and a single by Taylor Douthit came in the tenth with Hallahan's sacrifice in between and produced the only run of the game. The St. Louis youngster belied his nickname of Wild Bill by giving only two walks and not allowing a Robin to reach first base until the seventh inning. He allowed only five hits.

Carl Hubbell, Giant southpaw, gave New York a 7-to-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Hubbell yielded only three hits and fanned ten.

Two teams, with little in store for the future, but a few chances to cause trouble for the leaders, sharpened their batting eyes against each other in the other National League clash and after 10 innings of slugging, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh, 15 to 14.

MACKS COP PAIR

In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics continued to move pennantward by taking a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox while their only rivals, the Washington Senators, were kept idle by rain at Cleveland. With Mose Grove turning in his twenty-seventh victory of the season, the A's won the first game, 6 to 4, and then they bunched their hits in two big innings behind Bill Shores to take the second, 10 to 2. The Athletics now need only two victories to reach the total of 100, which is the highest Washington possibly can attain.

The New York Yankees and St. Louis started out after the scoring mark made by the Phillies and Pittsburgh and after nearly two and a half hours of slugging, the Yankees came out on the long end of a 19 to 10 score.

With big Dale Alexander heading the attack, the Detroit Tigers scored early against Milton Gaston and defeated the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 5.

N. B. A. TO BAR BOXERS IN FOUR STATES

FISTIC CONTROL IS AIM OF BODY

OMAHA, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A resolution providing for suspension of boxers participating in contests held in states other than those affiliated with the National Boxing Association was passed at the closing session of the organization last night. The action by which the Association hopes to obtain control over the fistic profession in all states, was sponsored by Stanley Isaacs, of Cincinnati, former president.

The resolution reads in effect:

"After January 1 any boxer who performs in New York, California, Pennsylvania or Massachusetts not members of the N. B. A. will not be used in the N. B. A. member states."

FIGHTS NEW YORK.

Commenting that New York at present is the center of the fight industry, Isaacs said:

"Either New York will have all the boxers or we the N. B. A. will."

"If we all stick together it will work," he continued. "These states, I think, will come in and join the Association. You must have a central body controlling boxing or you will have no boxing at all."

Passage of the resolution was unanimous.

The association also organized a National Wrestling Association which will have no connection with the N. B. A. Col. Harry J. Landry, of New Orleans, was named president of the wrestling body, and New Orleans was chosen as its headquarters.

CLINNIN PREXY

John V. Clinnin, of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission, was elected president of the N. B. A. The association voted to establish permanent headquarters in Chicago and empowered Clinnin to set up a working office.

States which signed up on the convention floor as members of the Wrestling Association were Alabama, Illinois, Louisiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, Michigan, Connecticut and Nebraska.

PART OF DAY'S MAIL PICKING ALL-TIME PITT TEAM

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's All-Time Pitt football team guessing contest closes tonight. Thousands of fans are competing for free tickets to the Pitt games this fall. Above is one mail delivery of answers received yesterday from all over the tri-state territory.

PITT CONTEST ENDS TONIGHT

The curtain goes down tonight on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's All-Time Pitt football team contest.

If your reply is not postmarked before midnight tonight, it will miss out on the deadline and will not be included among those to be considered in the contest.

Thousands of letters have swamped the contest editor in the last few days and a deluge is certain as the windup gesture.

The rules governing the contest are simple. All the entrants are required to do is to try to match an all-time Pitt team selected by James J. Long, veteran sports scribe. Tickets will be given to all contestants getting anywhere from six to 11 of the players correct.

If you guess 10 of the 11 men in their proper positions you will receive two tickets for the Notre Dame game.

If you guess all but two members of the team you will receive two tickets for the Carnegie Tech game.

If you guess eight of the players you will receive a ticket for the Notre Dame game.

If you are right in seven out of 11 choices your reward will be one ticket to either the Tech or the Penn State game.

And if you get only six of the 11 right you will be able to see the Waynesburg game Saturday of next week as the guest of this newspaper.

Last call! If you haven't mailed your guess already, do it at once or you'll be left out in the cold when the checking on of the selections gets under way tomorrow.

HURRICANES WIN

WINTHROP, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The last of the three first round matches of the national open golf championship was played at Meadow Brook yesterday with Stephen Gladdy, Bethpage, Hurricanes, winning in an extra chukker, 19 to 2, from the Rockin Four.

GRID RULES Interpretations

PLAY NO. 15.

Eight players are on Oberlin's line of scrimmage when it has possession of the ball with Ormsby on the far wing. He cuts around four yards behind the line to lead the interference for the attack on the opposite side of Case's defense and the ball is passed.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee penalizes Oberlin five yards for having a player illegally in motion. Had Ormsby have been five yards back of the line of scrimmage when the ball was passed, the play would have been legal.

Last Call! Last Call!!

FOOTBALL CONTEST BLANK

Can you recall the Pitt football stars of yesteryear? If you are acquainted with the prowess of the gridiron Panthers, why not select an all-time Pitt eleven and win choice tickets to games which Pitt will play in the Stadium this fall?

James J. Long, veteran sports scribe, has selected an "official" All-Time Pitt Eleven. Match his team and you will receive a season pass for Pitt's home games.

If you get six, seven, eight, nine or 10 right, you will get tickets for the various games as outlined elsewhere on this page.

The contest under way for several weeks, ends at midnight tonight. This is your last chance to enter. Fill in the blank below and mail it now!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones and Roland Mackenzie, amateurs, defeated Macdonald Smith and Fred McLeod, professionals, 1 up, in an 18-hole exhibition golf match yesterday at the Columbia Country Club.

Jones and his partner won the match on the final hole when Smith missed an eight-foot putt for a par 4. The match was played through a rainstorm.

The Atlanta American and British open champion stopped over en route to Philadelphia for the American amateur tournament. The scores follow:

Jones, 35-36—71; Mackenzie, 38-35—73. Smith, 35-34—69; McLeod, 36-37—73.

GOODMAN SCORES 72

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Johnny Goodman, youthful Omaha golfer, who routed Bobby Jones from the National amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Cal., in the first round last year, played his first round yesterday over the east course of the Merion Cricket Club and scored a 72, only two strokes over par. He went out in 39, three strokes over perfect figures, and returned in 33, one under par.

The 1930 amateur championship will be played next week over the Merion course.

Lawson Little, the San Francisco youngster, who eliminated Goodman in the second round of the 1929 National amateur tournament, was another arrival. He also played a practice round, scoring 38-35—73.

Chick Evans who has been practicing on the course several days, went around in 35-40—75.

MANERO VICTOR

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Tony Manero, Elmsford pro, smashing par on three of the four rounds, yesterday won the Glens Falls open golf tournament with a 276 for the 72 holes, four strokes ahead of Gene Sarazen and Bobby Cruickshank, tied in the second place with 280 each.

Following the three leaders came a parade of outstanding professionals. Johnny Farrell, Craig Wood and Bill Mehlhorn tied at 285, then came Joe Turnesa and John Golden with 287 each, Horton Smith with 289, and Jim Barnes, Billy Burke and Al Espinosa each shot 291.

Manero carried off the $1,000 purse. Second place was worth $500.

Forest Hills last week, Bill Tilden does not rank Doeg as the best young tennis player in the country.

Bill expresses the opinion that except in the matter of service, Frank Shields is a better player than Doeg, and that Sidney Wood is a more natural player than either of them, in fact the most natural of all the country's young racketers.

Bill Tilden

"AMERICA HAS THE greatest group of young tennis players in the world and should place its entire Davis Cup hopes in them," Tilden says. "We have many promising youngsters who are ready to match their strokes with the best in the game. Johnny Doeg, Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, Clifford Sutter and Ellsworth Vines are but a few of our juveniles who are pushing us old-timers into the background. Then are Johnny Van Ryn, George Lott and Wilmer Allison, who are seasoned in experience but not too old in years. I believe Wood is the most natural of the young players. Doeg has the best service of all, and it requires tremendous concentration for any one to handle it. He still is a trifle weak on ground strokes. Except for service, Shields is a better player. I always have advocated sending our Davis Cup team to Europe for a couple of months to compete in the French and English tournaments for the experience that the players gain. I hope this will be done next year. Sarah Palfrey is the most likely looking of our girl players. She should be a serious contender for national honors within a very few years."

SOCCER LOOPS OFFER FULL SCHEDULE

All of the soccer leagues in the district will swing into action this week-end. The Central will play four games on Saturday—Mesta Machine will meet Sons of St. George probably at Garfield Park. Crafton Heights will open with the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park. Clan Douglas hooks up with the Union Switch and Signal at Swissvale, and the Pittsburgh Celtics help the Pierpoint Motors to open at the Homewood playground.

The schedules for the Mon-Yough, Keystone and Panhandle Leagues will be drawn up at noon today. Nine clubs have posted forfeits in the Mon-Yough and another club is expected to enter when the league convenes Friday evening.

Ten clubs will operate in the Panhandle League. At a special meeting on Monday evening at President John Smith's, the league passed a rule that no player who has ever played senior soccer can play in the league.

Sport Vignettes

What's this stuff about the local hockey club playing on phony ice next season? . . . One would think that at the prices they charge they could afford the real thing . . . Pete Zivic tells a funny story about his last fight . . . It was with Al Foreman at Toronto and Pete lost when the referee stopped the bout because he claimed Pete was going down without being hit . . . In the first round, Pete was struck a glancing blow and tumbled to the mat and, being an old head, decided to take a count . . . After reclining there for several seconds and hearing no count, he looked around and spied the referee and asked: "Hey, who does the counting around here?" . . . "Get up," the referee commanded, "you're not hurt." . . . After the bout, the referee, who also is a sports scribe, gave Pete a fine panning in his paper . . . It so happened that when Pete was boxing as an amateur some years ago, this same man handled one of his bouts and lauded him to the skies as one of the best prospects he ever had seen . . . Later, when Pete defeated Jackie Johnston in Toronto, he got another boost from Mr. Referee.

Pete is debating whether or not he should quit the ring. He hasn't had much success in his recent bouts and, while he still thinks he can fight, his best friends tell him he's through and ought to quit . . . He's taking a long rest, keeping out of the gym and off the road and may take another fling at the sport when he feels he's ready. Then, if he finds he can't win, he'll hang up the mittens for all time.

The N. B. A. is its usual comical self when it ranks Primo Carnera ahead of Jack Sharkey as a heavyweight contender, with Max Schmeling rating the No. 1 and Young Stribling the No. 2 berths, after Sharkey all but killed Schmeling before the latter took an out on a foul and in view of the fact that Jack also holds a win over Stribling and it would require a considerable stretch of the imagination to conceive of Primo in the same ring with the Sharkey of the last few years . . . Vincent Lopez, the band leader, used to be an Italian tennis player, it is said . . . If he wore a handkerchief around his forehead it was a bandana, you may be sure . . . John Beckwith, Walter Cannady and Higgins, all former Homestead Grays, now play with the Lincoln Giants, of New York, who open that big series with the Grays at Forbes Field Saturday.

The Altoona Speedway is plotting a match race between Billy Arnold and Deacon Litz, since the Deacon still is protesting Arnold's victory in the abbreviated Labor Day race at Altoona.

College football authorities are alarmed because the hot baseball pennant races are taking the play and newspaper space away from their preparations for the early games. . . . As if they haven't enough competition from the America's cup yacht races, the national amateur golf tournament, and sundry other major events that rightly belong to the summer season. . . . Ask any sports scribe about it and he'll tell you he'd appreciate it if the baseball and football people would get together on some sort of an arrangement to keep their seasons from conflicting. . . . Either start football later or wind up baseball earlier. . . . The latter plan would appear to be the more feasible. . . . As matters stand now, the world series seldom is over before the middle of October, and by that time the football campaign is in its third or fourth week. Such stuff!—HARRY KECK.

Davis-Elkins Loses Only Veteran Back

ELKINS, W. Va., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—An injury suffered by Elijah Smith, only varsity back remaining from last year's Davis and Elkins football squad, today cast gloom among the "Scarlet Hurricane's" supporters. Dr. W. G. Harper, squad physician, said following an X-ray examination that Smith would be unable to play for at least six weeks.

The veteran backfield man suffered a severe shoulder injury in scrimmage yesterday. He was the only back remaining from the quartet of Smith, Warren, Rengle and Wagner that played stellar football in 1929.

Brodericks Win Playoff Opener

In the first game of the Minor League series, the D. J. Brodericks trounced the Sankey Club, 13 to 6, last evening at Marshall Field. Pete Lewandowski, southpaw, was on the mound for the Brodericks and fanned seven.

The second game of the series will be played tomorrow on the Sankey field.

MY 50 YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK, MANAGER OF WORLD CHAMPION PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

INSTALLMENT NO. 9.

Playing shuttlecock with managers evidently became a fixed policy with the successless Washington club, desperate in adversity, and not only was there a new leader at the start of 1889, but, he, too, was replaced before the pennant race ended.

Connie Mack

John Morrell, who had served the Boston club with distinction as manager for many years, was the pilot at the start, but he did not attempt any spectacular moves of the Ted Sullivan kind.

A clear-reasoning, cold-calculating son of New England soil, Morrell, an able baseball man, was no dreamer. He never considered the question of anticipating summer suns by a dash into the South, but suffered his players to train amid the chilly breezes of an early Washington spring.

During the winter the Senators had been strengthened and Morrell had a better ball club than the one of the previous year. In mid-season Manager Morrell had the misfortune to meet with an accident and resigned.

PLAYS UNDER IRWIN

Arthur Irwin, another glittering figure in the early decades of baseball, took his place. The Senators continued to improve, and, while they did not win a big percentage of games, they no longer were doormats for the powerful rival teams. They gave every opponent a battle.

It was in this season that murmurs of discontent among players began to be heard and whispers sounded of a new major league run on a co-operative plan in which the players would share in the profits as well as draw salaries.

One of the principal objections the players had was the reserve rule by which they were required to stay with the same club unless released. The players wanted the option of going to any club they elected after finishing a season.

In 1885, John Montgomery Ward had formed the National Brotherhood of Baseball players. Its avowed purpose at the start was merely fraternal and had to do with the relations between players rather than between players and clubs.

Members of the Brotherhood often met and these meetings soon became juntas where players expressed dissatisfaction over their lot. Smouldering fire was fanned into flames by 1889. As this season wore on what was first muted propaganda, carefully circulated under cover, became outspoken insurrection. Each club appointed two or three members to deal with committees on other clubs and outline battle plans to desert the National League and manage a circuit of their own to bear the name of their fraternity.

BROTHERHOOD DAYS

It always has been my belief that the majority of players were well satisfied with conditions under which they were working and that they would have preferred to stick to the safe and stable National League.

Many, however, were won over by the unceasing importunities and threats of the malcontents. They left the National League principally not to make enemies in their own profession. I will say for the Brotherhood leaders that I never doubted their sincerity or motive.

During the winter of 1889-90 the Brotherhood became a reality. Teams were placed in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn in the East, and Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Buffalo in the West, and a schedule adopted.

The Brotherhood skimmed the cream off the baseball jug, nearly all the great stars of the game jumping the old circuit for the new. The Brotherhood guaranteed all players their previous year's salary plus a percentage of the profits and they had the right to invest in the stock of the club.

After long consideration, I decided to throw my lot in with the players. I was awarded to the Buffalo club, which was managed by Jack Rowe, the old Detroit shortstop, who was a native Buffalonian. I was guaranteed my Washington salary of $2,750. In addition, I invested some of my savings in stock.

JOINS BUFFALO CLUB

Our season started on April 19, with Cleveland, Gruber and Brennan was the Cleveland battery, while Haddock and myself performed for Buffalo. We won this game by a big score. As a matter of fact, Buffalo took four straight games in which it made 100 hits and scored 80 runs.

The Brotherhood all along the line was off to a good start and opening day crowds everywhere were big. We felt certain that the fans were with us and would support us to the last. Our faces beamed with joy as we went around the circuit.

After its impressive start, Buffalo did not fare well. We began to lose games in shoals and actually finished last. During this season I caught 120 games and handled from 20 to 25 different pitchers.

The Brotherhood was not a success because the players wielded too big a power in the business end and were not qualified by experience for such work. Not only that, nearly every player declared himself an advisor in playing tactics and views constantly clashed. Discipline almost entirely disappeared.

We also found that the novelty of a players' league wore off with the public. Crowds began to thin after the opening months. Occasionally some noted player jumped back to his National League club and this hurt the prestige of the new circuit, which found it could not hold the ground it had gained.

SUFFERS LOSS

There was such a feeling of unrest in the waning days of the season that many players openly expressed themselves as being anxious for the league to dissolve so they could go back to an organization operated on business principles.

The majority of players received their salaries in full, but some players unfortunate to be with such clubs as Buffalo where I played, were not so lucky. I received only half of my salary of $2,750 and lost every cent I invested in stock. The Brotherhood surely was a costly venture for me.

Every other player in the league who bought Botherhood shares also lost all and during the winner this honest but ill-conceived league formally disbanded.

tenth and to all intents and purposes sewed up the ball game by making four runs. Grantham's second homer of the afternoon came with two on the sacks, and the drive looked like the pay ball, but, as somebody has said with eloquence, a five-run lead is a tie score in the Phillies' park. In this case a four-run lead wasn't enough because the Shottonites came in and made five.

Spencer weakened in the tenth and Charley Wood, who was struck on the pitching elbow with a pitched ball in the Giant series, rushed to the mound. Runners were on first and second at the time and Charley proceeded to walk four batters in a row.

Mcalof found the bases jammed, none out and Phil Collins up, when he reached the unfamiliar spot on the diamond. Jim fanned Collins and came within an inch of saving the game for the Pirates as he made Fred Brickell hit a liner back towards George Grantham. George could not hold the ball as he dove for it, else a double-play would have resulted.

Included in the potpourri of events was a triple play, put over by Fresco Thompson and John Sherlock, after Thompson had grabbed a liner off Pie Traynor's bat. Gus Suhr had a homer with two on.

BOWL BATTLES RECARDED TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Weather permitting, the Meyers Bowl will stage its postponed Baby Joe Gans bout tonight.

The boxing commission doctor willing, Gans' opponent will be Harry (Kid) Brown, of Philadelphia. A second examination will be made today.

If the commission doctor still signals thumbs down on Brown, who was rejected at the weighing-in ceremony on Monday because he was suffering from boils, Young Saylor, of Charleroi, who was dug up as a substitute on Monday, will take his place.

Brown worked out for seven rounds at the Pittsburgh Lyceum yesterday to keep himself fit. The greatly advertised boils evidently did not bother him and he has hopes of going through with the battle. Brown, incidentally, also has a bout scheduled with Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, at Youngstown, next Wednesday night.

GANS RANKS HIGH

Gans is the second ranking junior-welterweight of the world, according to the National Boxing Association ratings, and is a tough hombre for anybody to beat. His greatest trouble is getting matches, most of the good men in his division evading him.

Black Bill, hard-hitting Negro flyweight, of New York, who already has fought two good battles with Willie Davies at the Bowl this season, meets Marty Gold, Philadelphia, in a supporting 10-round bout tonight. In the two six-round preliminaries, Mose Butch, of Oakland, boxes Patsy Severo, of Meadville, and Joe Gaudy, of McKeesport, mingles with Steve Senich, of Homestead.

Between Rounds

Primo Carnera hoses Jack Gross, Philadelphia southpaw, at the Chicago Stadium tonight with Al Ettore, Charleston heavyweight, meeting Dick Daniels, of Maine, in the 10-round semi-final. Indianapolis boxers Tommy Kelly, Pete Wishart, takes on Walter Mader and Nick Tait opposes Jack Robinson, in other bouts on the card. French Belanger and Jeweltex Brown battle at Los Angeles.

The Boston Madison Square Garden opens the indoor boxing season in the Hub Friday night with Primo Braddock and Phil Mercurio in the main bout.

Promoter Jim McGirr today completed his card for his second indoor show of the season at McKeesport, tomorrow night, by signing Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrence, Mass., and Johnny Marker, of Charleroi, for the second bout, and Anson Green, Homestead Negro, and Johnny Daman, of Weirton, W. Va., for the opener. He also engaged Nick Pollo, of Aliquippa, to take the place of Mike Kelly, of the South Side, scheduled bout, as an opponent, in the semi-final. Kelly being unable to appear because of the death of a brother. Eddie Kaufman, of Cleveland, will take the place of Hal Kroll, also of Cleveland, in the main bout. Kroll having been injured in training.

Happy Atherton, of Indianapolis, arrived here today for his 10-round match with Willie Davies, of Cleveland, at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night.

Eddie Mead, veteran manager of boxers, now operating out of Cleveland, comes to the fore another Gene Tunney in the making in young Gene Stanton, his heavyweight, hailing originally from Monessen, Pa.

Tommy Freeman, welterweight champion, after nine years in the ring, is being flooded with offers now that he is on top of the heap. Tommy is a visitor in Pittsburgh for tonight's show at the Meyers Bowl.

The amateur boxing show slated for the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., North Side, last night, was postponed until Friday due to threatening weather.

DUKES READY FOR OPENER AGAINST W. VA.

MOUNTAINEERS' FINAL DRILL IS SECRET

Neither the Duquesne University Dukes nor the Mountaineers of West Virginia University were born to blush unseen, and by the way tickets for Friday night's season opener at Forbes Field have been selling, there is not going to be any classy football wasted on the desert air. Word from Morgantown, where the invasion of Pittsburgh will begin, and local dope, both point to a record crowd in the Pirate park.

Things are practically concluded as far as the lights and other details at Forbes Field are concerned and it will not be long now until the matter is turned over to the opposing teams for settlement. Elmer Layden's Night Riders are employing only one session of practice each day and only two of these now remain to them. The lightened work this week is designed to give the Duquesne coaches an opportunity to polish their charges into a smoothly-working machine.

If Jack Burns is substituted for the well-known Bootin' Buff Donnelli, at right halfback, and Jim O'Donnell is placed in Lou Skender's old tackle berth, in the minds of Duke fans, the undefeated Dukes of 1929 can be seen intact. Kass Kovalcheck is still at fullback, Co-Capt. Garry Benedict is holding down his old left halfback job and Joe McCarthy is still the field general in Elmer Layden's backfield section.

W. VA. DRILLS IN SECRET

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The West Virginia University football squad, busy with preparations for the nocturnal pigskin combat with Duquesne at Pittsburgh, Friday night, held a final secret scrimmage yesterday, with state police guarding the portals of the rehearsal grounds. Two picked teams battled for more than an hour as coaches endeavored to pick the best combination for the Duke struggle.

A large delegation of West Virginians from Morgantown, Wheeling, Fairmont, Clarksburg and many other northern points are planning to witness the game.

PITT CAMP CLOSES SOON

CAMP HAMILTON, Windber, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Panthers have three more days in camp, and today Coach Jock Sutherland admitted he was very much in doubt about the starters at one of the halfback posts, a guard position and fullback, and likewise is somewhat puzzled over the end situation, with Ed Hirschberg playing the best ball of his career and making a serious bid for a job.

The scrimmage sessions of yesterday and Monday were the best since the team has been in camp, and, instead of eliminating candidates for the wide open spaces, it has added to the number.

The duel between Mike Milligan and Ernest Lewis at one guard gets hotter as it progresses. Hart Morris is fairly certain of starting at the other guard.

There seems no doubt about the tackles, Quatse and Tully apparently having those posts clinched for the present. Josh Williams will be at right half, Eddie Baker at quarter and Doc Daugherty at center.

Franklin Hood has been a real power in the fullback post. With the Grays, Big John Luch likewise is impressive. The halfback race is as hot as ever, with Buzz Brown and Fats Heller running neck-and-neck for the job.

The passing attack is smoother now than it has been at any time previous, and Andy Gustafson believes the Panthers are going to have an aerial attack worth while.

FLANAGAN LOST TO TECH

Discouraged somewhat by the announcement that Thayer Flanagan, veteran halfback, would be lost to them at least three weeks, and possibly for the entire season, Carnegie Tech coaches revamped their backfield plans, staged a scrimmage with the freshmen in yesterday afternoon's rain, and scheduled two long signal drills for today.

Flanagan has been a splendid interferer, a capable ball carrier, a nice pass catcher, and a great defensive player. George Kavel does these things also, of course, but does not have the experience of the Buckhannon boy.

Paul Allison's Plebes gave two varsity teams, who were alternated against them in scrimmage yesterday, plenty of argument. Johnny Sales, Wheeling youth, got loose once for 65 yards and a touchdown.

Joe Morbito went over with McCurdy, Eyth and Kavel, in place of Karcis. This bunch was required to run signals for half an hour after its hitch against the Plebes was completed.

WILSON, KAISER INJURED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—With two such stalwarts as Stew Wilson, of Oil City, and Ernie Kaiser, of Youngwood, for the fullbacking position, it did not seem likely Coach Amos would have any worries regarding that department.

Both are on the bench with injuries suffered in scrimmage, however, and Amos is pointing Joe Zagray, Canton, O., recruit, for the position. Zagray is a sophomore and a real triple threat man, being able to pass, crack the line and punt.

One tackle position is also causing Coach Amos worry and there is a strong probability that Saul Lipman, of Carnegie, heretofore a center, may win the place as the running mate of Capt. Walter Levine.

ST. VINCENT DRILLS

LATROBE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Coach Clem Crowe will take his St. Vincent's College football team to Jeannette tonight and give them a scrimmage session under the flood lights at the Jeannette ball park, in order to get them accustomed to the bright lights such as they will play under when they meet Geneva at Beaver Falls Friday night in the season lid-lifter.

The scrimmage session at Jeannette will be the Bearcats' first experience under the lights.

INDEPENDENT GRIDDERS PREP FOR OPENERS

By TOM BIRKS.

The thud of the pigskin is certainly resounding over the local lots these evenings. Managers are working hard whipping their charges into shape for the big games getting under way one week from Sunday when nearly all of the teams, especially those in the conference, will be playing fairly good teams.

Manager Freddie Iverson, of the McKeesport Olympics, will flash the Valley All-Stars at Rainbow Gardens. The Valley boys have been seeking a game with the crack Black and White team for a long time, so it is possible that the Turtle Creek aggregation will be doing its stuff in the Tube City.

MAY PLAY SMILERS

Manager Paul Muzzio is dickering with Pleasant Valley to show at the park on Sunday in the only independent game before the league season opens. The Smilers are keen to meet the Parkers, having been seeking a game with them for the past few years. Roddy Cole is coaching the Pleasant Valley team.

It becomes evident a few of the conference managers have decided upon their players to carry them through the season. McKeesport seems to be set, but the other managers are trying to get some of the elusive stars to sign on the dotted line.

Paul Muzzio states that the Red and White backfield will be built around Maier, Berkman and Schackern. Lee Berkman has been appointed line coach and will act in that capacity this season.

The Homewood Football Club will hold its banquet this evening at the Conner Cafe, Frankstown avenue. Manager Hermann will take his Homewood gridders to Akron Sunday to meet the Awnings. A number of busses have been chartered, so it seems evident a large delegation will make the trip. The team has been working hard under Hooks Carroll. Managers wishing to book the East Enders should get in touch with Manager Hermann at 7353 Kelly street, or call Churchill 9151.

HANOVER, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Dartmouth is so well advanced that only afternoon practice sessions will be held for a few days, it was decided today. Len Clark, first string halfback, will be benched for a few days because of injuries.

Beaver County Title Series Ironed Out

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 17.—Differences which have held up the scheduling of the final game in the Beaver County League championship series were ironed out here last night by the management of the Beaver Falls Merchants and the Beaver Grays, and an agreement reached whereby the clubs will play the final contest at Beaver Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

In case of rain the game will be played at Beaver Monday at 5:30 o'clock or the first succeeding day if weather conditions are favorable. The series now stands 3-3 in victories with one tie game having been played. Honus Wagner will be on hand to present the winning team with the championship trophies.

Greensburg Opens Season Saturday

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Greensburg High School, with six of its last year's regulars missing, opens the 1930 football season when it tackles East Huntingdon Township High School at Offutt Field here Saturday. The local squad in charge of Coach E. E. Loucks is rounding out four weeks of practice and will be in shape for the opener.

Dukes to Give Kids Chance To See Game

Special children's tickets for the Duquesne University-West Virginia game, to be played at Forbes Field Friday night, have been announced by John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics. The ducats for youthful gridiron fans will sell for 25 cents each and call for the left field bleachers, baseball throne of childhood. The kickoff for the first night game, which also opens the local season, is scheduled for 8:45 o'clock.

Nick Altrock Says:

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—These last two months if you didn't see a crucial series at a National League park, you could demand your money back. But this crucial series now going on in Flatbush is like pouring honey onto maple syrup to sweeten it. I would give my undershirt to be at Ebbetts Field today, only my broker has it.

Nick Altrock

Robbie has got three first-string fielders in splints.

But so long as his pitching staff doesn't get any fractures, he could use the Siamese Twins for his outfield and not worry.

Meanwhile, the Giants and Cubs are fighting it out to see whose pitchers will take the most shower baths.

FRITZI STIFEL CANADIAN GOLF VICTOR

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Paced by the defending champion, Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, N. Y., 11 players from the United States battled their way into the second round of the Canadian women's open golf championship yesterday. Marching with them past first round opposition were five Canadians, including the two principal Dominion threats, Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, of Ottawa.

Altogether it was a field day for the Americans, who won all five of the international matches in which they engaged. Seventeen Americans had qualified for the first round and the six eliminated were put out by opponents from their own country.

Miss Hicks, who with Mrs. Fraser scored 74 to lead the qualifying round, defeated Mrs. J. Dagenais, of Montreal, in easy fashion, 5 and 3, while another strong American contender, Maureen Orcutt, of New York, eliminated another New Yorker, Mrs. Leo Federman, by the convincing margin of 7 and 5.

In the international matches, Mrs. R. C. Lake, New York, defeated Mrs. Vera Hutchings, of Vancouver, at the nineteenth green; Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., disposed of Mrs. Wanklyn, Montreal; Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, eliminated Eileen Kinsella, Montreal, and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., put out Mme. Vagliano, France, 1 up.

Stocks of refined lead at the end of August stood at 72,852 tons, against 82,880 at the end of July and 55,501 at the end of June.

Production of silver in the United States in August amounted to 3,749,000 fine ounces, compared with 3,551,000 ounces in July and 5,006,000 in August, 1929.

World output of silver in June, the latest month for which figures are available, was 18,607,000 ounces, against 18,237,000 in May and 17,802,000 in June, 1929.

It was said in financial circles here that the new merger is the forerunner of another merger with one of the oldest and largest trust companies of the capital.

CAR LOADINGS DECLINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Revenue car loadings for the week ending September 6 were reported by the American Railway Association to have totaled 856,637 cars. This was a decrease of 127,867 cars below the preceding week, which the association attributed to the Labor Day holiday, and a reduction of 134,402 cars below the corresponding week in 1929.

Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week aggregated 339,402 cars, a decrease of 72,008 cars from the same week a year ago; loadings of merchandise in less than carload lots 211,276, decrease 23,348; coal 138,127, decrease 21,592; forest products 37,101, decrease 23,567; ore 47,451, decrease 19,735; coke 8,537, decrease 3,310; grain and grain products 50,029, increase 4,276; livestock 24,714, decrease 2,563.

STEEL MARKET IMPROVING

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Scattered evidences of a breaking away from hand to mouth buying, the first deviations from that policy in many months, constitute the feature of the week's news in iron and steel. No sweeping change in the attitude of the trade has yet developed, but the fact that any sizable forward commitments should be negotiated or even considered is sufficient to give the market a more buoyant tone.

Willingness to contract ahead has thus far been most notable among pig iron buyers, with a number of large consumers covering for the remainder of the year and in a few cases through the first half of 1931.

Since no marked increase in the flow of iron and steel to major consuming outlets appear imminent, the broadening of demand is attributed to the belief that prices have struck bottom and that liberal purchases at the present level will prove a good investment. A manifestation of the same conviction is seen in the efforts of some of the motor car makers to place contracts covering their requirements in automobile parts through the first six months of next year.

STRIP, SHEET ORDERS GAIN

Greater conservatism rules among buyers of finished steel. More than half of September has passed without bringing an appreciable gain in aggregate bookings. The steel industry's operations, as measured by ingot output, remain unchanged at 58 per cent of capacity.

The chief source of encouragement is an increase in demand for sheets and strip. Thus far in September, specifications for strip steel have been 10 to 20 per cent larger than in the first half of August, while the leading sheet producer's volume of orders last week was the best since April. A fair amount of contracting is reported also, especially in sheets. Scarcely any of this gain in business is attributable to the automobile industry; it is accounted for mainly by the re-entry into the market of jobbers and miscellaneous manufacturing consumers who have been rigidly restricting their inventories in recent months.

OCTOBER GAIN LIKELY

Automobile production this month is now expected to fall below that of August, chiefly on account of model changes by a leading maker of low priced cars. A moderate gain in October is regarded as possible, but the two final months of the year will probably show the normal seasonal decline. Prospective output of cars and trucks in the United States and Canada for 1930 is estimated at 3,800,000 units, the lowest number since 1927.

Buying of rails and track supplies is getting under way slowly.

The price situation has undergone little change. The success of efforts to stabilize sheet and strip prices is still in doubt.

Banking Institute Registration Opens

The fall registration of the American Institute of Banking opened today, according to an announcement by Frank E. Coburn, chairman of the educational committee. Twelve courses on various phases of banking are offered this year. The instructors are from the University of Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh financial institutions. Pre-registration inquiries indicate that the enrollment will considerably exceed that of former years.

California's Oil Curb Is Revised

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—California's allowable daily oil production was set by the state-wide oil operators' general committee at 550,000 barrels, a reduction of approximately 41,000 barrels.

The added curtailment was ordered after recommendations of the oil industry's fact-finding committee made two weeks ago, had been investigated by the general committee.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. World's Biggest Business Buys Raw Materials

—By B. C. FORBES—

I AM DELIGHTED to be able to report authoritatively that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the largest corporation in the world, has attracted by the extraordinary low prices now current, started placing orders for future deliveries of raw materials.

This announcement cannot fail to cary significance to business executives throughout the country, because American Telephone is universally recognized as among the ablest-managed enterprise in America.

B. C. Forbes

When it buys, it buys. Its capital expenditures enormously exceed those of any other concern in the world. This year it is spending far more than half of the total capital expenditures of an America's railroads combined and more than half of all other public utilities put together.

President Walter S. Gifford informed the famous Hoover conference that the Bell system planned expenditures this year aggregating $700,000,000. And I understand that that gigantic figure may be exceeded.

The addition to the Bell system's assets each year is actually greater than the total resources of all but a few of our largest industrial corporations. The system's total assets are rapidly passing the four-and-a-half billion mark. This is twice the assets of the United States Steel Corporation and fully three times the assets of General Motors.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE and its associated companies employ far more people than any other business on the face of the earth, upwards of 550,000. Its subsidiary, West Electric, has as many employes as General Electric. American Telephone is owned by more than half a million stockholders and has, in addition, a very large number of bondholders.

Although less widely known than many other corporation heads, Walter Gifford is recognized in the highest circles as a veritable business and financial genius. He is one of the five men outside his bank that George F. Baker chose as a First National Bank director, and he is the only man invited to sit on the Steel Corporation board, solely because of his ability and not because of any capitalistic affiliations. His brilliant administration of the mammoth telephone company has won him a unique reputation in the realm of finance. The problem of raising hundreds of millions of new capital is solved practically single-handed by this 45-year-old executive. His financial ability is as outstanding as is his business ability.

When, therefore, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company decides that copper and other raw materials it uses in gigantic quantities can be safely contracted for at present prices to cover requirements for quite some period ahead, other users of raw material are likely to ask themselves whether the time has not come to depart from strictly hand-to-mouth ordering.

HENRY M. ROBINSON, noted California banker, who was a member of the Dawes commission, and whose intimate friendship with President Hoover has inspired frequent Washington rumors that he is slated for cabinet office, is now in the East, visiting Washington and New York. After he had rubbed shoulders with many leaders, I had a talk with him. Said Mr. Robinson:

"I spent a couple of weeks in New York early in September, 1929. It is interesting to see the marked change now in the mental attitude of so many people in business life, particularly those engaged in stock market operations. A year ago, when asked for information, almost without exception they gave a multitude of interesting reasons why the high prosperity then obtaining was bound to continue and the high level of commodity and stock prices be maintained.

"Today many of the same people have an equally positive and definite formula to prove that all of the things they thought a year ago were wrong! They cite many reasons why conditions are going to continue bad, both in commodity and stock prices.

"The great danger of continued pessimism is obvious. I noticed a statement this morning in a foreign bank circular, which has a strong appeal! 'The powers of resistance and recovery can be more effectively paralyzed by emotional factors than by influences of a purely economic nature, such as the supply of capital, the rate of interest, or the movement of prices.'

"Probably there are fashions in thinking, as there are in other things in life. The present fashion, popular at least with a considerable section of people, is to wear mourning. Any changes of fashion of interest to human beings are the result of thought and action. It would be interesting to know who will think out the changes in the present fashion of thinking."

Can't all of us help? If everybody swept his own doorstep, the city would be clean."

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Seasoned issues in the listed bond market vied with a large volume of new financing for the favor of investors today. New loans totaling more than $38,000,000 were offered, but the listed market showed no change of trend, although the domestic list was spotty as sellers found it necessary to accept bids slightly under the previous final prices.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and third-seconds of dollars):

STOCK LIST'S EARLY GAINS EXTENDED

Utilities Brought Forward As Leaders, Food Shares Make Show of Strength

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Efforts to revive interest in a stock market advance met with indifferent success today. Several groups manifested a willingness to go higher, but buying activity was limited and shorts took their time about recovering.

The week's summaries of conditions in the steel industry and the August foreign trade figure, showing the first gain in exports in several months afforded some basis for mild bullish operations, although the report that steel production was only holding its own failed to generate much contagious enthusiasm. Moderate advances on a small volume of trading in the earlier hours were extended later when the utilities were brought forward as leaders and there was some strength in the food shares.

Stocks like U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Water Works, Coca Cola and Public Service of New Jersey improved a point or so. Brooklyn Union Gas and Pacific Lighting gained 2. Republic Steel and J. I. Case advanced nearly 3 and International Combustion Engineering preferred rose 4. Ward Baking "A" soared 8 points. There was some selling in the rails, coppers and motion pictures, resulting in losses of about a point in Paramount Publix, General Theater, Atchison, Southern Railway, St. Louis Southwestern and Kennecott, Atlantic Coast Line went to the lowest price since 1924.

STEEL REVIEWS

The iron and steel reviews reporting little or no change in production averages during the past week, nevertheless found evidence that inquiry was improving and that the price structure was firming. "Steel" said the improvement of the past few weeks was being maintained "superficially at least," and voiced a unanimity of opinion that the corner had been turned. There were numerous indications, the publication added, that large consumers of steel products appraised present levels as the bottom.

"Iron Age" noted scattered evidences of breaking away from hand-to-mouth buying, the first deviation from that policy in many months. The trade paper's output ratio remained unchanged at 58 per cent of capacity, while Dow Jones reported a 2 per cent gain in its figures to the same percentage. Operations at Cleveland, according to "Steel," have advanced from 41 to 50 per cent and at Buffalo from 48 to 53, but Buffalo and Pittsburgh show no change. Chicago mills are down 2 to 55 per cent and Youngstown is off 1 to 58.

CANADIAN TARIFF

The Canadian tariffff revisions appeared to meet with little reaction here, for the new rates had been expected since the recent election. The $34,000,000 increase in this country's exports for August as compared with July was a favorable factor, at least from the short term viewpoint, for with the exception of March America's foreign trade had been declining since last October. It was pointed out, however, that July is normally a slow month and that the August total was $81,000,000 below the figures for the same month last year, although July's decline was $136,000,000 in comparison with July, 1929.

The freight car loadings report covered the week of the Labor Day holiday and revealed a decline of 127,867 cars from the previous week, a loss which some circles found rather discouraging. Gasoline reserves dropped 741,000 barrels in the week ended September 13 and crude oil production fell 17,300 barrels.

Money was plentiful and easy and the first 2 per cent call loan renewal rate in some time was posted at the stock exchange. Outside funds promptly went to 1½.

Western Electric Heavy Copper Buyer

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric Company, states the company has purchased a sufficient quantity of copper in the last six weeks to take care of needs of the Bell system for approximately four months.

Mr. Bloom said that when copper prices are considered high purchases are small, but that prevailing price of red metal warrants purchases which will cover requirements over the end of the year.

Sinclair-Standard Deal Is Approved

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. Stockholders of Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation at a special meeting today approved sale of the company's half interest in Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company and Sinclair Pipe Line Company to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for $72,500,000.

Reserve Report Shows Loans on Securities Cut by $32,000,000

The consolidated condition statement of member banks reporting to the Federal Reserve showed loans on securities cut again by $32,000,000 in the week ended September 10. Loans for the account of member banks in the New York district were reduced by $112,000,000 but increases in advances for account of banks in other districts, particularly at Chicago, Philadelphia and Cleveland, brought the net reduction down to the first small-sized figure. The consolidated report also revealed a further gain of $16,000,000 in all other principally commercial borrowings for the period, this moderate though steady expansion in several weeks being looked upon as reflecting a gradually improving commercial demand arising from seasonal pickup in activity.

Another severe slump in Grigsby-Grunow, which carried it down sharply yesterday into new low levels for the year, served to arouse a good deal of discussion relative to the position of the company. The open market value of the stock has been just about halved since late last week, the result of a decline from around 13 to a low yesterday morning of about 6½. The stock sold as high as 972 before the 4-for-1 splitup voted in August last year, and the present issue sold as high as 69¾ during 1929. The company is understood to be feeling the effects of severe competition that has marked the radio field this year, and likewise the fight for business in the electrical refrigeration field in which it is interested through ownership of one-quarter of the stock of the Majestic Household Utilities Corporation. As of May 31 last, current assets of $1,134,389 were comprised largely of inventories and receivables, cash at that time standing at $936,850 as against $3,285,994 a year previous.

Allis Chalmers has been one of the outstanding exceptions to the general situation this year. In the face of business recessions in other concerns, the company has not only reported increased earnings, but also an expansion in unfilled orders. On September 1, despite a decrease in August, the company's bookings were slightly more than 20 per cent in excess of those at the beginning of the year. Interests in the company are confident that the good showing reported in the first half of the year will be maintained in the last six months. They base this view on the good back-log of business.

Best & Co. continues to hold its gain in sales. For August, an increase of $47,060, or 7.9 per cent, over the corresponding month last year was shown, while the gain for the first seven months of the fiscal year was 550,472, or 7 per cent over the 1929 period. The company has not been expanding its volume at the expense of its profit margin. For the first half of this year the earnings recorded an increase of $77,856, or 14.16 per cent, over the corresponding period of 1929, with the results equal to $1.09 a share on the 200,000 shares of capital stock outstanding.

Continental Can has been one of the few concerns to maintain earnings this year near the 1929 level. The issue has been meeting good buying at times recently, following reappraisals of the crop situation. They indicated that some of the reports of drought damage had been overemphasized. Leading interests contend that the can companies will be among the leaders in any general upswing in the market. The unusual stability of earnings of can makers has been demonstrated forcibly this year.

Although considerable comment has been heard at times recently concerning the attitude of leading bankers toward the market, and certain of the bulls have insisted that banking interests were favoring a higher range, an investigation made in the financial district leads to the belief that the principal bankers still are on the side lines watching the market. In certain issues, selling has come from banks which had been carrying the stocks since late last year when the market was given some support.

Signs of Improvement Seen in Business

By GEORGE H SNYDER

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT can be seen in the business situation. The belief is general that the bottom of the depression has been passed. But the recovery of recent weeks has been slight and it has made itself known only at isolated points. The change has not been sufficiently marked to warrant any predictions of a rapid recovery.

A seasonal gain in activity was to be expected this month with the termination of the vacation period. Up to the present the improvement has been of less than normal proportions for this time of year.

While most bankers and business men expect some revival in October and November, few are willing to forecast any radical change in the business situation before the beginning of 1931.

Steel Improved

STEEL PRODUCERS have increased operations slightly during the past four weeks. Output is still at a disappointingly low rate. Makers of steel sheets report that orders have materially increased this month. This has taken place in spite of continued lack of any important demand from the automobile trade; farm implement makers or railroad car builders. The steel sheet trade has stabilized prices which have been on the toboggan during most of the present year. Rumors have been current that quotations on other types of steel products may be increased within a short time.

At this date it seems unlikely that very much progress can be made towards increasing the return per ton of steel before the end of the year. Conditions in the industry make the establishment of higher prices a slow business.

Output Below Consumption

IN MANY INDUSTRIES production appears to have been sealed down to a point below consumption. Caution in buying has reduced the inventories of retail merchants to a low level. On the other hand slow collections have increased accounts receivable to larger than normal amounts.

The drastic curtailment of output has permitted the liquidation of surplus stocks and has given business a good foundation for a resumption of activity. But just when the buying movement necessary to start the wheels spinning will take place is anyone's guess.

Earnings to Decline

EARNINGS STATEMENTS of most corporations for the third quarter of the year will be less encouraging than those of the first and second quarters. This will be particularly noticeable in the steel industry which suffered from further price weakness and declines in operations during July and August.

The weakness in commodity prices in nearly all parts of the world has put the brakes on fundamental industries to such an extent that it will take a long time to regain a satisfactory momentum. Quotations on wheat, cotton, sugar, rubber, copper and coffee have declined to points below the average costs of production. The business situation cannot be fully restored until the value of these important staples has started to increase to a level giving producers a margin of profit.

WALL STREET HEARS

That one of the larger steel companies will announce a price advance.

That General Foods will earn about $4 this year.

That Norfolk and Western may split four for one and possibly increase the dividend to an equivalent of $12 on the present stock.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"Miss Prim"

"And there's Patty Winters," Bert Merwin said, when they were making up a list for a Saturday night "Oh Be Joyful," as the art students at Purnell's called their weekly parties.

"She's out," Don Kelley objected. "Who wants a Miss Prim around?"

Some of the others laughed a little.

Bert nodded.

"That's so. She'd be shy and we'd be bored," he agreed.

More than that, Madge Hunlock added, she's just the type to not only be shocked, but to go and blab to people and give them a wrong impression.

"Oh, I don't know," interrupted Rex Glidden. "She hasn't been here long and I don't believe she's really a Miss Prim. I think she's just timid."

"Time will keep your eye on those prim girls," Madge said. "I mean a bit."

Rex was mystified.

Patty was not invited to the week's party.

Her room mate V. Ashton, one of the exceptions to that rule, was disappointed. Patty had secured another room and was to move in that evening. She couldn't stand V. and she preferred to room alone and she wanted a higher-priced room than V. could stand for.

"Listen, Patty," [illegible] snap out of it if they dislike you. Don't be dumb or a hermitess. Step out a little," V. advised.

"Thanks. I'm quite all right," Patty said sweetly.

So V. went on her way to the Saturday night Patty—the Purnell Art students always called their weekly affairs "Parties" with the capital P, because they were always full of class and pep—especially pep.

Patty had her belongings moved across the street to the Egmont where she had secured three [illegible] rooms for herself. She left a note for V., explaining she had to study and was somewhat nervous and thought it best to room alone.

Adopted by Kin

Established in her new quarters, she placed two small framed photographs on the dresser in her sleeping room. One was of a rather solemn appearing man somewhere around 60. The other was of a meek appearing woman who might have been anywhere from 40 to 50.

The man was her great-uncle Horace Winters.

The woman was her aunt Emmy Truxton.

They were the reason for Patty being able to afford a three-room apartment, plenty of nice clothes and the costly training in the Purnell Art School.

Patty had been left without anything at all except her father's debts and a desire to be an artist.

Great-Uncle Horace and Aunt Emmy had held a conference after the funeral.

"We must take care of her," Horace had said.

He and Emma Truxton never did get along together at all.

"There's no compulsion," Emmy declared, more to be on the opposite side than anything else.

"Very well. I will assume responsibility—I shall not have it said that I was too miserly to help my own relative—and I can afford it."

It was a mighty good thing for Patty that Horace said this. It put Aunt Emmy on her mettle.

"I guess I'm neither miserly nor stingy, Horace Winters," she cried, "and if she wishes to study art I'll see her through!"

"Art! Art! That's too frivolous for a Winters—those art students are ungodly—I'll not permit it!"

"If you are afraid that a Winters cannot become an artist without becoming sinful, then I'll take the entire burden," Emmy declared.

The result was that Patty Winters was given a most generous lump sum by Aunt Emmy and a very decent allowance by Great-Uncle Horace, and off she went to the art school.

Great-Uncle Horace had taken Patty aside and talked to her.

"I do not approve of the modern generation," he said, "but you are a Winters, you won't do anything to disgrace the name and force me to leave my property to some charity—you won't take up drinking and smoking and this wicked so-called broadminded view of—er—sex."

Advised by Lawyer

"The very idea!" Patty exclaimed.

Aunt Emmy called her aside.

"I want to be proud of you, Patty, so be very careful of yourself—you are old enough to know what I mean. I could never leave my property to a—a bad girl!"

"It hadn't occurred to me to be be bad," Patty answered wearily.

She went to see the old family lawyer. She intended to pay her late father's debts out of the money, but these had already been settled. She told her lawyer all about the private talks.

"Your great-uncle has an immense fortune, it's worth standing on your head a year to get that, and your Aunt Emmy has twice as much—if she tells you to fly, you go ahead and fly—it's worth it," was his advice.

And so Patty Winters became a "Miss Prim."

Vi Ashton was decidedly peeved to find that Patty had gone away to take a little apartment of her own, but instead of admitting this, she broadcast to the effect that she was glad to get rid of Patty, because she was such a dull, prudish "goody-goody" girl.

Great-Uncle Horace augmented his gift to Patty with an allowance equal to that from Aunt Emmy, but he first came to the city and unexpectedly dropped in on Patty.

Patty was alone in her room. She was reading a large volume descriptive of period costumes. There wasn't an ash tray or cigaret stub in sight.

Great-Uncle Horace approved. He also went his way, but he first made a formal call on Aunt Emmy to tell her about Patty.

One he said would expect nothing else from a Winters. The girl is of exceptional fine character and has nothing in common with this [illegible] set of drinking, smoking and [illegible] love-making.

The Saturday night student parties erupted. Patty was not invited. Rex Glidden hinted broadly that she should be asked, but it was the same excuse [illegible]-necked kill-joy of a Miss Prim was wanted to put a dampener on their gay times.

There was a little secret society among the students. If one had been there a year he might be taken into this or he might not. In case he was there was always some wild stunt or other he had to do—a close copy of certain junior frat initiations.

Rex Glidden was taken into the A R T, which didn't mean what you think at all, but "All Royal Tipplers."

A Hard Task

"You Glidden," he was told, "will take five of us and four girls and call on 'Miss Prim,' informing her that she is to entertain us."

"Ouch!" said Rex, who knew better than to demur further.

This seemed to promise to be laughable stunt, to go there and sit about and have lemonade and cheese and crackers—which would be just about "Miss Prim's" limit.

They started at once so Patty could get no warning.

Rex led the way and when Patty opened the door he said, "There are nine of us, come 'to be given a party, Miss Prim!'"

Patty stared at him and blushed. Then she saw the grinning faces of the others back of him.

Without a smile she bowed and said, "Miss Prim bids you welcome."

They trooped in.

The leader's part was to embarrass Patty with demands for this and that.

"Cigarets—where are they?" he called out.

"Please to be seated," Patty said, determinedly, "and we will have a reading from the classics."

Someone laughed and others groaned audibly. Rex Glidden was very much embarrassed when Patty brought out from her book case a large tome bound in calf.

Someone ran to her radio, crying, "We'll have some dancing, anyway."

"Sorry, the radio is out of order," Patty said.

She opened the big book and held it out. It contained cigarets!

Ash trays and lighters appeared from unexpected places very suddenly.

"Perhaps," Patty said to Rex, "you can help me fix the radio."

He went over and tried to turn a dial but Patty let down the whole front. In place of coils and tubes there was a complete outfit—shakers, glasses, well-filled bottles, lemons, two siphons, limes and syrups.

From a vase she produced large dice. An innocent little table top turned over and disclosed a miniature roulette outfit.

And a small cabinet proved to be a real radio.

Patty started to mix something—she used a very large shaker that had set on a base with an ornamental false top which made it appear like a huge silver case.

Aunt Arrives

"This," said Patty, "is a 'Miss Prim.'"

In 10 minutes the party was pepped up. In 20 they were toasting Patty and kicking themselves for having been fooled by her.

And then there was a caller. It was Aunt Emmy!

Patty seemed to be in for it—she would tell Great-Uncle Horace and allowances would stop—everything would go to smash. She pictured herself forced to flip wheat cakes in a restaurant window. But she was game.

She invited her aunt in and introduced her.

"For heavens' sake!" cried Aunt Emmy, and then she said: "Mix me one of those like she's got—it looks good."

Patty poured one and Aunt Emmy drank it.

"So you are really real! Well, well and well. I'm proud of you, Patty—I'm going to open up a big apartment here for us and we'll entertain your friends right along and if Great-Uncle Horace gets snooty, what do we care?"

Aunt Emmy was soon so busy showing the guests how they used to do a five-step schottische that she didn't notice Patty and Rex over in a corner, openly petting. It was a great evening.

Great-Uncle Horace never heard the story, and when Patty and Rex were married, Aunt Emmy took them to Paris to study—and she helped them throw wonderful parties.

There are a great many who remember those cocktails served in the Quarties Latin—the French students called them, "Mees Preem!"

Education of Children In Country Costs Less

The State Department of Public Instruction has made an interesting study of the average cost for each pupil in the public schools of Pennsylvania. The cost is determined by dividing the total expenditure for the administration of the schools of a district, including salaries, textbooks, supplies, fuel and repairs (but not the cost of new buildings), by the number of pupils in the district.

The figures indicate that the more populous a community is the more money per pupil is spent on education. In Pittsburgh and Philadelphia the average cost per pupil last year was $125.80; in cities of between 30,000 and 500,000 the figure was $101.37; in cities and boroughs of between 5,000 and 30,000 it was $84.72, and in the other districts, having a population of less than 5,000 it was $73.85.

While there were exceptions—Pike County, for instance, which, though one of the least populous, spent $131.58 per pupil last year, or nearly $6 more than Pittsburgh and Philadelphia—the figures permit the general rule to be laid down that expenditures for public education per pupil are in proportion to population. In short, the city child receives a more expensive education than his country cousin.

This gives point to the demand that is being so generally made that the rural boy's or girl's opportunity for education be equalized. No one will grudge the money spent for education in the cities, but there will be a desire in forward-looking persons that just as much be spent for the country children.

Happily, the trend is in that direction. With large consolidated schools of many rooms and classes and teachers, with buses providing free transportation from homes miles away, the country pupil is, in many districts, now receiving an education that comes favorably with that given in the city schools.

The school term in the country often is much shorter than in the city. But that will no doubt be changed, too.

New Ordinance to Stop Automobile Tag-Fixing

City Council has before it an ordinance drawn up by the Better Traffic Committee to stop tag-fixing, by which is meant the use of political influence by traffic offenders to avoid answering to Traffic Court for their offenses.

There is a crying need for such an ordinance. Tag-fixing is making a mockery of Traffic Court. Offenders on friendly terms with ward chairmen and other such politicians may violate parking and other regulations with impunity. Persons without influence are fined. It is a travesty on justice.

How serious the situation has become may be judged from the fact that while nearly 200,000 tags were handed out by the police during the past year for traffic offenses less than half the tags reached Traffic Court and a considerably smaller proportion of the cases were heard by the magistrate.

The Better Traffic Committee's ordinance to end the evil involves a great deal of "red tape," bookkeeping, "checking and double checking." It is to be regretted that a more simple remedy is not available. Nevertheless, if Council can find nothing better to offer, it would do well to adopt the measure.

More Golf Courses Is Popular Demand

Stimulated, perhaps, by the interest aroused by the miniature game, the demand for more public golf courses in Pittsburgh is becoming more insistent. It is a popular demand, as indicated by 1,500 signatures on a petition to City Council to establish a course in East Liberty near the Washington boulevard.

There are objections to that course, and the other proposal—that the city buy the course of the Stanton Heights Golf Club—probably will not be cordially received because of the cost. It was suggested several years ago that a course be laid out in Frick Woods Park, but opposition arose from those who are unwilling to have its natural beauty spoiled.

Pittsburgh has fewer public golf courses than other cities of its size. The topography is not favorable. But it is to be hoped that notwithstanding discouragement the quest will continue until additional facilities are provided the public for playing the healthful game.

In the meantime let the County Commissioners expedite the work on the courses in the North and South parks.

Nicaraguan Canal Needed

It Will Be Advantageous to All Sections.

Authorization of the construction of the Nicaraguan Canal, advocated by the Hearst newspapers since 1893, ought to be the outstanding legislation of the forthcoming session of Congress.

President Hoover has ordered the Secretary of War to expedite the Army engineers' survey of the proposed route. A favorable engineering report should spell ACTION.

Absolute need for another, wider canal across the isthmus is clearly indicated. Panama Canal tonnage now exceeds all estimates when that waterway was completed. The American people have paid $3,000,000 for a Nicaraguan route.

Tremendous benefits would accrue not only to Central America but to three great sections of our own nation—the Atlantic states, the Pacific states, the Mississippi River and the Gulf states.

New York would be one day nearer California; New Orleans two days nearer. The nation would save $4,000,000 in ship operation. In the quicker transit of freight and passengers, the Nicaraguan Canal would save countless millions more.

Resultant prosperity to Central American republics would tend to stabilize those troubled regions. The canal would make easier the defense of the western hemisphere by the navies of the western world.

When the survey resolution was before Congress, William Randolph Hearst pointed out to Congressman Loring Black that—

"It is not an enterprise, therefore, which can be opposed because of special benefits conferred upon one section. It will prove of advantage to all sections and should have the support of the representatives of all sections."

It would be a master stroke for the Hoover administration, a task worthy of a great nation and of distinguished service to the world.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

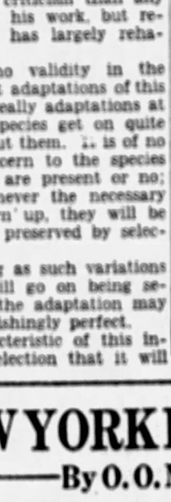
SECTION 4. The Selection of Characters Which are Useless to the Species.

The brilliant but cumbersome plumes of polygamous male birds like peacock or argus pheasant must have been developed, like the mimicry we have been discussing, without any benefit accruing to the species as a whole.



H. G. Wells

In some ways they must actually be disadvantageous, since they utilize a disproportionate share of the energy and material resources of their possessors, and make them so much more conspicuous and less agile that they must incur greater mortality. They confer advantage simply on one male as against another male.

If we like to coin a special term for the selection which can thus transform all the individuals of a species (or of one sex within a species) without conferring any advantage on the species as a whole, we can call it intra-specific selection.

Darwin showed himself acutely aware of one aspect of this process, produced by competition—namely, that between rival males or between rival females, and called it Sexual Selection. It has given us the vast size and strength of the bull bison and the elephant seal, the mane of the lion (apparently a defensive protection in conflict), the vast antlers of a stag, and the brilliant plumage of birds to which we have just alluded. Darwin's theory of Sexual Selection has undergone more adverse criticism than any other part of his work, but recent research has largely rehabilitated it.

There is no validity in the argument that adaptations of this sort are not really adaptations at all if other species get on quite happily without them. It is of no biological concern to the species whether they are present or no; and yet whenever the necessary variations turn up, they will be automatically preserved by selection.

And so long as such variations arise, they will go on being selected; until the adaptation may become astonishingly perfect.

It is characteristic of this intra-specific selection that it will neither extinguish an unadapted type in which no variations making for the adaptation have occurred, nor check the adaptation, once started, from going on to exaggerated perfection; while ordinary natural selection, in which the character selected is of value to the species as a whole, will achieve both.

It seems certain that a great deal of selection is working to produce adaptations of this curious sort. It is equally certain that in the human species similar results, equally obligatory for individuals or nations who wish to keep their heads above water, but equally useless to the community or the world as a whole, will be produced by the struggle of a purely competitive society, or of purely competitive international relations—unless man does what the animals cannot do, and, by deliberate agreement and convention, destroys the need for that vast amount of merely useless but otherwise inevitable competition.

SEC. 5. ISOLATION AS A SPECIES-MAKER.

Natural Selection gives a satisfactory explanation of all evolution that is advantageous. But many of the differences between closely related creatures do not appear to confer any biological advantage at all.

In the first place, more geographical separation certainly helps in the development of difference. Many wide-ranging species can be divided into geographical races or sub-species, inhabiting different areas.

When there is no geographical break, one sub-species generally faded gradually into another across an intermediate zone.

This is beautifully illustrated by the wrens of South America. There is an almost continuous wren-population over the continent; the wrens of different regions differ markedly in size, in color, in pattern, in proportions, but the various types grade into each other.

PROBABILITY AND CERTAINTY

By Archibald Henderson

Probability, the likelihood of a certain event happening, gives a fascination and adds an excitement to every phase of human life. Every man or woman, at some time or other, plays his hunches. Something within seems to tell us that a certain event will surely occur: a horse will win a race, a card drawn from a deck will win a bet, even that a certain formula will give a desired result. Napoleon had a firm belief in his star. By that star, he meant not luck but fate, not chance but destiny.

Games of chance, of whatever nation, have their existence and maintain their support through this strange delusion of the human mind. Many people have a vivid sense of their own power on luck or good fortune; and such persons have only a very imperfect sense of actuality. Games of chance seem to be invented for them, rather than that they are intruments for chance. The gambler thinks of himself as the pivot about which the wheel of fortune revolves. He is ego-centric, mystical, self-deluded. This explains the existence and continued prosperity of a great gambling resort like Monte Carlo.

It is not difficult to see how such a resort is maintained. At roulette, the stalls are numbered from zero to 36 inclusive. Whenever zero appears, the bank takes half the stake; and this gains, of course, one-half in 37, or 1.35 per cent on the even chances. If the gambler bets on a number and wins, the bank pays him 35 times his stake instead of 36 times; and thus wins on the average one stake in 37, or 2.7 per cent from the numbers. It is obvious that the gain in the bank, in the long run, must average more than 2 per cent. Counting the establishment's gains at Trente-et-Quarante, a game played with six packs of cards, it has been compiled that the gains, all told, cannot fall much below 2.5 per cent.

We have all heard, if only through a song widely popular, of the "Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." In a sense, this is an event which happens not with extreme infrequency. This does not mean that the gambler breaks the gambling establishment, but only one of the 31 tables constantly in use. As Norwood says in Fortune: If a gambler puts the maximum on a number, and on all its connections, and also on the appropriate even chances, he stands to win a large sum when the number appears. If such an event occurs several times the table's money will be exhausted. I have seen 17 appear three times in succession when the stakes placed upon it and its combinations, by a single gambler, were on each occasion the maximum. The profit was very large.

We hear much of systems for breaking the bank. Thousands of such systems have been invented, and many people buy these alleged "systems" for a consideration. But, of course, there is no such system, nor will such a system ever be invented, one believes. If there were such a system, it would be exploited by the inventor, who would quickly amass a colossal fortune.

It is futile to make a record of each coup, and attempt to generalize from such results. A system, built up in this way, would be of no more value than one invented by a person who knew the result of not a single throw. The reason for this is that the games played at Monte Carlo are genuine games of chance; and on that account, present results will have no effect upon future eventualities. The past cannot control, or even affect, the future.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Gasoline Fountains

A price war between the big gasoline dabblers generally has but one translation. How far can the companies raise the price before the consumer goes to war?

Having grown tired of playing with the motorist, like a cat playing with a taxidermist, the gasoline papas are now actually engaged in a price skirmish and are reducing the cost of knocking cylinders.

We saw a war on the West Coast last summer and it got very vicious. They clipped the cost of engine syrup until you could fill your tanks with elixir of mileage for almost zero.

The losing company offered to fill aquariums, pocket lighters and parlor lamps free of charge. But their rivals countermanded this order by drowning tourists in gasoline at no expense to the sorrowing relatives.

This war should be encouraged for motorists who are paying 20 cents for a container of engine food. And not getting the best drinking gasoline at that.

We should have volunteers to act as spies at the filling stations and start trouble by false reports of rival activities.

When big corporations get sore at each other they will stir heaven and earth into a thick paste. Nobody is going to undersell them if they are forced to give it away and pay 10 cents for the return of the empty bag.

We are happy to state that the price war is simmering gently and coming to a slow boil. The Undersized Oil Company will now fill your tanks with gasoline and shampoo you with a gallon of creamy emulsion of axle grease.

The Non-explosive Gasoline Corporation will not only fill your tanks, the baby's bottle, shampoo you, but they will put three coats of shellac on your maiden aunt, simonize the table fruit and clean all the spots off your vest. Absolutely free of charge and no blindfolded indorsement.

It's to our advantage to keep these incorporated antagonists mad at each other. If we can work them into a series of frenzied details they will not only turn the gasoline hose on you, but give you rain checks for the next filling station.

We will be taking baths in the stuff, starting the kitchen fire with it and landscaping the terraces with inflammable duck ponds.

A filling station that discovers you are using rival gasoline will empty your tanks, refill them, paint your fenders with gasoline, vulcanize your raccoon coat with gold leaf and give every traffic cop a bouquet of American beauty roses.

War is war. So get ready for a lot of happy reprisals.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Sentiment alone—an emotion flinty Manhattan is reputed to lack—will save "The Little Church Around the Corner" from the voraciousness of the building destroyers. Although it has stood in mellow glory 82 years, greedy skyscraper promoters are after the site.

Already a dollar-a-head alumni fund is being raised to preserve the sanctuary. I turned out of the boiling avenue hub-bub yesterday and in a few steps reached this elm-leafy haven of amazing tranquility. A cloud of white pigeons wheeled above the cross. The mullioned windows glinted rainbow serenity.

Its actual name is the Church of the Transfiguration, but Joseph Jefferson, the actor, bestowed the title by which it is known. George Holland, a kindly actor, was refused burial service at a neighboring church. Jefferson was told: "The little church around the corner will do it."

In his grief, he choked: "Then God bless this little church around the corner." O. Henry's last rites were spoken there. It is one of the most popular marrying places in all the city, the sidewalk being constantly sprinkled with rice and the guiter with a hurled good luck slipper or so.

In springtime its front garden, slit with cool brick walks, is bright with the verve of fragrant jonquils. Inside is an ecclesiastical "Green Room" for actors. The pew of Lester Wallack is preserved. Its pastor for nine years has been the Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, from Dallas, Tex., a humanitarian unshackled by ecclesiasticism.

During unemployment crisis, Dr. Ray fed a breadline at his gates that totaled 75,000 storm-tossed souls. He frequently turns away impulsive elopers and sends them back to parental roofs. The services are usually attended by a sprinkle of stage and screen personalities.

As a fairly obliging cicerone for out-of-town friends I find "The Little Church" is almost invariably among the first three places total strangers wish to see—the other two being the Broadway lights and Central Park. It will be a pity if the church has to go.

He was a contented white wing, whistling along with his perambulating cart in the evening hush. A discarded gutter bundle caught his eye and he swerved to the curb. Unwinding the string displayed a bunch of withered flowers. He held them to his nose, glanced at me a little sheepishly and exclaimed: "Them's lilacs—lilacs with a perfume." And I'm the sort of softie who went on with a queer twist in my throat.

Tiffany's seems the only signless store left on the avenue. Its only distinguishing marks are the small brass numbers 409 over the door. Window exhibits are usually a dull bronze on a lash of sombre plush. Its doorman resembles a courtly gallant of other days. Yet the dignity has paid. It is one of the most highly profitable jewelry establishments in the land.

R. R. F. writes in to inquire what I think of H. L. Mencken's Pan-America policy. The back of my neck to him. He can tell him himself. It is about the thirty-fourth variation of that one. There is no fun panning Mencken anway. He takes it too graciously.

At Thirty-eighth street and Park avenue at 7:15 last night by a sturdy Cartier wrist watch, a lady with a Gay Ninety pug dog, even to the red ribbon neck bow, went ambling by. The dog waddled with fat, wheezed from asthma, had bulbous eyes and a tightly twisted corkscrew tail. I rushed into a nearby apartment house, dragged Courtney Ryley Cooper out to see, but it was gone. Policeman at three adjacent corners said they had not seen it. It wouldn't surprise me if I am not even in New York.

If anyone, however, seriously doubts I did not see that pug dog I will gladly furnish the badge numbers of the policemen I questioned, my reason for being in the neighborhood at that particular time and a sock on the jaw.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Winter coming on, no price for cattle or crops, everything haywire on the farm . . . more thoughts on this farm relief situation.

My ranch is eight miles from a busy little town of 3,000—glass fronts, striped awnings, two movies, pee-wee golf course 'n' everything. Through the hills, on the other side of my ranch, a road runs. It is a pleasant road, shaded by great oaks, bordered by streams beyond which stretch sunny grazing fields where cattle range.

For about 15 miles this road runs through the hills, passing in its course some 20 ranch houses. Roomy ranch houses, with big barns adjacent and a homey clutter of woodsheds and washhouses. Life might be very pleasant for the dwellers along the road, busy with their chores, visiting together in the evenings. But, as a matter of fact, it isn't. FOR NOT A SINGLE ONE OF THOSE HOMES IS TENANTED.

Have the owners died? Have they failed and did the banks foreclose? No—the owners are very much alive and their titles are, for the most part intact. But THE WOMEN FOLK WANTED TO LIVE IN THE CITY.

It started with the automobiles. Before that, Ma 'n' Pa went to town a couple of times a month in the buggy. A slow, jogging journey that took all day. Sometimes, a visiting along the way with a neighbor, exchanging geranium slips and wild gooseberry jam, discussing "black leg," they spent the week end. These trips were great events. For weeks after they gave food for gossip and speculation. But, for all that, they were tiresome. Ma 'n' Pa were well content to settle down at home and rest in between the visits.

Then came the automobile. The trip that had taken a day took an hour. The fun and excitement that had been a monthly luxury now became a daily necessity. Presently they were yawning, wondering what to do with themselves, feeling sorry for themselves if they had to spend an evening at home. Why spend lonely hours on the porch, looking out over empty fields, when other women and other kids were walking the streets, looking into shop windows, stopping in at Burnhams for a banana special? Or in the evening, taking in a movie or a whist game? Why waste your life trying to keep a big barn of a place clean, when there were city apartments where you could tidy up everything in an hour, with the grocery and bakery so handy?

Dad, working his fields, rounding up his cattle, was still content. But Ma, rocking on an empty porch, stewing over a hot stove . . . MA AND THE KIDS WERE SICK OF IT. THEY WANTED TO GO PLACES AND DO THINGS! SO MA 'N' THE KIDS GOT THEIR WAY.

Now the road winds past empty houses. Pa comes down occasionally to salt the cows or brand the calves. Sometimes he stays over night—cooks his meal on the rusting stove, beds down in some old blankets. But he doesn't stay long. It isn't like home any more. So what's the use of keeping things up, ship-shape, if there's nobody to use them? What's the use of pruning the orchard or planting new trees when the birds get the crops? And why bother to raise vegetables when you can step into a store and get all you want for 50 cents?

"THE WOMEN FOLK WANT TO LIVE IN THE CITY" . . . I suspect that phrase has devastated more farms than all the blights, grass hoppers, hoof and mouth diseases and stock market slumps put together.

Isn't It So?

Never try to get something for nothing unless you are prepared to pay twice as much as it is worth.

When a woman tells her husband he needs a change, it is likely she is hinting for a little change.

A henpecked husband may be as useful around the house as a vacuum cleaner, but he is never allowed to make such an irritating noise.

Text for Today

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you bored with the sort of life you lead?

Monotonous—one month and one year after another, you long for something different.

You might have some variation, but the opportunities that come to you do not appeal, so you lead a drab life.

But what of it, that your life is not all that you wish it?

Few people are able to gratify even a small percentage of their desires.

Being displeased with life because you can't have every whim gratified is a child's way of looking at things.

You greatly enjoyed your automobile—the first you ever owned.

Since then you have owned several, but you have not had a thrill to compare with what you felt the first time you sat at the wheel of one you owned.

Now there is a longing for a car beyond the reach of your purse.

It takes half the enjoyment from your present drives in what is a much better car than you could own at first.

Why are you not satisfied with what you can own, if it is the best you can get on your income?

Instead, you go down the list and count your life colorless because you can't have the unattainable and fail to get the beauty and the pleasure from little that would be interesting and delightful if you would look at things right.
